Segregation Decision By High Court Far Off

Tribunal Hears Final Arguments

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The great debate on whether segregation of white and Negro children in public schools violates the Constitution came quietly to a close today in the Supreme Court.

Now in the calm of their judicial chambers and in conferences among themselves, the nine justices must determine who is right:

1. The states which have said over and over that segregation is entirely legal if Negroes have as good schools as whites, or 2. lawyers for Negro parents who argued it is unconstitutional under any circumstances and a holdover from the days of slavery.

Decision Far Off

The epochal decision, with its far-reaching social implications, may not come before next spring, when this term of court ends.

Seventeen states and the District of Columbia have compulsory racial segregation for their millions of children in public schools. Three other states permit it.

Mostly they are in the South, where several states already are considering substituting private for public schools if the Supreme Court strikes down segregation. Mississippi took a first preliminary step yesterday, as Georgia had done before.

Issue In Simple Terms

In its simplest terms, the weighty issue now before the highest court of justice is whether to rule that segregation in itself goes against the Constitution or to stand pat on its half-century-old doctrine that racial separation is valid provided Negroes are given equal facilities with whites.

Three days of arguments came to an end today with Delaware taking its place beside Virginia, South Carolina and Kansas in contending the Supreme Court has no authority to end segregation and the states should be left free to handle the issue in their own way through their own legislatures.

Parley Totters; Americans Pack To Return Home

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Dec. 10 (AP)—U. S. diplomats today were reported packing to go home as efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference appeared to be breaking down.

U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean told the Communists yesterday he would wait "a reasonable time" for them to show they were willing to negotiate, but it was evident his patience was growing short.

"It is apparent that the American delegation will be out of here before Dec. 20," one high source declared. "Our boys are packing."

Diplomats Meet Again

U. S. and Communist diplomats agreed on only one thing—to meet again at 11 a.m. today (9 p.m. Wednesday, EST).

The Communists for the second time Wednesday rejected Dean's "final offer" and insisted again that Russia sit at the peace table as a neutral. This is the issue that has stymied the preliminary talks.

Dean told newsmen he had authority from the 17 nations he represents to break off the talks if it appears that there is no chance for success.

Dean made his "final" proposal Tuesday and gave the Communists a "period of grace" to decide. He said he would not become involved in endless, fruitless argument.

Some Break Expected

Dean was determined, however, to avoid the impression of giving the Reds an ultimatum.

Some break was expected before Christmas, only two weeks away.

Dean's "final" proposal would make Russia a full participant in the conference, voting on the Communist side. He wants Russia to be bound by the treaty, the Reds do not. Dean would also allow some neutrals to sit in as non-voting observers.

Youth Charged In Coach's Death

ALEDO, Ill., Dec. 9 (AP)—A 17-year-old high school youth today was charged with murder in the stabbing of an athletic coach during a scuffle with three students in the corridor of Aledo High School.

James Gipson, 17, was charged with murder. His brother, Charles, 19, and John Lee Hollis, 17, were charged with assault with intent to kill. All three youths are from nearby Seaton.

Sheriff William Albertson of Mercer County said the three youths wept Tuesday when they learned that George Marich, 26, stabbed in the altercation, had died of a knife wound below the heart.

The sheriff quoted James Gipson as saying that "I hardly remember doing it and I don't know why I did it."

The sheriff said he learned that Marich, in charge of the study hall, called the Gipson brothers and Hollis out of the room when someone rolled "something" down the aisle.

Hollis said he told Marich, "don't lay a hand on me," and Marich slapped him. The scuffles began then, the sheriff said, and Hollis later told him "That's the last I remember."

Plans For One Of Five Africa Bases Dropped

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Air Force confirmed today it is eliminating one of the five bases it originally planned to build in North Afica.

Some engineering work already has been done on the base, in the Safi area near the Atlantic coast of Morocco, but actual construction has not started. Congress included $37,153,000 for the base in a $334,937,000 appropriation for all five bases.

Not all of the 37 million dollars will be saved, the Air Force said, because some equipment already is in Morocco. One officer said an effort is being made to move the equipment to Spain, where the United States is opening fields much further north.

Loyalty Probe Secrecy Draws McCarthy Fire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) declared today it is "ridiculous beyond words" for officials in the Eisenhower administration to keep loyalty investigations secret in obedience to a 1948 security order issued by former President Truman.

McCarthy spoke out as his Senate Investigations Subcommittee continued public hearings to determine whether there has been Soviet radar spying in the Army Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

Asserting there is a parallel with the Harry Dexter White case, the Wisconsin senator asserted "some place somebody is tying someone's hands." And he said he is confident President Eisenhower will halt this secrecy if the Army brings it to his attention.

Coleman Denies Espionage

Later the day's chief witness, Aaron H. Coleman, radar engineer recently suspended at Ft. Monmouth, heatedly denied any espionage was involved in his possession of some 40 secret or other documents found at his apartment in 1946.

Coleman acknowledged he once attended a Young Communist League meeting with Julius Rosenberg, the electrocuted atom spy, when they were classmates at the College of the City of New York (CCNY). But, in a statement handed to reporters, Coleman declared that meeting made him "anti-Communist in thought and speech."

Faces Perjury Action

In his testimony, Coleman sharply denied Rosenberg's statement at the spy trial two years ago in New York that Coleman was one of the college classmates he made contact with in later years at Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy, who already had announced he was initiating perjury proceedings against Coleman, then told him Justice Department lawyers are considering whether espionage charges also can be brought on the basis of his admitted removal of secret papers from Ft. Monmouth.

Coleman contended he had authority to take the papers and used them only in his work.

PARIS, Dec. 8 (AP)—Socialist members of the French Parliament today decided to back Marcel Naegelen, former governor general of Algeria, for the presidency of the French Republic. The election by both houses of Parliament will be held Dec. 17.

Vets To Split '54 Dividend Of 190 Million

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Almost five million holders of national service life insurance policies will share a regular dividend of 190 million dollars next year, the Veterans Administration announced today.

District VA offices will handle the bulk of the payments, with the first checks going out about 60 days after the 1954 anniversary date of the policies.

Holders of term policies who are less than 40 years old, the biggest group in the government insurance program, will get 50 cents per month on each $1,000 of insurance for each month the insurance was in effect during the year ending on the anniversary date. The top individual dividend will be about $60.

A VA spokesman said policies must have been in force three months or longer except for veterans on active duty during the Korean hostilities who have now returned to civil life.

Nixon Arrives In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 9 (AP)—Premier Gen. Fazollah Zahedi today welcomed Vice President Richard Nixon and his wife, who flew in from Karachi for a three-day visit to Iran as the last formal call of Nixon's Asiatic tour.

Report Linking Cigarettes, Cancer Stirs Controversy

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — In the wake of medical reports linking cigarette smoking and lung cancer, there were these developments today:

1. One tobacco company official declared the claims "will fall of their own weight."

2. Another company announced it is supporting research into all aspects of "smoking and health."

3. Stocks of principal cigarette firms dropped to new lows for the year on the New York Stock Exchange.

4. A Yale professor declared there still is no proof that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer, but only indications.

5. A survey showed cigarette consumption is on the rise—and that the average American smoker spent $97.54 last year for cigarettes, $6.98 more than he did the previous year.

Scientific reports declaring without qualification that cigarette smoking can cause lung cancer were presented to a medical symposium here yesterday.

There have been previous reports suggesting a relationship.

Dr. Alton Ochsner, head of surgery at Tulane University Medical School, New Orleans, said experiments now have shown there is "a cancer-producing factor in tar derived from smoking of cigarettes."

He added there is a "possibility that the male population of the United States will be decimated by cancer of the lung in another 50 years if cigarette smoking increases as it has in the past, unless some steps are taken to remove the cancer-producing factor in tobacco."

Moscow "No" To Idea Hinted By Vishinsky

U. N. President Hopes Assembly Can Hear Other World Leaders

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky hinted broadly today in the U. N. Assembly that the Soviet Union will reject President Eisenhower's call for an atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

"You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control," Vishinsky said in a brief reference to the atomic problem. He called again for a ban on atomic weapons.

Moscow radio charged Eisenhower was threatening to wage atomic warfare.

Delegates pointed out that Vishinsky did not give a flat answer to the Eisenhower appeal and that the Moscow radio was not the final reaction of the Soviet government. But these diplomats said it appeared that the Russians might not want to go along with the Eisenhower plan.

Hopes Others Follow Suit

The U. N. Assembly president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit said she hoped the Soviet, British and French chiefs of state would speak directly to the U. N. as Eisenhower did yesterday.

She told the 60-nation Assembly Eisenhower had given it an "affirmation of man's desperate need" for assurances of peace in the atomic era. She made her remarks about the three chiefs of state in her valedictory winding up the 8th Assembly.

The annual fall session of the Assembly recessed indefinitely at 6:07 p.m. It can be called back by Mrs. Pandit any time a majority of the 60 nations deems the Korean situation requires urgent consideration here.

Search For Formula Spurred

President Eisenhower's dramatic appearance yesterday with his atomic power pool proposal in the interests of peace gave the final session something of a lift out of the doldrums.

The American initiative spurred delegates to search for a new formula for atomic agreements. Amid all this, however, the Russians kept their own counsel—and consulted Moscow.

American officials were believed by many delegates to be ready to talk facts and figures when the disarmament commission meets, perhaps early in January under U. S. chairmanship.

Flier Is Killed As Jet Explodes

BEL AIR, Md., Dec. 9 (AP) — An Air Force twin jet Night Intruder blew up in the skies over Bel Air today, catapulting the two occupants of the plane into space and killing one of them.

Horrified residents of the town stood in the streets and watched the fliers float to the earth in parachutes.

State police said both men were battered and burned in the blast. The dead man was identified by a spokesman at the Air Research and Development command in Baltimore as W. H. Coldwell, a civilian Air Force inspector who lived in Baltimore. The 31-year-old airman left a wife and two children.

Injured was the pilot, Maj. Vance W. Beckham, attached to ARDC and based at the Glenn L. Martin Co. Middle River plant where the plane, an American version of the British Canberra, is being produced.

Major Beckham was taken to the post hospital at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

The Harford County medical examiner, Dr. Gerald C. Palmer, said Coldwell died of a broken neck.

Ammunition Truck Explodes After Crash

MALVERN, Iowa, Dec. 9 (AP) — Two trucks, one carrying ammunition, collided and the ammunition truck exploded two miles west of here on Highway 34 tonight.

The State Highway Patrol office at Atlantic reported that both trucks were burning, and that ammunition explosions were continuing.

Whether either of the two drivers was injured or killed was not immediately determined.

Highway patrolmen said the continuing explosions were preventing them from getting close to the two burning vehicles.

Granted "Asylum"

This 7-month-old deer has the run of the Mrs. Beatrice Lewis household in North East, Md., during this week's deer hunting season in Maryland. The family sheltered the animal shortly after it was born. It has romped in a nearby woods but right now the Lewis family is keeping the deer inside so it won't become hunter's game. Carolyn Lewis, 7, shown above, gets along nicely with the pet. He sleeps in the kitchen and eats beef stew, hot dogs and pickles.

Clark Remains Defiant As New Judge Is Named

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 9 (AP)—The State Department suspended Chief Justice William Clark today for insubordination and named an associate justice to replace him as head of the U. S. court system in Germany.

Clark called State Department employees "cookie pushers" upon notification of the suspension and said he would ignore it, but declined comment when he learned later that Associate Justice Carl W. Fulghum had been appointed to preside over the three-judge U. S. Appeals Court.

It was round 2 in a transatlantic fight that opened last month.

Contest Possible

The U. S. High Commission, the State Department's arm in West Germany, announced Fulghum will take over Clark's duties immediately.

The appointment of Fulghum, a native of Glenwood Springs, Colo., opened a possibility that the two might contend for the leading role on the bench when the Appeals Court opens its next session Dec. 14.

Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith cabled Clark, a wealthy, 62-year-old jurist from Princeton, N. J., that he was being suspended for insubordination after a directive to return to the United States by Dec. 7 for consultations. Smith instructed Clark to take the first available transportation home and report to Secretary Dulles.

"I'm Going To Remain"

Talking to reporters, Clark snorted derisively as he described State Department workers as cookie pushers.

"You know what cookie pushers are," he said. "They are these State Department people who wear striped pants and sit around drinking tea and pushing cookies back and forth.

"They fired me because I would not take their orders. I'm going to remain and hold court as usual."

Girl's Head, Friend's Body Found In Well

PAMPLICO, S.C., Dec. 9 (AP)—The severed head of Miss Betty Cair Cain and the body of her boy friend, Harvey Allen, 22, of Latta, were found early tonight stuffed in an abandoned well near here.

Officers said both Allen's face and the girl's head were badly beaten.

The well is about a mile from where the 15-year-old girl's body was found Monday.

Officers dug into the well tonight after discovering fresh dirt. They came upon the girl's coat first. The head was buried beneath a pile of cornshucks. Allen's body was underneath, stuffed head first into the well.

Boy's Popcorn Pops With Bang

SUMTER, S. C., Dec. 9 (AP)—Billy Lane's popcorn popped with a bang yesterday, sending the 10-year-old youngster to a physician for treatment.

He said he had walked into a movie with a bag of popcorn in one hand and torpedoes in the other. Inadvertently, he dropped the torpedoes into the bag.

Excited by the movie, he bit down on a torpedo. It exploded, slightly injuring his mouth.

Ike And M'Carthy Run Close Race

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The White House said today "the point of view of the administration is slight ahead" in telegrams received in the controversy over Red trade policy, while the viewpoint of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), "is ahead" in letters opened.

The report was made by presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who said it was based on about 25,000 telegrams and the same number of letters.

Unless there is a significant change in the ratio of sentiment, Hagerty said, he would have nothing more to report.

It all started last Thursday when McCarthy asked citizens to communicate with the White House if they agreed with him that the United States should ban any aid to Allied countries which persist in trading with Communist China.

Later Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-NJ) and others suggested that backers of the President's stand should also register their opinions.

The President's position, as well as that of Secretary of State Dulles, is that Western trade with Red China is negligible and that to threaten cessation of aid would amount to bullying friendly nations.

Sweeping Plan To Purge Reds Launched By GE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The giant General Electric Co. today launched a plan to purge any Communists among its 230,000 employes, many of them key hands in the nation's defense effort.

As far as could be determined, it was the most sweeping loyalty cleanup ever inaugurated in a big private American industrial firm.

The company said the government's security procedures "are not fully adequate in the present condition of world affairs."

General Electric has been a recent target of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), who claimed evidence of past security laxness and present Red acitivity in a few of GE's 131 plants.

Besides ridding itself of Communists, GE said it plans to suspend for 90 days — but with pay — any employe who refuses to answer questions in public hearings of McCarthy's Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, or any other "competent government authority." By public hearings, GE said, it meant hearings open to press and public, with the hearing record available to GE.

GE appealed to the government or Congress to designate some appeals agency to pass on the loyalty of suspended employes, so they may either be reinstated or fired.

Some Christmas Gift

PATERSON, N.J., Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Violet King says that when she asked her husband Frank what he wanted for Christmas he answered, "a piece of paper saying I am divorced."

That's what Mrs. King said in a divorce suit she filed today in Superior Court. She charged cruelty.

Crazed Father Beats Three Of Five Children To Death

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 9 (AP)—The father of five young children went beserk today and beat three of them to death in his East Springfield, Ohio, home, the Jefferson County sheriff's office said.

Two other children were in critical condition in Ohio Valley Hospital and not expected to live.

Deputy Sheriff Russell Wilsac identified the father as Frank Holt, 34. Wilsac said Holt apparently beat all five of his children with a crow bar, and after they were unconscious stomped on them with his feet.

The dead were identified as Sanford, 6; Sidney, 2, and Tracy, 1.

In critical condition in the hospital with skull fractures were Larren Sue, 3, and Doran, 5.

Wilsac said Holt's wife returned from visiting a neighbor at about 4:43 p.m. and found him beating the children.

She fled to call the sheriff's office, but Wilsac said three of the children were dead when officers arrived.

Holt had been released from the Aspinwall, Pa., Veterans Hospital three days ago, Wilsac said. The father had served with the Air Force in the Pacific during World War II.

Holt told officers that he "didn't feel that he had anything to live for, and didn't think they (his children) did either."

His wife was not molested, and was standing by at the hospital, the deputy said.

Russian Radio Charges War Threat By Ike

Top Red Propaganda Commentator Spurns President's Project

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Moscow radio tonight harshly rejected President Eisenhower's plan for an international atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes.

It charged the President "threatened atomic war" in his address before the United Nations yesterday.

Pravda's first mention of the speech, Thursday morning (Moscow time), was an 800-word summary of what Eisenhower said, and a single comment at the end saying: "However, the President in his speech did not express his attitude to the question of outlawing atomic weapons."

Vishinsky's Comment

At the United Nations, Soviet chief delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky said: "You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control."

This was the first Soviet reaction to Eisenhower's bold project inviting Russia and all atomic powers to share fissionable materials and know-how for peaceful production under a United Nations commission to benefit the whole world.

The leading Soviet radio propaganda commentator, Boris Leontyev, in rejecting the Eisenhower plan said: "Eisenhower threatened atomic war and made a eulogy of this policy of force."

His talk as heard in London was broadcast first in French and then repeated in English.

He said: "It is clear that the United States does not want to bring about an international detente (relaxing of strained relations).

"Warmongering" Speech

"The warmongering speech of President Eisenhower and the attitude adopted by the United Nations by the U.S. delegation proves this sufficiently."

Leontyev's editorial comment obviously had to be cleared by Soviet propaganda and foreign affairs authorities before it could be put on the air.

Most of the Western world hailed Eisenhower's speech as a practical approach to the atomic nightmare threatening civilization with destruction. First word from the Soviet Union was eagerly awaited.

U.N. delegates declared that a favorable Soviet response could greatly advance prospects for eventual control of the atom—while a rejection would further harden the East-West deadlock of this life-and-death issue.

Truman Backs Ike's Atom Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A fresh wave of support for President Eisenhower's plan to harness some of the world's atomic energy for peace came from American leaders today.

Former President Truman expressed hope that the Eisenhower plan, unfolded before the United Nations Assembly in New York yesterday, would be carried out and "bring peace into the world."

"A powerful plea for peace and sanity in world affairs" was the way House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts summed it up.

Bernard M. Baruch of New York, whose earlier plan for international control of atomic energy was approved by a majority of the U.N. but rejected by Russia, called the President's speech "a highly necessary expression of concern over the status of atomic and nuclear matters."

Laniel To Accompany Churchill To Europe

TUCKER's TOWN, Bermuda, Dec. 9 (AP)—French Premier Joseph Laniel, pronounced much improved by his physicians, today accepted Prime Minister Churchill's invitation to fly back to Europe with him.

A British delegation spokesman said the party will leave tomorrow night.

U. N. President Hopes Assembly Can Hear Other World Leaders

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky hinted broadly today in the U. N. Assembly that the Soviet Union will reject President Eisenhower's call for an atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

"You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control," Vishinsky said in a brief reference to the atomic problem. He called again for a ban on atomic weapons.

Moscow radio charged Eisenhower was threatening to wage atomic warfare.

Delegates pointed out that Vishinsky did not give a flat answer to the Eisenhower appeal and that the Moscow radio was not the final reaction of the Soviet government. But these diplomats said it appeared that the Russians might not want to go along with the Eisenhower plan.

Hopes Others Follow Suit

The U. N. Assembly president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit said she hoped the Soviet, British and French chiefs of state would speak directly to the U. N. as Eisenhower did yesterday.

She told the 60-nation Assembly Eisenhower had given it an "affirmation of man's desperate need" for assurances of peace in the atomic era. She made her remarks about the three chiefs of state in her valedictory winding up the 8th Assembly.

The annual fall session of the Assembly recessed indefinitely at 6:07 p.m. It can be called back by Mrs. Pandit any time a majority of the 60 nations deems the Korean situation requires urgent consideration here.

Search For Formula Spurred

President Eisenhower's dramatic appearance yesterday with his atomic power pool proposal in the interests of peace gave the final session something of a lift out of the doldrums.

The American initiative spurred delegates to search for a new formula for atomic agreements. Amid all this, however, the Russians kept their own counsel—and consulted Moscow.

American officials were believed by many delegates to be ready to talk facts and figures when the disarmament commission meets, perhaps early in January under U. S. chairmanship.

Flier Is Killed As Jet Explodes

BEL AIR, Md., Dec. 9 (AP) — An Air Force twin jet Night Intruder blew up in the skies over Bel Air today, catapulting the two occupants of the plane into space and killing one of them.

Horrified residents of the town stood in the streets and watched the fliers float to the earth in parachutes.

State police said both men were battered and burned in the blast. The dead man was identified by a spokesman at the Air Research and Development command in Baltimore as W. H. Coldwell, a civilian Air Force inspector who lived in Baltimore. The 31-year-old airman left a wife and two children.

Injured was the pilot, Maj. Vance W. Beckham, attached to ARDC and based at the Glenn L. Martin Co. Middle River plant where the plane, an American version of the British Canberra, is being produced.

Major Beckham was taken to the post hospital at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Ammunition Truck Explodes After Crash

MALVERN, Iowa, Dec. 9 (AP) — Two trucks, one carrying ammunition, collided and the ammunition truck exploded two miles west of here on Highway 34 tonight.

The State Highway Patrol office at Atlantic reported that both trucks were burning, and that ammunition explosions were continuing.

Whether either of the two drivers was injured or killed was not immediately determined.

Highway patrolmen said the continuing explosions were preventing them from getting close to the two burning vehicles.

Granted "Asylum"

This 7-month-old deer has the run of the Mrs. Beatrice Lewis household in North East, Md., during this week's deer hunting season in Maryland. The family sheltered the animal shortly after it was born. It has romped in a nearby woods but right now the Lewis family is keeping the deer inside so it won't become hunter's game. Carolyn Lewis, 7, shown above, gets along nicely with the pet. He sleeps in the kitchen and eats beef stew, hot dogs and pickles.

Clark Remains Defiant As New Judge Is Named

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 9 (AP)—The State Department suspended Chief Justice William Clark today for insubordination and named an associate justice to replace him as head of the U. S. court system in Germany.

Clark called State Department employees "cookie pushers" upon notification of the suspension and said he would ignore it, but declined comment when he learned later that Associate Justice Carl W. Fulghum had been appointed to preside over the three-judge U. S. Appeals Court.

It was round 2 in a transatlantic fight that opened last month.

Contest Possible

The U. S. High Commission, the State Department's arm in West Germany, announced Fulghum will take over Clark's duties immediately.

The appointment of Fulghum, a native of Glenwood Springs, Colo., opened a possibility that the two might contend for the leading role on the bench when the Appeals Court opens its next session Dec. 14.

Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith cabled Clark, a wealthy, 62-year-old jurist from Princeton, N. J., that he was being suspended for insubordination after a directive to return to the United States by Dec. 7 for consultations. Smith instructed Clark to take the first available transportation home and report to Secretary Dulles.

"I'm Going To Remain"

Talking to reporters, Clark snorted derisively as he described State Department workers as cookie pushers.

"You know what cookie pushers are," he said. "They are these State Department people who wear striped pants and sit around drinking tea and pushing cookies back and forth.

"They fired me because I would not take their orders. I'm going to remain and hold court as usual."

Girl's Head, Friend's Body Found In Well

PAMPLICO, S.C., Dec. 9 (AP)—The severed head of Miss Betty Cair Cain and the body of her boy friend, Harvey Allen, 22, of Latta, were found early tonight stuffed in an abandoned well near here.

Officers said both Allen's face and the girl's head were badly beaten.

The well is about a mile from where the 15-year-old girl's body was found Monday.

Officers dug into the well tonight after discovering fresh dirt. They came upon the girl's coat first. The head was buried beneath a pile of cornshucks. Allen's body was underneath, stuffed head first into the well.

Boy's Popcorn Pops With Bang

SUMTER, S. C., Dec. 9 (AP)—Billy Lane's popcorn popped with a bang yesterday, sending the 10-year-old youngster to a physician for treatment.

He said he had walked into a movie with a bag of popcorn in one hand and torpedoes in the other. Inadvertently, he dropped the torpedoes into the bag.

Excited by the movie, he bit down on a torpedo. It exploded, slightly injuring his mouth.

Ike And M'Carthy Run Close Race

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The White House said today "the point of view of the administration is slight ahead" in telegrams received in the controversy over Red trade policy, while the viewpoint of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), "is ahead" in letters opened.

The report was made by presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who said it was based on about 25,000 telegrams and the same number of letters.

Unless there is a significant change in the ratio of sentiment, Hagerty said, he would have nothing more to report.

It all started last Thursday when McCarthy asked citizens to communicate with the White House if they agreed with him that the United States should ban any aid to Allied countries which persist in trading with Communist China.

Later Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-NJ) and others suggested that backers of the President's stand should also register their opinions.

The President's position, as well as that of Secretary of State Dulles, is that Western trade with Red China is negligible and that to threaten cessation of aid would amount to bullying friendly nations.

Sweeping Plan To Purge Reds Launched By GE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The giant General Electric Co. today launched a plan to purge any Communists among its 230,000 employes, many of them key hands in the nation's defense effort.

As far as could be determined, it was the most sweeping loyalty cleanup ever inaugurated in a big private American industrial firm.

The company said the government's security procedures "are not fully adequate in the present condition of world affairs."

General Electric has been a recent target of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), who claimed evidence of past security laxness and present Red acitivity in a few of GE's 131 plants.

Besides ridding itself of Communists, GE said it plans to suspend for 90 days — but with pay — any employe who refuses to answer questions in public hearings of McCarthy's Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, or any other "competent government authority." By public hearings, GE said, it meant hearings open to press and public, with the hearing record available to GE.

GE appealed to the government or Congress to designate some appeals agency to pass on the loyalty of suspended employes, so they may either be reinstated or fired.

Some Christmas Gift

PATERSON, N.J., Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Violet King says that when she asked her husband Frank what he wanted for Christmas he answered, "a piece of paper saying I am divorced."

That's what Mrs. King said in a divorce suit she filed today in Superior Court. She charged cruelty.

Crazed Father Beats Three Of Five Children To Death

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 9 (AP)—The father of five young children went beserk today and beat three of them to death in his East Springfield, Ohio, home, the Jefferson County sheriff's office said.

Two other children were in critical condition in Ohio Valley Hospital and not expected to live.

Deputy Sheriff Russell Wilsac identified the father as Frank Holt, 34. Wilsac said Holt apparently beat all five of his children with a crow bar, and after they were unconscious stomped on them with his feet.

The dead were identified as Sanford, 6; Sidney, 2, and Tracy, 1.

In critical condition in the hospital with skull fractures were Larren Sue, 3, and Doran, 5.

Wilsac said Holt's wife returned from visiting a neighbor at about 4:43 p.m. and found him beating the children.

She fled to call the sheriff's office, but Wilsac said three of the children were dead when officers arrived.

Holt had been released from the Aspinwall, Pa., Veterans Hospital three days ago, Wilsac said. The father had served with the Air Force in the Pacific during World War II.

Holt told officers that he "didn't feel that he had anything to live for, and didn't think they (his children) did either."

His wife was not molested, and was standing by at the hospital, the deputy said.

Russian Radio Charges War Threat By Ike

Top Red Propaganda Commentator Spurns President's Project

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP — Moscow radio tonight harshly rejected President Eisenhower's plan for an international atomic energy pool for peaceful purposes.

It charged the President "threatened atomic war" in his address before the United Nations yesterday.

Pravda's first mention of the speech, Thursday morning (Moscow time), was an 800-word summary of what Eisenhower said, and a single comment at the end saying: "However, the President in his speech did not express his attitude to the question of outlawing atomic weapons."

Vishinsky's Comment

At the United Nations, Soviet chief delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky said: "You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control."

This was the first Soviet reaction to Eisenhower's bold project inviting Russia and all atomic powers to share fissionable materials and know-how for peaceful production under a United Nations commission to benefit the whole world.

The leading Soviet radio propaganda commentator, Boris Leontyev, in rejecting the Eisenhower plan said: "Eisenhower threatened atomic war and made a eulogy of this policy of force."

His talk as heard in London was broadcast first in French and then repeated in English.

He said: "It is clear that the United States does not want to bring about an international detente (relaxing of strained relations).

"Warmongering" Speech

"The warmongering speech of President Eisenhower and the attitude adopted by the United Nations by the U.S. delegation proves this sufficiently."

Leontyev's editorial comment obviously had to be cleared by Soviet propaganda and foreign affairs authorities before it could be put on the air.

Most of the Western world hailed Eisenhower's speech as a practical approach to the atomic nightmare threatening civilization with destruction. First word from the Soviet Union was eagerly awaited.

U.N. delegates declared that a favorable Soviet response could greatly advance prospects for eventual control of the atom—while a rejection would further harden the East-West deadlock of this life-and-death issue.

Truman Backs Ike's Atom Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A fresh wave of support for President Eisenhower's plan to harness some of the world's atomic energy for peace came from American leaders today.

Former President Truman expressed hope that the Eisenhower plan, unfolded before the United Nations Assembly in New York yesterday, would be carried out and "bring peace into the world."

"A powerful plea for peace and sanity in world affairs" was the way House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts summed it up.

Bernard M. Baruch of New York, whose earlier plan for international control of atomic energy was approved by a majority of the U.N. but rejected by Russia, called the President's speech "a highly necessary expression of concern over the status of atomic and nuclear matters."

Leader Of NATO Will Seek More Planes, Troops

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther will ask the North Atlantic Treaty Organization next week for 1,200 more warplanes and a 10 per cent boost in NATO ground forces, informed sources said today.

The plane shortage is still the weakest gap in the Western Europe defense structure, Gruenther will tell the ministers of the 14 NATO nations which open their 12th meeting in Paris Monday.

It's a good bet the ministers will give the supreme Allied commander in Europe all the planes and troops he is asking for, or nearly all.

If they do, NATO will have:

1. An air force of about 5,600 planes. It now has close to 4,400 warplanes, but Russia is estimated to have 20,000.

2. Ground forces totaling around 108 frontline and reserve divisions. It now has 98, including the Greek and Turkish armies.

More than 50 foreign, defense and finance ministers of the NATO countries will begin gathering in Paris this weekend for the three-day meeting.

Secretary of State Dulles will head the U.S. delegation. His team will consist of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury William Humphrey and Foreign Aid Chief Harold Stassen.

Military leaders of the 14 Allied nations met here today. They laid down a firm buildup program for 1954 and a tentative one for the following year.

Except for air power, these military men are gearing their demands for 1954 to the leveling-off trend in military spending that has gripped the Allied countries.

Italian Labor Council Warned Against Reds

ROME, Dec. 9 (AP)—Giulio Pastore, secretary of Italy's Free Confederation of Labor, warned its general council today against accepting the "extended hand" of the Italian Communist party.

Pastore's statement came as Italian labor, including unions of both the free and Communist-led (CGIL) confederations and state employes prepared for a nationwide 24-hour general strike for more pay on Friday.

Pastore, who led the free workers' break from the ranks of the CGIL in 1949 said that the Communists' "extended hand" was a change in tactics. He urged that Free Confederation representatives hold no meetings with those of Communist-led unions.

N. Y. Newsstands, Bulging Again, Stormed By Crowds

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Fact-finders set up shop today in the wake of New York's newspaper strike, as happy millions stormed bulging newsstands.

Afternoon newspapers hit the streets for the first time since Nov. 28, when a strike of 400 AFL photo-engravers paralyzed the city's six biggest newspapers. The walkout ended yesterday.

A new fact-finding system, unique in the city's newspaper industry, was being closely watched in the hope it might set a pattern for future stability.

Federal Mediator Walter A. Maggiolo, an ace government peacemaker, hammered out a compromise strike settlement with the help of two aides. He said he hopes the fact-finding formula eventually will be adopted by sister unions of the engravers, and that newspaper strikes will become a thing of the past in New York.

The photo-engravers picked AFL President George Meany as their fact-finder. He met today with Richard Slocum, general manager of the Philadelphia Bulletin, who was the publishers' choice.

They pick a third fact-finder or, failing, let the federal Mediation Serive pick one for them.

The three-man panel decides whether the striking engravers are entitled to more than the original publishers' offer of a $3.75 a week package covering wages, welfare benefits, holidays and reduced work week.

The strike began with an engravers' demand for a $15 a week package atop present wages that average $120 to $131 a week. During the strike, this demand was halved to $7.50.

Grandmother Is Bride Of 17-Year-Old Youth

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 9 (AP)—A 17-year-old youth today married a 45-year-old grandmother whose oldest son is two years older than her new husband.

"We know we're going against public opinion," said Mrs. Clarence Wilson Houk, a divorcee with six children. "But we want people to understand that it took courage to finally make this step, even though we both knew a long time ago that it would work out."

Houk took time out from his job at a seed company to marry in a courthouse ceremony, then returned to work. His father, McKinley Houk, signed the license for his son.

Factory Chimney Falls, Killing Two

FRANKLIN, Mass., Dec. 9 (AP)—A 50-foot brick factory-chimney toppled without warning today, crashed through the roof of a nearby foundry and crushed two workmen to death.

The dead are Edward Parker, 26, Marine Corps veteran of World War II, and William A. Hall, 35, father of three young children.

Cause of the collapse of the chimney, which had been reduced in height some years ago, was sought in an investigation by town and state officials.

Controversial Movie Licensed By Censors

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—"The Moon is Blue", comedy movie hit, was licensed by the State Board of Motion Picture Censors today after the attorney general ruled a circuit court decision could not be appealed.

The board's action, in deference to Judge Herman M. Moser's opinion that the movie is not "indecent or immoral" as the censors had alleged, ended a five-month controversy over the picture.

Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins said Judge Moser's ruling is final and cannot be appealed by the board under present state censorship law.

Wonder Metal Titanium, Used In Planes, May Determine Arms Race Victor

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Once a country figured its problems were licked if it was sure of an adequate gold supply. Wars were fought, nations were wrecked, a continent was discovered in the relentless pursuit of it.

But in this changing world the United States now finds itself with gold to bury. And its experts are saying that its security is endangered because it may not have enough of a metal most people never heard of.

That metal is titanium.

A Senate Interior subcommittee, looking into shortages of materials, has looked anxiously at titanium, used in faster-than-sound airplanes.

It has heard an Air Force general say that a titanium shortage could mean that this nation would wind up with the second best air force. And, said Brig. Gen. Kern D. Metzger, having a second best air force is the same as having no air force at all.

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Malone (R-Nev), said he had this reaction when he learned how much titanium was on hand:

"I nearly cried."

Nearly cried about titanium? Why?

To get the answer, let's go back to the beginning.

In 1879, the Rev. William Gregor was fooling around with some black sand he found at Menachan in England. He called the mineral Menachanite.

Four or five years later, a German chemist named Klaproth found a new metal he called titanium. In 1797, he learned that he and the preacher had stumbled on the same thing.

But the name titanium stuck. Not a bad name either. It comes from the Greek Titans, who were the incarnation of natural strength.

In spite of its early birth, nothing much came of titanium. For not until around 50 years ago did an American chemist named M. A. Hunter succeed in producing pure titanium. Nothing much to it, once you get the hang of it. Heat titanium tetrachloride with sodium in an airtight drum—and there you are.

Titanium has been used in steel alloys and in paint pigments, but a recent edition of a well known encyclopedia still is insisting:

"Titanium has a very restricted commercial application."

Shortly after World War II many a scientist was wondering about this hard, brittle, lightweight metal which is steel white in color. In 1948, the Office of Naval Research, for example, held a symposium which opened with this size-up of titanium:

"It is light, strong, durable and corrosion resistant. To these we might add one other important qualification—it is plentiful."

And so it is. In this country it's found in states scattered from New York to Florida to Wyoming. Most of our imports come from India. Russia has titanium deposits.

Although it's not at all rare—it ranks ninth in abundance among the elements in the earth's crust—it's still so hard to extract that a pound of the stuff costs $15.

This will give you an idea of why the experts are worried:

A military man said if we could get all the titanium we wanted—and if it were cheap enough—we could use a million tons a year.

Present annual U.S. production: 2,300 tons.

Freedom Offers Hope

Americans should not be more shocked than previously they have been at continued refusal of 22 U. S. soldiers to accept repatriation at Panmunjom. It need not be a surprise if all 22 finally refuse to go home and insist on casting their lot with the Reds, despite all the "explaining", the U.N. talkers can do. It will be surprising, on the other hand, if even a few of the 22 change their minds.

Now we are seeing the double-distilled essence of the results of Communist brain-washing. Most of these 22 Americans have fairly normal American backgrounds. Yet for reasons that may never be known, their experiences in a cruel foreign bondage have made them prey to a new indoctrination. They are a very small minority of Americans captured; the great majority chose freedom under the Stars and Stripes. Most of the 22 were captured in 1950. Three years of unremitting pressures have put untold strains on these men.

These men may be lost forever to their families and friends. But their defection and that of the few South Koreans serve in the most positive way to demonstrate how strong is the love of home when that home is in a country where freedom exists.

It is shocking that as many as 22 Americans, reared in freedom, renounced their flag. But does not the real significance of Panmunjom lie in the fact that only about one per cent of Chinese and North Korean prisoners wanted to go to homes behind the iron curtain. For thousands of these Asians, before the Korean War, life was hard but no worse than life in South Korea. But they feel that life outside the iron curtain offers more of one great commodity. That is hope. And hope can mean more than home.

Out Of Siberia

It would be strange indeed if the repatriated Japanese war prisoners just returned from Siberia after eight years did not bring stories of a great military and economic buildup there. The existence of many big air bases near the Bering Sea has been an ill kept secret, and there's no reason to doubt a returned Japanese general's remarks about new jet and bomber fields.

As for the stories of the ex-POWs about the economic buildup, the U. S. State Department recently spoke of the "remarkable and dismaying progress" of Russia in producing coal, steel, oil and electricity.

Some of the repatriates had stories about a new atom bomb plant near Lake Baikal. Others revealed uranium is being produced from vastly increased diggings up near the Arctic Circle. Such stories could have resulted from careful coaching by the Reds, but it has been taken for granted for many months that the Russians possess the atom bomb (if not the hydrogen bomb) and the means to make it.

Perhaps the story to be appraised more carefully than most is that told by a Jap who was a top official in a huge electric power setup in Manchuria. He said it wasn't solely heavy industry the government was pushing, but "consumer products and social welfare facilities." Last August Malenkov and his aides beat their breasts about dire shortages in almost everything from women's stockings to furniture and butter and eggs.

In large degree Russia's ability to wage global war depends on buildup of confidence of a better life for the masses. That's the Russian problem still working in favor of the West.

Firming Grip On Korea

Pact signed at Peiping for consolidation of economic and cultural relations between the Communist governments of China and North Korea strikes a blow to any flickering hope that the Communists seriously contemplate a settlement under which Korea would be unified.

This agreement, entered into while Peiping representatives at Panmunjom were maneuvering to delay indefinitely the political conference projects by the armistice agreement, is assigned a life of 10 years. Under it, the Chinese forgive the North Korean regime its indebtedness for supplies and costs incurred in the fighting and further pledge the equivalent of $300,000,000 in reconstruction aid.

A representative of the Moscow government sat in on the nine-day negotiations, indicating that the Soviet Union recognizes the dominant interest of the Peiping regime, which still has perhaps a million troops there, in North Korea's future.

Accompanying announcement in Peiping declared the desire of the communists to cooperate in working out the unification of Korea by peaceful means. They have previously indicated readiness to enter into an arrangement by which North and South Korean governments would be fused on a 50-50 basis. They would expect to gain majority control later by such means as they have used in coalition governments elsewhere.

President Rhee's offer to accept an all-Korean election under United Nations supervision would have no standing in such a program.

Round-The-World Radio

A great new instrument for national defense has been dedicated and put into operation by the United States Navy in the world's most powerful radio transmitter, located in the Cascade Mountains in the state of Washington. This $14,000,000 installation can reach Navy forces on land, vesseds at sea, even submerged submarines, simultaneously anywhere in the world without the necessity of messages being relayed.

This was fully demonstrated when Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, which built the transmitter, tapped out the first message. Replies came from vessels in the South Atlantic, the Mediterranean, the Western Pacific and the North Atlantic. Answers from vessels at a great distance had to be relayed four, five and six times, but they all got the message directly from "Radio Jim Creek."

The station has a power of 1,200,000 watts and is the biggest piece of electronic equipment ever built. It has 22 times the power of big commercial broadcasters. It is able to penetrate to the Arctic despite magnetic storms.

Great as is the value of an instrument so powerful in time of peace, in time of war it would be incalculable. In the event that relaying stations, on which naval forces would normally rely, has been destroyed, it still would be possible for the Navy Department to put into prompt action any change in strategy in any particular area.

How To Keep Well

Infected Hair

Ringworm of the scalp is an old disease that seldom gave us trouble until 10 years ago. Since then it has occurred in epidemic proportions among school children in many parts of the United States and more than one community has been forced to call for help from our larger medical centers and public health departments.

The increasing frequency of ringworm means that all parents should be on the alert, more so when the condition is present in the neighborhood. Periodic examination of the child's head with a special ultraviolet light to determine whether the disease exists is a regular routine in many schools.

The disorder is suspected when ever the scalp exhibits rounded patches covered with fine, bran-like scales. The hair over these areas looks moth-eaten in that some of the shafts are short, broken, or have fallen off entirely. Infected hairs may escape detection and it is here that the ultraviolet light containing the Wood filter comes in handy. With this procedure a single hair will glow in the dark if it is infected. The importance of early detection cannot be emphasized enough because few disorders spread as rapidly or are as difficult to treat as ringworm.

The head is shaved or clipped closely before any treatment is started. Ointments and salves are tried first and if, at the end of two months, the condition is not cured, X-ray treatments are advised. A dozen or more fungicides including decupryl, salundek, salinidol, furaspor, acrizane, cresatin, and spergon are available but even the best seldom cures more than 40 per cent of the cases. This is understandable because in ringworm the infection involves the portion of the hair that is buried in the follicle.

As the hair grows, it continually carries the ring worm spores to the surface where they are in a position to spread to the rest of the scalp or cling to anything else that touches the head. The fungicides must penetrate each follicle to kill the ringworm and unless it does the job thoroughly the disease is likely to return. The most successful remedy is X-ray in large enough doses to cause the hair to fall out temporarily. This method is tricky and requires an expert along this line.

Victims of ringworm should be segregated during the acute stage. The hair should be shaved or clipped once a week followed by thorough shampooing. A cap of washable material is worn at all times and removed only when treatment is being applied. Meanwhile the child is instructed not to swap hats with other children. His comb and brush must not be used by other members of the family.

Can ringworm be prevented? This is a difficult problem because children are chummy by nature. The parents may insist, however, that the scalp be washed immediately on returning home from the barber shop or theater. Meanwhile, periodic examinations of the head should be made in order to catch the disease at its inception.

TOMORROW: Many plans for relieving arthritis.

IRON IN VEGETABLES

P. E. writes: Is there any iron in vegetables?

REPLY

The leafy vegetables yield iron and include lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, spinach, turnip greens, and beet greens. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for list of other foods containing iron.

INJURY OR INFLAMMATION

W. C. writes: What is the cause of bone cyst?

REPLY

The cause is not known, but in some instances, the cyst follows injury, fracture, on inflammation. Now and then the condition is traced to a glandular disturbance.

The Facts Of Life--And Death

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Advisers See Error In McCarthy Appeasement; White House Gave McCarthy Investigational Power; McCarthy Propaganda Net Work Includes "Facts Forum"

WASHINGTON—White House advisers, previously split as to whether the President should crack back at Senator McCarthy, are now less divided. The McCarthy strategy of swamping the White House with telegrams, plus his charge that the White House was concealing Western Union figures, plus earlier McCarthy criticism, has made even General "Slick" Persons realize that Ike can't appease McCarthy.

General Persons, with Vice President Nixon, has been the most persuasive of the Ike-advisers who believe the President must get along with McCarthy, not oppose him.

But now it's the belief of almost everyone who tries to counsel an idealistic but politically inexperienced president but the senator from Wisconsin has used the Eisenhower administration to build himself a rabid following which can't be dissipated overnight. In effect, the administration has supplied the steppingstones by which the man who now defies it has risen to power.

Here are some of the steppingstones the administration has inadvertently handed its chief Republican critic:

Steppingstone No. 1—Carbon copies of all Eisenhower administration investigations are automatically given McCarthy. That was how he knew the Army was probing the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Army had been working on this for months, and after McCarthy obtained copies of Army reports, it was a simple matter for him to call witnesses, usurp the headlines.

Steppingstone No. 2—Attorney General Brownell whitewashed the Senate Investigating Committee's report on McCarthy; also let the Statute of Limitations expire on the Senate probe of the Maryland election and McCarthy's part in it. A Senate committee had submitted a unanimous report, including amazing photostats of McCarthy's concealed financial operations. Yet Brownell announced that the matter was being dropped.

Steppingstone No. 3—The administration appointed two McCarthy men to the Federal Communications Commission. This is one reason the big radio and TV networks have leaned over backward to give McCarthy free time. The White House even appointed to the FCC Robert E. Lee, the McCarthy henchman who, according to a Senate report, handled some of the money in the Maryland election. Lee's extremely limited knowledge of radio or TV came as a moderator for the McCarthy-Hunt TV program, "Facts Forum."

Steppingstone No. 4—The administration gave McCarthy's chief financial angel, H. L. Hunt, and other financial backers, a tax reduction on contributions to his TV program, "Facts Forum." In other words, the administration which has suffered from McCarthy's attacks helped build him up by ruling that those who finance McCarthy's TV program get a tax deduction of 20 per cent for individuals and 5 per cent for corporations on the amounts they contribute.

McCarthy Network

This TV program gives significant insight into the McCarthy propaganda network. If the Republican party tried to get away with the same tax deductions it has given McCarthy's followers, it would be laughed out of court. However, "Facts Forum," though touted as educational, is actually an effective propaganda vehicle for the philosophy of America Firsters, isolationists and the Fascist fringe.

On its advisory committee are Gen. Robert E. Wood, former head of the America First Committee, which vigorously opposed war with Hitler; also Gen. Hanford McNider, an active leader in the same group.

Yet President Eisenhower's policies are the exact opposite. He commanded the chief offensive against Hitler, later advocated international cooperation as head of NATO in Paris.

A typical "Facts Forum" lecturer is Allan Zoll, whose American Patriots organization was put on the attorney general's list as subversive and Fascist. Among the books and literature which "Facts Forum" urges TV viewers to buy are those written by Merwyn K. Hart, who Justice Jackson described as "well known for his Fascist leanings."

President Eisenhower, of course, has taken exactly the opposite stand from these McCarthy followers, has made public pleas for tolerance and understanding. Yet his Treasury Department gives tax benefits to an organization fighting his policies under the guise of education.

"Facts Forum" urges TV viewers and radio listeners to participate in the "Facts Forum Book Plan," of which the most widely promoted book is McCarthy's "The Fight for America." This contains a diatribe against Eisenhower's close friend, Gen. George Marshall, now in Stockholm receiving the Nobel peace prize; also accuses such publications as the Christian Science Monitor, Time and Life magazines, Washington Post, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Portland Oregonian and the Milwaukee Journal of following the Communist line.

McCarthy's Angel

"Facts Forum" angel, Texas oil millionaire H. L. Hunt, is also in a favored tax position, due to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Hunt is a man of rather extreme ideas as to who is or is not a Communist, as illustrated by a conversation with Clare Boothe Luce, now ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Luce, visiting in Dallas, invited Hunt to visit her and her husband when he came to New York.

"Who is your husband?" asked Hunt.

"Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune."

"What," exclaimed Hunt, "that Communist!"

Hunt's and McCarthy's potent backing have put "Facts Forum" on about 200 radio and 40 TV stations, not counting the ABC network, according to its publicity claims. Perhaps one reason for its success is the Eisenhower appointment of "Facts Forum" moderator Lee to the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates all radio and TV stations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Sugar In The System

Those who like to frighten people are telling us not to smoke lest we get cancer; not to drink lest we become alcoholics; not to eat tasty things lest we become diabetics. Soon we shall be living on nothing but stuff we buy in the drug store. The scarers have discovered a million allergies and enough lacks of vitamins, hormones and chemicals in each of us to make us shaky, wobbly and maladjusted. I often wonder how by grandfather managed to live to a grand old age without these fears and with no knowledge of vitamins.

However, I do know that sugar is poison for me because I have too much of it. I need never go to a doctor to discover the consequences of my sins; they find me out and plague me until I have burned up the surplus sugar. I have been told that insulin would help me burn it up, but I dislike stabbing myself with a needle each morning and I know that if I could withstand the lure of cakes, pies and French pastries, I should be all right.

I love to cheat my doctor, dieting rigidly in advance of an examination and always managing to show him a better side of me. Fortunately, I do not see him often.

Now I have discovered that there is another side to the story; that many suffer from too much insulin. Actually, I read a book on the subject—as much as I dislike such reading, devoting myself to more optimistic subjects which show that not I but the whole world is swiftly going to the devil. Any book on economics or the history of the past 20 years will help one to reach that conclusion.

The book on sugar is "Body, Mind and Sugar," by Dr. E. M. Abrahamson and A. W. Pezet, which attracted me because I am so full of sugar while some of the less optimistic among my friends seem to have nothing in their souls but bile. I was seeking a key to an understanding of their sour natures. A sugary optimist, I am sure that the worst has not yet happened and maybe never will.

This book turned out to be a very learned treatise, popularly written, on the subject of hyperinsulinism from which many suffer without knowing it. This illness comes from a generous pancreas providing too much insulin and it can lead to chronic fatigue, alcoholism, neurosis, allergies, suicide and even murder. That is what can happen to a fellow who has too much of what I have too little.

You might read this book and discover whether you are likely to commit murder one day; or you might take a glucose tolerance test to discover whether next March 15 you will be able to curb the inclination for suicide.

I first learned about this trouble from a couple of dentists who discovered that even small children who have pyorrhea also show signs of a low blood sugar. One of these dentists, when he treats a patient, goes through tests and questions like for a major operation and then, instead of pulling your teeth, sends you to a doctor to put you on a diet to improve your blood. As preventive medicine makes more sense than yanking out your uppers and lowers, I agreed to read the aforesaid book, which starts off with the confession that Dr. Abrahamson nearly helped to kill a patient because he was treating him for the obvious when what he should have discovered was the hidden. And the hidden enemy was hyperinsulinism—too much insulin, too generous a working of the Islands of Langerhans, if you know what I mean.

We are blessed, in these days of great political and economic confusion, that in little laboratories great minds are at work, at low pay, in comparative obscurity, saving our lives. Such a man apparently is Dr. Seale Harris, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama, who did important work in hyperinsulinism and to whom Dr. Abrahamson turned for the advice which saved his patient.

It takes great courage for any man, particularly a doctor, to admit error and then to write a book about it. When it happens, a life might be saved. Applied more broadly to politics, a nation could be saved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — As a piece of psychological strategy in the "cold war," President Eisenhower's historic speech before the United Nations General Assembly is one of the craftiest and most penetrating documents flung at the Soviet government since the battle of words began.

For the address brushes away with one fell swoop any ground for further accusations, inside or outside Russia, about "war mongering" or military threat to Soviet Russia by the Western powers. It puts squarely up to the Kremlin the responsibility for helping to achieve or blocking a solution of the problem of international control of atomic energy.

Whether the proposals by the President accomplish anything in the way of a practical agreement or merely remain as a challenge to the Soviet government, it was a master stroke to have assembled in the speech the challenging proposals it contained. It was no ordinary pronouncement. It bears the earmarks of painstaking care given to every word over months and months of time. In a sense, it appears as the consummation of a strategy evolved gradually by the National Security Council, of which the President is the head.

May Be Academic Controversy

At first glance, it might seem that the old proposals which provided for inspection and a system of periodic disclosure of atomic weapons have been abandoned or at least put to one side for the time being. But a careful reading of the speech will reveal that there could be no "ratios of contributions" or "procedures" with respect to the allocation of uranium and fissionable materials without Soviet Russia's disclosure to the suggested international atomic energy agency of the basis for the distribution and, of course, some means of inspection to verify the accuracy of any figures used. It will be difficult anyway to persuade Congress to change existing law to make such contributions but, on the other hand, it may be a long time before the Soviet Union gives concrete approval, and hence the proposal may continue to be simply a matter of academic controversy.

Entirely apart from the skillful proposal that peaceful uses of atomic energy be given top priority in international negotiation over control of atomic weapons—something that will bring worldwide approval and take the initiative from the Soviet propaganda machine—there were in the President's speech some chosen words of warning to the Kremlin which are also of sensational importance.

Three statements especially will be duly noted behind the iron curtain. The first is this:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

That's a manner of describing the power of the United States from a quantitative basis. It cannot fail to impress the Soviets as to what has been done in secret since 1945 by America with billions of dollars of expenditure. It is really the first public disclosure of the power of our atomic stockpile.

The next statement of significance, designed as a reply to any "surprise aggression," contains this fateful warning unparalleled in history:

Gives Pointed Warning

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor—for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste—all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

This is a masterpiece of inverted statement which appears not as a threat but nevertheless states as a "fact" that Soviet Russia would be laid waste if her government ever attempted a "surprise aggression."

The third statement of utmost significance was also phrased in an inverted style of expression, but it nevertheless gives a pointed warning:

"We will never say that the peoples of Russia are an enemy with whom we have no desire ever to deal or mingle in friendly and fruitful relationship."

It will be noted that the emphasis is on the "peoples of Russia," and this can be interpreted as a warning that the present government in Moscow will be dealt with only as it truly reflects the wishes of the people of the Soviet Union—a distinction of tremendous importance. It could pave the way some day for a severance of relations with the present government if it shows itself to be a barrier to the assumed desire of the people of Soviet Russia to remain at peace with the West.

Unquestionably the main object of the Bermuda conference was to arrange for future meetings with the government of Soviet Russia and to go over the wording of the most important statement that the Western allies have issued since the close of World War II.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — President Eisenhower threw that atomic punch at U. N. as if he had been saving it up for a long time. Which he had.

From everything I could learn at Bermuda, which I plan to engrave on the head of a pin, it appears the historic speech has been weeks in preparation. It was originally scheduled to be the big gun in "Operation Candor," the determination of key figures in the Eisenhower administration to tell the facts of atomic age life to the American people.

"I had originally planned to say (this) primarily to the American people," he told the Assembly. But the futile November 18 effort by the assembly to breathe new life in the defunct disarmament commission gave Eisenhower a broader hook on which to hank his proposal. It was a comparatively simple matter to draw an invitation from U. N.'s Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The announced reason, later retracted, was that this would mark the last day of the current assembly, but radio and TV customers of the historic speech will recall that at its end the gloriously sari'd Madame Pandit remarked, matter of factlike, "The Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p. m. This Assembly is adjourned." If the good madam was enthused about Ike's proposal she masterfully concealed it.

The President seemed reluctant to let go of the speech so far as the reporters were concerned. He nursed it through his spare hours at Bermuda, changing a word here and a word there. Then we were told we'd have a whack at it during the 3-hour ride the immortal Dick Merrill gave us from Bermuda to New York on an Eastern Air Lines charter Conny.

But no text. Jim Hagerty told us before we got on the plane. En route, word came that the reporters were to go to a roped off sector of the Marine terminal at La-Guardia where "an important announcement will be made." We did. The announcement was that there would be no text delivered to us at the airport. Instead, it was going to be rushed to U. N., mimeographed, and distributed about 15 minutes before Ike spoke.

So the President's Air Force Conny landed after making two long passes over the field, which one reporter mistook for a delaying action to enable Ike to do a rewrite. Out of the plane popped jovial Jim Hagerty burdened down with a load of finely mimeographed texts of the speech. Only by dint of a tremendous scramble to telephones were reporters able to delived to their editors, and thus on to the public, what may be remembers as the President's greatest speech.

In the course of proposing an atom treasury whose fissionable material would be spent for good, not destruction, Eisenhower hit what seemed to me one of the all-time peaks of the office of the presidency. His invitation to the world to save itself by concentrating on the good that is in the atom could be remembered with Monroe's Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Wilson's Fourteen Points, the Four Freedoms, and the Point Four program.

If Russia plays ball, and she may in view of the fact that she will have as much access to such an atom bank and the know-how of its experts as any other contributing nation, we could be at the dawn of an enduring peace wherein the wonders of the atom will make pale by comparison its ability to destroy the species.

But if Russia doesn't respond, and is crazy enough to start an atomic war, there is comfort in Eisenhower's startling revelations about the progress of our weapons program. He revealed for the first time that we have developed A-bombs 25 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb, which had a "yield" equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. That means a 500,000 ton bomb. And he spoke of hydrogen bombs in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent.

There was one statement in the speech that will rank with Lincoln's defi to the world armies to mount an offensive that would enable one enemy soldier to drink of the Mississippi. Ike said:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increase daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theatre of war through all the years of World War II."

Wow!

Freedom Offers Hope

Americans should not be more shocked than previously they have been at continued refusal of 22 U. S. soldiers to accept repatriation at Panmunjom. It need not be a surprise if all 22 finally refuse to go home and insist on casting their lot with the Reds, despite all the "explaining" the U.N. talkers can do. It will be surprising, on the other hand, if even a few of the 22 change their minds.

Now we are seeing the double-distilled essence of the results of Communist brain-washing. Most of these 22 Americans have fairly normal American backgrounds. Yet for reasons that may never be known, their experiences in a cruel foreign bondage have made them prey to a new indoctrination. They are a very small minority of Americans captured; the great majority chose freedom under the Stars and Stripes. Most of the 22 were captured in 1950. Three years of unremitting pressures have put untold strains on these men.

These men may be lost forever to their families and friends. But their defection and that of the few South Koreans serve in the most positive way to demonstrate how strong is the love of home when that home is in a country where freedom exists.

It is shocking that as many as 22 Americans, reared in freedom, renounced their flag. But does not the real significance of Panmunjom lie in the fact that only about one per cent of Chinese and North Korean prisoners wanted to go to homes behind the iron curtain. For thousands of these Asians, before the Korean War, life was hard but no worse than life in South Korea. But they feel that life outside the iron curtain offers more of one great commodity. That is hope. And hope can mean more than home.

Out Of Siberia

It would be strange indeed if the repatriated Japanese war prisoners just returned from Siberia after eight years did not bring stories of a great military and economic buildup there. The existence of many big air bases near the Bering Sea has been an ill kept secret, and there's no reason to doubt a returned Japanese general's remarks about new jet and bomber fields.

As for the stories of the ex-POWs about the economic buildup, the U. S. State Department recently spoke of the "remarkable and dismaying progress" of Russia in producing coal, steel, oil and electricity.

Some of the repatriates had stories about a new atom bomb plant near Lake Baikal. Others revealed uranium is being produced from vastly increased diggings up near the Arctic Circle. Such stories could have resulted from careful coaching by the Reds, but it has been taken for granted for many months that the Russians possess the atom bomb (if not the hydrogen bomb) and the means to make it.

Perhaps the story to be appraised more carefully than most is that told by a Jap who was a top official in a huge electric power setup in Manchuria. He said it wasn't solely heavy industry the government was pushing, but "consumer products and social welfare facilities." Last August Malenkov and his aides beat their breasts about dire shortages in almost everything from women's stockings to furniture and butter and eggs.

In large degree Russia's ability to wage global war depends on buildup of confidence of a better life for the masses. That's the Russian problem still working in favor of the West.

Firming Grip On Korea

Pact signed at Peiping for consolidation of economic and cultural relations between the Communist governments of China and North Korea strikes a blow to any flickering hope that the Communists seriously contemplate a settlement under which Korea would be unified.

This agreement, entered into while Peiping representatives at Panmunjom were maneuvering to delay indefinitely the political conference projects by the armistice agreement, is assigned a life of 10 years. Under it, the Chinese forgive the North Korean regime its indebtedness for supplies and costs incurred in the fighting and further pledge the equivalent of $300,000,000 in reconstruction aid.

A representative of the Moscow government sat in on the nine-day negotiations, indicating that the Soviet Union recognizes the dominant interest of the Peiping regime, which still has perhaps a million troops there, in North Korea's future.

Accompanying announcement in Peiping declared the desire of the communists to cooperate in working out the unification of Korea by peaceful means. They have previously indicated readiness to enter into an arrangement by which North and South Korean governments would be fused on a 50-50 basis. They would expect to gain majority control later by such means as they have used in coalition governments elsewhere.

President Rhee's offer to accept an all-Korean election under United Nations supervision would have no standing in such a program.

Round-The-World Radio

A great new instrument for national defense has been dedicated and put into operation by the United States Navy in the world's most powerful radio transmitter, located in the Cascade Mountains in the state of Washington. This $14,000,000 installation can reach Navy forces on land, vesseds at sea, even submerged submarines, simultaneously anywhere in the world without the necessity of messages being relayed.

This was fully demonstrated when Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, which built the transmitter, tapped out the first message. Replies came from vessels in the South Atlantic, the Mediterranean, the Western Pacific and the North Atlantic. Answers from vessels at a great distance had to be relayed four, five and six times, but they all got the message directly from "Radio Jim Creek."

The station has a power of 1,200,000 watts and is the biggest piece of electronic equipment ever built. It has 22 times the power of big commercial broadcasters. It is able to penetrate to the Arctic despite magnetic storms.

Great as is the value of an instrument so powerful in time of peace, in time of war it would be incalculable. In the event that relaying stations, on which naval forces would normally rely, has been destroyed, it still would be possible for the Navy Department to put into prompt action any change in strategy in any particular area.

How To Keep Well

Infected Hair

Ringworm of the scalp is an old disease that seldom gave us trouble until 10 years ago. Since then it has occurred in epidemic proportions among school children in many parts of the United States and more than one community has been forced to call for help from our larger medical centers and public health departments.

The increasing frequency of ringworm means that all parents should be on the alert, more so when the condition is present in the neighborhood. Periodic examination of the child's head with a special ultraviolet light to determine whether the disease exists is a regular routine in many schools.

The disorder is suspected when ever the scalp exhibits rounded patches covered with fine, bran-like scales. The hair over these areas looks moth-eaten in that some of the shafts are short, broken, or have fallen off entirely. Infected hairs may escape detection and it is here that the ultraviolet light containing the Wood filter comes in handy. With this procedure a single hair will glow in the dark if it is infected. The importance of early detection cannot be emphasized enough because few disorders spread as rapidly or are as difficult to treat as ringworm.

The head is shaved or clipped closely before any treatment is started. Ointments and salves are tried first and if, at the end of two months, the condition is not cured, X-ray treatments are advised. A dozen or more fungicides including decupryl, salundek, salinidol, furaspor, acrizane, cresatin, and spergon are available but even the best seldom cures more than 40 per cent of the cases. This is understandable because in ringworm the infection involves the portion of the hair that is buried in the follicle.

As the hair grows, it continually carries the ring worm spores to the surface where they are in a position to spread to the rest of the scalp or cling to anything else that touches the head. The fungicides must penetrate each follicle to kill the ringworm and unless it does the job thoroughly the disease is likely to return. The most successful remedy is X-ray in large enough doses to cause the hair to fall out temporarily. This method is tricky and requires an expert along this line.

Victims of ringworm should be segregated during the acute stage. The hair should be shaved or clipped once a week followed by thorough shampooing. A cap of washable material is worn at all times and removed only when treatment is being applied. Meanwhile the child is instructed not to swap hats with other children. His comb and brush must not be used by other members of the family.

Can ringworm be prevented? This is a difficult problem because children are chummy by nature. The parents may insist, however, that the scalp be washed immediately on returning home from the barber shop or theater. Meanwhile, periodic examinations of the head should be made in order to catch the disease at its inception.

TOMORROW: Many plans for relieving arthritis.

IRON IN VEGETABLES

P. E. writes: Is there any iron in vegetables?

REPLY

The leafy vegetables yield iron and include lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, spinach, turnip greens, and beet greens. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for list of other foods containing iron.

INJURY OR INFLAMMATION

W. C. writes: What is the cause of bone cyst?

REPLY

The cause is not known, but in some instances, the cyst follows injury, fracture, or inflammation. Now and then the condition is traced to a glandular disturbance.

The Facts Of Life--And Death

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Advisers See Error In McCarthy Appeasement; White House Gave McCarthy Investigational Power; McCarthy Propaganda Net Work Includes "Facts Forum"

WASHINGTON—White House advisers, previously split as to whether the President should crack back at Senator McCarthy, are now less divided. The McCarthy strategy of swamping the White House with telegrams, plus his charge that the White House was concealing Western Union figures, plus earlier McCarthy criticism, has made even General "Slick" Persons realize that Ike can't appease McCarthy.

General Persons, with Vice President Nixon, has been the most persuasive of the Ike-advisers who believe the President must get along with McCarthy, not oppose him.

But now it's the belief of almost everyone who tries to counsel an idealistic but politically inexperienced president but the senator from Wisconsin has used the Eisenhower administration to build himself a rabid following which can't be dissipated overnight. In effect, the administration has supplied the steppingstones by which the man who now defies it has risen to power.

Here are some of the steppingstones the administration has inadvertently handed its chief Republican critic:

Steppingstone No. 1—Carbon copies of all Eisenhower administration investigations are automatically given McCarthy. That was how he knew the Army was probing the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Army had been working on this for months, and after McCarthy obtained copies of Army reports, it was a simple matter for him to call witnesses, usurp the headlines.

Steppingstone No. 2—Attorney General Brownell whitewashed the Senate Investigating Committee's report on McCarthy; also let the Statute of Limitations expire on the Senate probe of the Maryland election and McCarthy's part in it. A Senate committee had submitted a unanimous report, including amazing photostats of McCarthy's concealed financial operations. Yet Brownell announced that the matter was being dropped.

Steppingstone No. 3—The administration appointed two McCarthy men to the Federal Communications Commission. This is one reason the big radio and TV networks have leaned over backward to give McCarthy free time. The White House even appointed to the FCC Robert E. Lee, the McCarthy henchman who, according to a Senate report, handled some of the money in the Maryland election. Lee's extremely limited knowledge of radio or TV came as a moderator for the McCarthy-Hunt TV program, "Facts Forum."

Steppingstone No. 4—The administration gave McCarthy's chief financial angel, H. L. Hunt, and other financial backers, a tax reduction on contributions to his TV program, "Facts Forum." In other words, the administration which has suffered from McCarthy's attacks helped build him up by ruling that those who finance McCarthy's TV program get a tax deduction of 20 per cent for individuals and 5 per cent for corporations on the amounts they contribute.

McCarthy Network

This TV program gives significant insight into the McCarthy propaganda network. If the Republican party tried to get away with the same tax deductions it has given McCarthy's followers, it would be laughed out of court. However, "Facts Forum," though touted as educational, is actually an effective propaganda vehicle for the philosophy of America Firsters, isolationists and the Fascist fringe.

On its advisory committee are Gen. Robert E. Wood, former head of the America First Committee, which vigorously opposed war with Hitler; also Gen. Hanford McNider, an active leader in the same group.

Yet President Eisenhower's policies are the exact opposite. He commanded the chief offensive against Hitler, later advocated international cooperation as head of NATO in Paris.

A typical "Facts Forum" lecturer is Allan Zoll, whose American Patriots organization was put on the attorney general's list as subversive and Fascist. Among the books and literature which "Facts Forum" urges TV viewers to buy are those written by Merwyn K. Hart, who Justice Jackson described as "well known for his Fascist leanings."

President Eisenhower, of course, has taken exactly the opposite stand from these McCarthy followers, has made public pleas for tolerance and understanding. Yet his Treasury Department gives tax benefits to an organization fighting his policies under the guise of education.

"Facts Forum" urges TV viewers and radio listeners to participate in the "Facts Forum Book Plan," of which the most widely promoted book is McCarthy's "The Fight for America." This contains a diatribe against Eisenhower's close friend, Gen. George Marshall, now in Stockholm receiving the Nobel peace prize; also accuses such publications as the Christian Science Monitor, Time and Life magazines, Washington Post, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Portland Oregonian and the Milwaukee Journal of following the Communist line.

McCarthy's Angel

"Facts Forum" angel, Texas oil millionaire H. L. Hunt, is also in a favored tax position, due to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Hunt is a man of rather extreme ideas as to who is or is not a Communist, as illustrated by a conversation with Clare Boothe Luce, now ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Luce, visiting in Dallas, invited Hunt to visit her and her husband when he came to New York.

"Who is your husband?" asked Hunt.

"What," exclaimed Hunt, "that Communist!"

Hunt's and McCarthy's potent backing have put "Facts Forum" on about 200 radio and 40 TV stations, not counting the ABC network, according to its publicity claims. Perhaps one reason for its success is the Eisenhower appointment of "Facts Forum" moderator Lee to the Federal Communications Commission which regulates all radio and TV stations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Sugar In The System

Those who like to frighten people are telling us not to smoke lest we get cancer; not to drink lest we become alcoholics; not to eat tasty things lest we become diabetics. Soon we shall be living on nothing but stuff we buy in the drug store. The scarers have discovered a million allergies and enough lacks of vitamins, hormones and chemicals in each of us to make us shaky, wobbly and maladjusted. I often wonder how by grandfather managed to live to a grand old age without these fears and with no knowledge of vitamins.

However, I do know that sugar is poison for me because I have too much of it. I need never go to a doctor to discover the consequences of my sins; they find me out and plague me until I have burned up the surplus sugar. I have been told that insulin would help me burn it up, but I dislike stabbing myself with a needle each morning and I know that if I could withstand the lure of cakes, pies and French pastries, I should be all right.

I love to cheat my doctor, dieting rigidly in advance of an examination and always managing to show him a better side of me. Fortunately, I do not see him often.

Now I have discovered that there is another side to the story; that many suffer from too much insulin. Actually, I read a book on the subject—as much as I dislike such reading, devoting myself to more optimistic subjects which show that not I but the whole world is swiftly going to the devil. Any book on economics or the history of the past 20 years will help one to reach that conclusion.

The book on sugar is "Body, Mind and Sugar," by Dr. E. M. Abrahamson and A. W. Pezet, which attracted me because I am so full of sugar while some of the less optimistic among my friends seem to have nothing in their souls but bile. I was seeking a key to an understanding of their sour natures. A sugary optimist, I am sure that the worst has not yet happened and maybe never will.

This book turned out to be a very learned treatise, popularly written, on the subject of hyperinsulinism from which many suffer without knowing it. This illness comes from a generous pancreas providing too much insulin and it can lead to chronic fatigue, alcoholism, neurosis, allergies, suicide and even murder. That is what can happen to a fellow who has too much of what I have too little.

You might read this book and discover whether you are likely to commit murder one day; or you might take a glucose tolerance test to discover whether next March 15 you will be able to curb the inclination for suicide.

I first learned about this trouble from a couple of dentists who discovered that even small children who have pyorrhea also show signs of a low blood sugar. One of these dentists, when he treats a patient, goes through tests and questions like for a major operation and then, instead of pulling your teeth, sends you to a doctor to put you on a diet to improve your blood. As preventive medicine makes more sense than yanking out your uppers and lowers, I agreed to read the aforesaid book, which starts off with the confession that Dr. Abrahamson nearly helped to kill a patient because he was treating him for the obvious when what he should have discovered was the hidden. And the hidden enemy was hyperinsulinism—too much insulin, too generous a working of the Islands of Langerhans, if you know what I mean.

We are blessed, in these days of great political and economic confusion, that in little laboratories great minds are at work, at low pay, in comparative obscurity, saving our lives. Such a man apparently is Dr. Seale Harris, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama, who did important work in hyperinsulinism and to whom Dr. Abrahamson turned for the advice which saved his patient.

It takes great courage for any man, particularly a doctor, to admit error and then to write a book about it. When it happens, a life might be saved. Applied more broadly to politics, a nation could be saved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — As a piece of psychological strategy in the "cold war," President Eisenhower's historic speech before the United Nations General Assembly is one of the craftiest and most penetrating documents flung at the Soviet government since the battle of words began.

For the address brushes away with one fell swoop any ground for further accusations, inside or outside Russia, about "war mongering" or military threat to Soviet Russia by the Western powers. It puts squarely up to the Kremlin the responsibility for helping to achieve or blocking a solution of the problem of international control of atomic energy.

Whether the proposals by the President accomplish anything in the way of a practical agreement or merely remain as a challenge to the Soviet government, it was a master stroke to have assembled in the speech the challenging proposals it contained. It was no ordinary pronouncement. It bears the earmarks of painstaking care given to every word over months and months of time. In a sense, it appears as the consummation of a strategy evolved gradually by the National Security Council, of which the President is the head.

May Be Academic Controversy

At first glance, it might seem that the old proposals which provided for inspection and a system of periodic disclosure of atomic weapons have been abandoned or at least put to one side for the time being. But a careful reading of the speech will reveal that there could be no "ratios of contributions" or "procedures" with respect to the allocation of uranium and fissionable materials without Soviet Russia's disclosure to the suggested international atomic energy agency of the basis for the distribution and, of course, some means of inspection to verify the accuracy of any figures used. It will be difficult anyway to persuade Congress to change existing law to make such contributions but, on the other hand, it may be a long time before the Soviet Union gives concrete approval, and hence the proposal may continue to be simply a matter of academic controversy.

Entirely apart from the skillful proposal that peaceful uses of atomic energy be given top priority in international negotiation over control of atomic weapons—something that will bring worldwide approval and take the initiative from the Soviet propaganda machine—there were in the President's speech some chosen words of warning to the Kremlin which are also of sensational importance.

Three statements especially will be duly noted behind the iron curtain. The first is this:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

That's a manner of describing the power of the United States from a quantitative basis. It cannot fail to impress the Soviets as to what has been done in secret since 1945 by America with billions of dollars of expenditure. It is really the first public disclosure of the power of our atomic stockpile.

The next statement of significance, designed as a reply to any "surprise aggression," contains this fateful warning unparalleled in history:

Gives Pointed Warning

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor—for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste—all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

This is a masterpiece of inverted statement which appears not as a threat but nevertheless states as a "fact" that Soviet Russia would be laid waste if her government ever attempted a "surprise aggression."

The third statement of utmost significance was also phrased in an inverted style of expression, but it nevertheless gives a pointed warning:

"We will never say that the peoples of Russia are an enemy with whom we have no desire ever to deal or mingle in friendly and fruitful relationship."

It will be noted that the emphasis is on the "peoples of Russia," and this can be interpreted as a warning that the present government in Moscow will be dealt with only as it truly reflects the wishes of the people of the Soviet Union—a distinction of tremendous importance. It could pave the way some day for a severance of relations with the present government if it shows itself to be a barrier to the assumed desire of the people of Soviet Russia to remain at peace with the West.

Unquestionably the main object of the Bermuda conference was to arrange for future meetings with the government of Soviet Russia and to go over the wording of the most important statement that the Western allies have issued since the close of World War II.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — President Eisenhower threw that atomic punch at U. N. as if he had been saving it up for a long time. Which he had.

From everything I could learn at Bermuda, which I plan to engrave on the head of a pin, it appears the historic speech has been weeks in preparation. It was originally scheduled to be the big gun in "Operation Candor," the determination of key figures in the Eisenhower administration to tell the facts of atomic age life to the American people.

"I had originally planned to say (this) primarily to the American people," he told the Assembly. But the futile November 18 effort by the assembly to breathe new life in the defunct disarmament commission gave Eisenhower a broader hook on which to hank his proposal. It was a comparatively simple matter to draw an invitation from U. N.'s Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The announced reason, later retracted, was that this would mark the last day of the current assembly, but radio and TV customers of the historic speech will recall that at its end the gloriously sari'd Madame Pandit remarked, matter of factlike, "The Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p. m. This Assembly is adjourned." If the good madam was enthused about Ike's proposal she masterfully concealed it.

The President seemed reluctant to let go of the speech so far as the reporters were concerned. He nursed it through his spare hours at Bermuda, changing a word here and a word there. Then we were told we'd have a whack at it during the 3-hour ride the immortal Dick Merrill gave us from Bermuda to New York on an Eastern Air Lines charter Conny.

But no text. Jim Hagerty told us before we got on the plane. En route, word came that the reporters were to go to a roped off sector of the Marine terminal at LaGuardia where "an important announcement will be made." We did. The announcement was that there would be no text delivered to us at the airport. Instead, it was going to be rushed to U. N., mimeographed, and distributed about 15 minutes before Ike spoke.

So the President's Air Force Conny landed after making two long passes over the field, which one reporter mistook for a delaying action to enable Ike to do a rewrite. Out of the plane popped jovial Jim Hagerty burdened down with a load of finely mimeographed texts of the speech. Only by dint of a tremendous scramble to telephones were reporters able to delived to their editors, and thus on to the public, what may be remembers as the President's greatest speech.

In the course of proposing an atom treasury whose fissionable material would be spent for good, not destruction, Eisenhower hit what seemed to me one of the all-time peaks of the office of the presidency. His invitation to the world to save itself by concentrating on the good that is in the atom could be remembered with Monroe's Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Wilson's Fourteen Points, the Four Freedoms, and the Point Four program.

If Russia plays ball, and she may in view of the fact that she will have as much access to such an atom bank and the know-how of its experts as any other contributing nation, we could be at the dawn of an enduring peace wherein the wonders of the atom will make pale by comparison its ability to destroy the species.

But if Russia doesn't respond, and is crazy enough to start an atomic war, there is comfort in Eisenhower's startling revelations about the progress of our weapons program. He revealed for the first time that we have developed A-bombs 25 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb, which had a "yield" equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. That means a 500,000 ton bomb. And he spoke of hydrogen bombs in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent.

There was one statement in the speech that will rank with Lincoln's defi to the world armies to mount an offensive that would enable one enemy soldier to drink of the Mississippi. Ike said:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increase daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theatre of war through all the years of World War II."

Wow!

'Mystery Youth' Testifies In Morals Perjury Probe

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — A young man whose identity was shielded by officials testified today before a Grand Jury probing the possibility of perjury in a series of Baltimore morals trials.

The jury was ordered to make the investigation after a conflict appeared in testimony given by the son of the mayor of Baltimore, 20-year-old Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro and three young men convicted in the trials.

Young D'Alesandro swore he had never before seen the girls, 12 and 14, involved in the cases, and the other defendants said he was with them the night of the alleged offenses. The mayor's son was found innocent of statutory rape and the other 11 defendants have been convicted. Four remain to be tried.

Although State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro refused to give the name of the young man testifying today, other sources told newsmen the witness was Samuel M. Adleman of Baltimore.

Some of the city's top police officials were on today's list of witnesses. Eleven new witnesses have been called to appear tomorrow. Reports were that the scope of the investigation has been widened to take in more than the matter of possible perjury.

Higher Hospital Rates Due If Pay Of Nurses Upped

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—A hospital association official says pay boosts for nurses will bring higher hospital rates.

The forecast came from Robert S. Hoyt, president of the Hospital Association for Maryland, District of Columbia and Delaware.

He said since Dec. 1, private-duty nurse rates in the Baltimore area have been up $2 a day, to $14, and he predicted a boost in pay for nurses in general.

He said he didn't know how many areas would increase hospital rates but said Baltimore and the big hospitals on the Eastern Shore and Annapolis "are going along with us."

Hospital personnel in general, Hoyt said, "is still underpaid."

The State Nurses Association has proposed that beginners in general-duty nursing get $3,100 instead of the present $2,650 to $3,150.

Freedom Offers Hope

Americans should not be more shocked than previously they have been at continued refusal of 22 U. S. soldiers to accept repatriation at Panmunjom. It need not be a surprise if all 22 finally refuse to go home and insist on casting their lot with the Reds, despite all the "explaining" the U.N. talkers can do. It will be surprising, on the other hand, if even a few of the 22 change their minds.

Now we are seeing the double-distilled essence of the results of Communist brain-washing. Most of these 22 Americans have fairly normal American backgrounds. Yet for reasons that may never be known, their experiences in a cruel foreign bondage have made them prey to a new indoctrination. They are a very small minority of Americans captured; the great majority chose freedom under the Stars and Stripes. Most of the 22 were captured in 1950. Three years of unremitting pressures have put untold strains on these men.

These men may be lost forever to their families and friends. But their defection and that of the few South Koreans serve in the most positive way to demonstrate how strong is the love of home when that home is in a country where freedom exists.

It is shocking that as many as 22 Americans, reared in freedom, renounced their flag. But does not the real significance of Panmunjom lie in the fact that only about one per cent of Chinese and North Korean prisoners wanted to go to homes behind the iron curtain. For thousands of these Asians, before the Korean War, life was hard but no worse than life in South Korea. But they feel that life outside the iron curtain offers more of one great commodity. That is hope. And hope can mean more than home.

Out Of Siberia

It would be strange indeed if the repatriated Japanese war prisoners just returned from Siberia after eight years did not bring stories of a great military and economic buildup there. The existence of many big air bases near the Bering Sea has been an ill kept secret, and there's no reason to doubt a returned Japanese general's remarks about new jet and bomber fields.

As for the stories of the ex-POWs about the economic buildup, the U. S. State Department recently spoke of the "remarkable and dismaying progress" of Russia in producing coal, steel, oil and electricity.

Some of the repatriates had stories about a new atom bomb plant near Lake Baikal. Others revealed uranium is being produced from vastly increased diggings up near the Arctic Circle. Such stories could have resulted from careful coaching by the Reds, but it has been taken for granted for many months that the Russians possess the atom bomb (if not the hydrogen bomb) and the means to make it.

Perhaps the story to be appraised more carefully than most is that told by a Jap who was a top official in a huge electric power setup in Manchuria. He said it wasn't solely heavy industry the government was pushing, but "consumer products and social welfare facilities." Last August Malenkov and his aides beat their breasts about dire shortages in almost everything from women's stockings to furniture and butter and eggs.

In large degree Russia's ability to wage global war depends on buildup of confidence of a better life for the masses. That's the Russian problem still working in favor of the West.

Firming Grip On Korea

Pact signed at Peiping for consolidation of economic and cultural relations between the Communist governments of China and North Korea strikes a blow to any flickering hope that the Communists seriously contemplate a settlement under which Korea would be unified.

This agreement, entered into while Peiping representatives at Panmunjom were maneuvering to delay indefinitely the political conference projects by the armistice agreement, is assigned a life of 10 years. Under it, the Chinese forgive the North Korean regime its indebtedness for supplies and costs incurred in the fighting and further pledge the equivalent of $300,000,000 in reconstruction aid.

A representative of the Moscow government sat in on the nine-day negotiations, indicating that the Soviet Union recognizes the dominant interest of the Peiping regime, which still has perhaps a million troops there, in North Korea's future.

Accompanying announcement in Peiping declared the desire of the communists to cooperate in working out the unification of Korea by peaceful means. They have previously indicated readiness to enter into an arrangement by which North and South Korean governments would be fused on a 50-50 basis. They would expect to gain majority control later by such means as they have used in coalition governments elsewhere.

President Rhee's offer to accept an all-Korean election under United Nations supervision would have no standing in such a program.

Round-The-World Radio

A great new instrument for national defense has been dedicated and put into operation by the United States Navy in the world's most powerful radio transmitter, located in the Cascade Mountains in the state of Washington. This $14,000,000 installation can reach Navy forces on land, vesseds at sea, even submerged submarines, simultaneously anywhere in the world without the necessity of messages being relayed.

This was fully demonstrated when Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, which built the transmitter, tapped out the first message. Replies came from vessels in the South Atlantic, the Mediterranean, the Western Pacific and the North Atlantic. Answers from vessels at a great distance had to be relayed four, five and six times, but they all got the message directly from "Radio Jim Creek."

The station has a power of 1,200,000 watts and is the biggest piece of electronic equipment ever built. It has 22 times the power of big commercial broadcasters. It is able to penetrate to the Arctic despite magnetic storms.

Great as is the value of an instrument so powerful in time of peace, in time of war it would be incalculable. In the event that relaying stations, on which naval forces would normally rely, has been destroyed, it still would be possible for the Navy Department to put into prompt action any change in strategy in any particular area.

How To Keep Well

Infected Hair

Ringworm of the scalp is an old disease that seldom gave us trouble until 10 years ago. Since then it has occurred in epidemic proportions among school children in many parts of the United States and more than one community has been forced to call for help from our larger medical centers and public health departments.

The increasing frequency of ringworm means that all parents should be on the alert, more so when the condition is present in the neighborhood. Periodic examination of the child's head with a special ultraviolet light to determine whether the disease exists is a regular routine in many schools.

The disorder is suspected when ever the scalp exhibits rounded patches covered with fine, branlike scales. The hair over these areas looks moth-eaten in that some of the shafts are short, broken, or have fallen off entirely. Infected hairs may escape detection and it is here that the ultraviolet light containing the Wood filter comes in handy. With this procedure a single hair will glow in the dark if it is infected. The importance of early detection cannot be emphasized enough because few disorders spread as rapidly or are as difficult to treat as ringworm.

The head is shaved or clipped closely before any treatment is started. Ointments and salves are tried first and if, at the end of two months, the condition is not cured, X-ray treatments are advised. A dozen or more fungicides including decupryl, salundek, salinidol, furaspor, acrizane, cresatin, and spergon are available but even the best seldom cures more than 40 per cent of the cases. This is understandable because in ringworm the infection involves the portion of the hair that is buried in the follicle.

As the hair grows, it continually carries the ring worm spores to the surface where they are in a position to spread to the rest of the scalp or cling to anything else that touches the head. The fungicides must penetrate each follicle to kill the ringworm and unless it does the job thoroughly the disease is likely to return. The most successful remedy is X-ray in large enough doses to cause the hair to fall out temporarily. This method is tricky and requires an expert along this line.

Victims of ringworm should be segregated during the acute stage. The hair should be shaved or clipped once a week followed by thorough shampooing. A cap of washable material is worn at all times and removed only when treatment is being applied. Meanwhile the child is instructed not to swap hats with other children. His comb and brush must not be used by other members of the family.

Can ringworm be prevented? This is a difficult problem because children are chummy by nature. The parents may insist, however, that the scalp be washed immediately on returning home from the barber shop or theater. Meanwhile, periodic examinations of the head should be made in order to catch the disease at its inception.

TOMORROW: Many plans for relieving arthritis.

The Facts Of Life--And Death

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Advisers See Error In McCarthy Appeasement; White House Gave McCarthy Investigational Power; McCarthy Propaganda Net Work Includes "Facts Forum"

WASHINGTON—White House advisers, previously split as to whether the President should crack back at Senator McCarthy, are now less divided. The McCarthy strategy of swamping the White House with telegrams, plus his charge that the White House was concealing Western Union figures, plus earlier McCarthy criticism, has made even General "Slick" Persons realize that Ike can't appease McCarthy.

General Persons, with Vice President Nixon, has been the most persuasive of the Ike-advisers who believe the President must get along with McCarthy, not oppose him.

But now it's the belief of almost everyone who tries to counsel an idealistic but politically inexperienced president but the senator from Wisconsin has used the Eisenhower administration to build himself a rabid following which can't be dissipated overnight. In effect, the administration has supplied the steppingstones by which the man who now defies it has risen to power.

Here are some of the steppingstones the administration has inadvertently handed its chief Republican critic:

Steppingstone No. 1—Carbon copies of all Eisenhower administration investigations are automatically given McCarthy. That was how he knew the Army was probing the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Army had been working on this for months, and after McCarthy obtained copies of Army reports, it was a simple matter for him to call witnesses, usurp the headlines.

Steppingstone No. 2—Attorney General Brownell whitewashed the Senate Investigating Committee's report on McCarthy; also let the Statute of Limitations expire on the Senate probe of the Maryland election and McCarthy's part in it. A Senate committee had submitted a unanimous report, including amazing photostats of McCarthy's concealed financial operations. Yet Brownell announced that the matter was being dropped.

Steppingstone No. 3—The administration appointed two McCarthy men to the Federal Communications Commission. This is one reason the big radio and TV networks have leaned over backward to give McCarthy free time. The White House even appointed to the FCC Robert E. Lee, the McCarthy henchman who, according to a Senate report, handled some of the money in the Maryland election. Lee's extremely limited knowledge of radio or TV came as a moderator for the McCarthy-Hunt TV program, "Facts Forum."

Steppingstone No. 4—The administration gave McCarthy's chief financial angel, H. L. Hunt, and other financial backers, a tax reduction on contributions to his TV program, "Facts Forum." In other words, the administration which has suffered from McCarthy's attacks helped build him up by ruling that those who finance McCarthy's TV program get a tax deduction of 20 per cent for individuals and 5 per cent for corporations on the amounts they contribute.

McCarthy Network

This TV program gives significant insight into the McCarthy propaganda network. If the Republican party tried to get away with the same tax deductions it has given McCarthy's followers, it would be laughed out of court. However, "Facts Forum," though touted as educational, is actually an effective propaganda vehicle for the philosophy of America Firsters, isolationists and the Fascist fringe.

On its advisory committee are Gen. Robert E. Wood, former head of the America First Committee, which vigorously opposed war with Hitler; also Gen. Hanford McNider, an active leader in the same group.

Yet President Eisenhower's policies are the exact opposite. He commanded the chief offensive against Hitler, later advocated international cooperation as head of NATO in Paris.

A typical "Facts Forum" lecturer is Allan Zoll, whose American Patriots organization was put on the attorney general's list as subversive and Fascist. Among the books and literature which "Facts Forum" urges TV viewers to buy are those written by Merwyn K. Hart, who Justice Jackson described as "well known for his Fascist leanings."

President Eisenhower, of course, has taken exactly the opposite stand from these McCarthy followers, has made public pleas for tolerance and understanding. Yet his Treasury Department gives tax benefits to an organization fighting his policies under the guise of education.

"Facts Forum" urges TV viewers and radio listeners to participate in the "Facts Forum Book Plan," of which the most widely promoted book is McCarthy's "The Fight for America." This contains a diatribe against Eisenhower's close friend, Gen. George Marshall, now in Stockholm receiving the Nobel peace prize; also accuses such publications as the Christian Science Monitor, Time and Life magazines, Washington Post, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Portland Oregonian and the Milwaukee Journal of following the Communist line.

McCarthy's Angel

"Facts Forum" angel, Texas oil millionaire H. L. Hunt, is also in a favored tax position, due to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Hunt is a man of rather extreme ideas as to who is or is not a Communist, as illustrated by a conversation with Clare Boothe Luce, now ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Luce, visiting in Dallas, invited Hunt to visit her and her husband when he came to New York.

"Who is your husband?" asked Hunt.

"What," exclaimed Hunt, "that Communist!"

Hunt's and McCarthy's potent backing have put "Facts Forum" on about 200 radio and 40 TV stations, not counting the ABC network, according to its publicity claims. Perhaps one reason for its success is the Eisenhower appointment of "Facts Forum" moderator Lee to the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates all radio and TV stations.

Sugar In The System

Those who like to frighten people are telling us not to smoke lest we get cancer; not to drink lest we become alcoholics; not to eat tasty things lest we become diabetics. Soon we shall be living on nothing but stuff we buy in the drug store. The scarers have discovered a million allergies and enough lacks of vitamins, hormones and chemicals in each of us to make us shaky, wobbly and maladjusted. I often wonder how by grandfather managed to live to a grand old age without these fears and with no knowledge of vitamins.

However, I do know that sugar is poison for me because I have too much of it. I need never go to a doctor to discover the consequences of my sins; they find me out and plague me until I have burned up the surplus sugar. I have been told that insulin would help me burn it up, but I dislike stabbing myself with a needle each morning and I know that if I could withstand the lure of cakes, pies and French pastries, I should be all right.

I love to cheat my doctor, dieting rigidly in advance of an examination and always managing to show him a better side of me. Fortunately, I do not see him often.

Now I have discovered that there is another side to the story; that many suffer from too much insulin. Actually, I read a book on the subject—as much as I dislike such reading, devoting myself to more optimistic subjects which show that not I but the whole world is swiftly going to the devil. Any book on economics or the history of the past 20 years will help one to reach that conclusion.

The book on sugar is "Body, Mind and Sugar," by Dr. E. M. Abrahamson and A. W. Pezet, which attracted me because I am so full of sugar while some of the less optimistic among my friends seem to have nothing in their souls but bile. I was seeking a key to an understanding of their sour natures. A sugary optimist, I am sure that the worst has not yet happened and maybe never will.

This book turned out to be a very learned treatise, popularly written, on the subject of hyperinsulinism from which many suffer without knowing it. This illness comes from a generous pancreas providing too much insulin and it can lead to chronic fatigue, alcoholism, neurosis, allergies, suicide and even murder. That is what can happen to a fellow who has too much of what I have too little.

You might read this book and discover whether you are likely to commit murder one day; or you might take a glucose tolerance test to discover whether next March 15 you will be able to curb the inclination for suicide.

I first learned about this trouble from a couple of dentists who discovered that even small children who have pyorrhea also show signs of a low blood sugar. One of these dentists, when he treats a patient, goes through tests and questions like for a major operation and then, instead of pulling your teeth, sends you to a doctor to put you on a diet to improve your blood. As preventive medicine makes more sense than yanking out your uppers and lowers, I agreed to read the aforesaid book, which starts off with the confession that Dr. Abrahamson nearly helped to kill a patient because he was treating him for the obvious when what he should have discovered was the hidden. And the hidden enemy was hyperinsulinism—too much insulin, too generous a working of the Islands of Langerhans, if you know what I mean.

We are blessed, in these days of great political and economic confusion, that in little laboratories great minds are at work, at low pay, in comparative obscurity, saving our lives. Such a man apparently is Dr. Seale Harris, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama, who did important work in hyperinsulinism and to whom Dr. Abrahamson turned for the advice which saved his patient.

It takes great courage for any man, particularly a doctor, to admit error and then to write a book about it. When it happens, a life might be saved. Applied more broadly to politics, a nation could be saved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — As a piece of psychological strategy in the "cold war," President Eisenhower's historic speech before the United Nations General Assembly is one of the craftiest and most penetrating documents flung at the Soviet government since the battle of words began.

For the address brushes away with one fell swoop any ground for further accusations, inside or outside Russia, about "war mongering" or military threat to Soviet Russia by the Western powers. It puts squarely up to the Kremlin the responsibility for helping to achieve or blocking a solution of the problem of international control of atomic energy.

Whether the proposals by the President accomplish anything in the way of a practical agreement or merely remain as a challenge to the Soviet government, it was a master stroke to have assembled in the speech the challenging proposals it contained. It was no ordinary pronouncement. It bears the earmarks of painstaking care given to every word over months and months of time. In a sense, it appears as the consummation of a strategy evolved gradually by the National Security Council, of which the President is the head.

May Be Academic Controversy

At first glance, it might seem that the old proposals which provided for inspection and a system of periodic disclosure of atomic weapons have been abandoned or at least put to one side for the time being. But a careful reading of the speech will reveal that there could be no "ratios of contributions" or "procedures" with respect to the allocation of uranium and fissionable materials without Soviet Russia's disclosure to the suggested international atomic energy agency of the basis for the distribution and, of course, some means of inspection to verify the accuracy of any figures used. It will be difficult anyway to persuade Congress to change existing law to make such contributions but, on the other hand, it may be a long time before the Soviet Union gives concrete approval, and hence the proposal may continue to be simply a matter of academic controversy.

Entirely apart from the skillful proposal that peaceful uses of atomic energy be given top priority in international negotiation over control of atomic weapons—something that will bring worldwide approval and take the initiative from the Soviet propaganda machine—there were in the President's speech some chosen words of warning to the Kremlin which are also of sensational importance.

Three statements especially will be duly noted behind the iron curtain. The first is this:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

That's a manner of describing the power of the United States from a quantitative basis. It cannot fail to impress the Soviets as to what has been done in secret since 1945 by America with billions of dollars of expenditure. It is really the first public disclosure of the power of our atomic stockpile.

The next statement of significance, designed as a reply to any "surprise aggression," contains this fateful warning unparalleled in history:

Gives Pointed Warning

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor—for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste—all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

This is a masterpiece of inverted statement which appears not as a threat but nevertheless states as a "fact" that Soviet Russia would be laid waste if her government ever attempted a "surprise aggression."

The third statement of utmost significance was also phrased in an inverted style of expression, but it nevertheless gives a pointed warning:

"We will never say that the peoples of Russia are an enemy with whom we have no desire ever to deal or mingle in friendly and fruitful relationship."

It will be noted that the emphasis is on the "peoples of Russia," and this can be interpreted as a warning that the present government in Moscow will be dealt with only as it truly reflects the wishes of the people of the Soviet Union—a distinction of tremendous importance. It could pave the way some day for a severance of relations with the present government if it shows itself to be a barrier to the assumed desire of the people of Soviet Russia to remain at peace with the West.

Unquestionably the main object of the Bermuda conference was to arrange for future meetings with the government of Soviet Russia and to go over the wording of the most important statement that the Western allies have issued since the close of World War II.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — President Eisenhower threw that atomic punch at U. N. as if he had been saving it up for a long time. Which he had.

From everything I could learn at Bermuda, which I plan to engrave on the head of a pin, it appears the historic speech has been weeks in preparation. It was originally scheduled to be the big gun in "Operation Candor," the determination of key figures in the Eisenhower administration to tell the facts of atomic age life to the American people.

"I had originally planned to say (this) primarily to the American people," he told the Assembly. But the futile November 18 effort by the assembly to breathe new life in the defunct disarmament commission gave Eisenhower a broader hook on which to hank his proposal. It was a comparatively simple matter to draw an invitation from U. N.'s Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The announced reason, later retracted, was that this would mark the last day of the current assembly, but radio and TV customers of the historic speech will recall that at its end the gloriously sari'd Madame Pandit remarked, matter of factlike, "The Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p. m. This Assembly is adjourned." If the good madam was enthused about Ike's proposal she masterfully concealed it.

The President seemed reluctant to let go of the speech so far as the reporters were concerned. He nursed it through his spare hours at Bermuda, changing a word here and a word there. Then we were told we'd have a whack at it during the 3-hour ride the immortal Dick Merrill gave us from Bermuda to New York on an Eastern Air Lines charter Conny.

But no text, Jim Hagerty told us before we got on the plane. En route, word came that the reporters were to go to a roped off sector of the Marine terminal at LaGuardia where "an important announcement will be made." We did. The announcement was that there would be no text delivered to us at the airport. Instead, it was going to be rushed to U. N., mimeographed, and distributed about 15 minutes before Ike spoke.

So the President's Air Force Conny landed after making two long passes over the field, which one reporter mistook for a delaying action to enable Ike to do a rewrite. Out of the plane popped jovial Jim Hagerty burdened down with a load of finely mimeographed texts of the speech. Only by dint of a tremendous scramble to telephones were reporters able to delived to their editors, and thus on to the public, what may be remembers as the President's greatest speech.

In the course of proposing an atom treasury whose fissionable material would be spent for good, not destruction, Eisenhower hit what seemed to me one of the all-time peaks of the office of the presidency. His invitation to the world to save itself by concentrating on the good that is in the atom could be remembered with Monroe's Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Wilson's Fourteen Points, the Four Freedoms, and the Point Four program.

If Russia plays ball, and she may in view of the fact that she will have as much access to such an atom bank and the know-how of its experts as any other contributing nation, we could be at the dawn of an enduring peace wherein the wonders of the atom will make pale by comparison its ability to destroy the species.

But if Russia doesn't respond, and is crazy enough to start an atomic war, there is comfort in Eisenhower's startling revelations about the progress of our weapons program. He revealed for the first time that we have developed A-bombs 25 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb, which had a "yield" equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. That means a 500,000 ton bomb. And he spoke of hydrogen bombs in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent.

There was one statement in the speech that will rank with Lincoln's defi to the world armies to mount an offensive that would enable one enemy soldier to drink of the Mississippi. Ike said:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increase daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theatre of war through all the years of World War II."

Wow!

Freedom Offers Hope

Americans should not be more shocked than previously they have been at continued refusal of 22 U. S. soldiers to accept repatriation at Panmunjom. It need not be a surprise if all 22 finally refuse to go home and insist on casting their lot with the Reds, despite all the "explaining" the U.N. talkers can do. It will be surprising, on the other hand, if even a few of the 22 change their minds.

Now we are seeing the double-distilled essence of the results of Communist brain-washing. Most of these 22 Americans have fairly normal American backgrounds. Yet for reasons that may never be known, their experiences in a cruel foreign bondage have made them prey to a new indoctrination. They are a very small minority of Americans captured; the great majority chose freedom under the Stars and Stripes. Most of the 22 were captured in 1950. Three years of unremitting pressures have put untold strains on these men.

These men may be lost forever to their families and friends. But their defection and that of the few South Koreans serve in the most positive way to demonstrate how strong is the love of home when that home is in a country where freedom exists.

It is shocking that as many as 22 Americans, reared in freedom, renounced their flag. But does not the real significance of Panmunjom lie in the fact that only about one per cent of Chinese and North Korean prisoners wanted to go to homes behind the iron curtain. For thousands of these Asians, before the Korean War, life was hard but no worse than life in South Korea. But they feel that life outside the iron curtain offers more of one great commodity. That is hope. And hope can mean more than home.

Out Of Siberia

It would be strange indeed if the repatriated Japanese war prisoners just returned from Siberia after eight years did not bring stories of a great military and economic buildup there. The existence of many big air bases near the Bering Sea has been an ill kept secret, and there's no reason to doubt a returned Japanese general's remarks about new jet and bomber fields.

As for the stories of the ex-POWs about the economic buildup, the U. S. State Department recently spoke of the "remarkable and dismaying progress" of Russia in producing coal, steel, oil and electricity.

Some of the repatriates had stories about a new atom bomb plant near Lake Baikal. Others revealed uranium is being produced from vastly increased diggings up near the Arctic Circle. Such stories could have resulted from careful coaching by the Reds, but it has been taken for granted for many months that the Russians possess the atom bomb (if not the hydrogen bomb) and the means to make it.

Perhaps the story to be appraised more carefully than most is that told by a Jap who was a top official in a huge electric power setup in Manchuria. He said it wasn't solely heavy industry the government was pushing, but "consumer products and social welfare facilities." Last August Malenkov and his aides beat their breasts about dire shortages in almost everything from women's stockings to furniture and butter and eggs.

In large degree Russia's ability to wage global war depends on buildup of confidence of a better life for the masses. That's the Russian problem still working in favor of the West.

Firming Grip On Korea

Pact signed at Peiping for consolidation of economic and cultural relations between the Communist governments of China and North Korea strikes a blow to any flickering hope that the Communists seriously contemplate a settlement under which Korea would be unified.

This agreement, entered into while Peiping representatives at Panmunjom were maneuvering to delay indefinitely the political conference projects by the armistice agreement, is assigned a life of 10 years. Under it, the Chinese forgive the North Korean regime its indebtedness for supplies and costs incurred in the fighting and further pledge the equivalent of $300,000,000 in reconstruction aid.

A representative of the Moscow government sat in on the nine-day negotiations, indicating that the Soviet Union recognizes the dominant interest of the Peiping regime, which still has perhaps a million troops there, in North Korea's future.

Accompanying announcement in Peiping declared the desire of the communists to cooperate in working out the unification of Korea by peaceful means. They have previously indicated readiness to enter into an arrangement by which North and South Korean governments would be fused on a 50-50 basis. They would expect to gain majority control later by such means as they have used in coalition governments elsewhere.

President Rhee's offer to accept an all-Korean election under United Nations supervision would have no standing in such a program.

Round-The-World Radio

A great new instrument for national defense has been dedicated and put into operation by the United States Navy in the world's most powerful radio transmitter, located in the Cascade Mountains in the state of Washington. This $14,000,000 installation can reach Navy forces on land, vesseds at sea, even submerged submarines, simultaneously anywhere in the world without the necessity of messages being relayed.

This was fully demonstrated when Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, which built the transmitter, tapped out the first message. Replies came from vessels in the South Atlantic, the Mediterranean, the Western Pacific and the North Atlantic. Answers from vessels at a great distance had to be relayed four, five and six times, but they all got the message directly from "Radio Jim Creek."

The station has a power of 1,200,000 watts and is the biggest piece of electronic equipment ever built. It has 22 times the power of big commercial broadcasters. It is able to penetrate to the Arctic despite magnetic storms.

Great as is the value of an instrument so powerful in time of peace, in time of war it would be incalculable. In the event that relaying stations, on which naval forces would normally rely, has been destroyed, it still would be possible for the Navy Department to put into prompt action any change in strategy in any particular area.

How To Keep Well

Infected Hair

Ringworm of the scalp is an old disease that seldom gave us trouble until 10 years ago. Since then it has occurred in epidemic proportions among school children in many parts of the United States and more than one community has been forced to call for help from our larger medical centers and public health departments.

The increasing frequency of ringworm means that all parents should be on the alert, more so when the condition is present in the neighborhood. Periodic examination of the child's head with a special ultraviolet light to determine whether the disease exists is a regular routine in many schools.

The disorder is suspected when ever the scalp exhibits rounded patches covered with fine, bran-like scales. The hair over these areas looks moth-eaten in that some of the shafts are short, broken, or have fallen off entirely. Infected hairs may escape detection and it is here that the ultraviolet light containing the Wood filter comes in handy. With this procedure a single hair will glow in the dark if it is infected. The importance of early detection cannot be emphasized enough because few disorders spread as rapidly or are as difficult to treat as ringworm.

The head is shaved or clipped closely before any treatment is started. Ointments and salves are tried first and if, at the end of two months, the condition is not cured, X-ray treatments are advised. A dozen or more fungicides including decupryl, salundek, salinidol, furaspor, acrizane, cresatin, and spergon are available but even the best seldom cures more than 40 per cent of the cases. This is understandable because in ringworm the infection involves the portion of the hair that is buried in the follicle.

As the hair grows, it continually carries the ring worm spores to the surface where they are in a position to spread to the rest of the scalp or cling to anything else that touches the head. The fungicides must penetrate each follicle to kill the ringworm and unless it does the job thoroughly the disease is likely to return. The most successful remedy is X-ray in large enough doses to cause the hair to fall out temporarily. This method is tricky and requires an expert along this line.

Victims of ringworm should be segregated during the acute stage. The hair should be shaved or clipped once a week followed by thorough shampooing. A cap of washable material is worn at all times and removed only when treatment is being applied. Meanwhile the child is instructed not to swap hats with other children. His comb and brush must not be used by other members of the family.

Can ringworm be prevented? This is a difficult problem because children are chummy by nature. The parents may insist, however, that the scalp be washed immediately on returning home from the barber shop or theater. Meanwhile, periodic examinations of the head should be made in order to catch the disease at its inception.

TOMORROW: Many plans for relieving arthritis.

IRON IN VEGETABLES

P. E. writes: Is there any iron in vegetables?

REPLY

The leafy vegetables yield iron and include lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, spinach, turnip greens, and beet greens. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for list of other foods containing iron.

INJURY OR INFLAMMATION

W. C. writes: What is the cause of bone cyst?

REPLY

The cause is not known, but in some instances, the cyst follows injury, fracture, on inflammation. Now and then the condition is traced to a glandular disturbance.

The Facts Of Life--And Death

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Advisers See Error In McCarthy Appeasement; White House Gave McCarthy Investigational Power; McCarthy Propaganda Net Work Includes "Facts Forum"

WASHINGTON—White House advisers, previously split as to whether the President should crack back at Senator McCarthy, are now less divided. The McCarthy strategy of swamping the White House with telegrams, plus his charge that the White House was concealing Western Union figures, plus earlier McCarthy criticism, has made even General "Slick" Persons realize that Ike can't appease McCarthy.

General Persons, with Vice President Nixon, has been the most persuasive of the Ike-advisers who believe the President must get along with McCarthy, not oppose him.

But now it's the belief of almost everyone who tries to counsel an idealistic but politically inexperienced president but the senator from Wisconsin has used the Eisenhower administration to build himself a rabid following which can't be dissipated overnight. In effect, the administration has supplied the steppingstones by which the man who now defies it has risen to power.

Here are some of the steppingstones the administration has inadvertently handed its chief Republican critic:

Steppingstone No. 1—Carbon copies of all Eisenhower administration investigations are automatically given McCarthy. That was how he knew the Army was probing the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Army had been working on this for months, and after McCarthy obtained copies of Army reports, it was a simple matter for him to call witnesses, usurp the headlines.

Steppingstone No. 2—Attorney General Brownell whitewashed the Senate Investigating Committee's report on McCarthy; also let the Statute of Limitations expire on the Senate probe of the Maryland election and McCarthy's part in it. A Senate committee had submitted a unanimous report, including amazing photostats of McCarthy's concealed financial operations. Yet Brownell announced that the matter was being dropped.

Steppingstone No. 3—The administration appointed two McCarthy men to the Federal Communications Commission. This is one reason the big radio and TV networks have leaned over backward to give McCarthy free time. The White House even appointed to the FCC Robert E. Lee, the McCarthy henchman who, according to a Senate report, handled some of the money in the Maryland election. Lee's extremely limited knowledge of radio or TV came as a moderator for the McCarthy-Hunt TV program, "Facts Forum."

Steppingstone No. 4—The administration gave McCarthy's chief financial angel, H. L. Hunt, and other financial backers, a tax reduction on contributions to his TV program, "Facts Forum." In other words, the administration which has suffered from McCarthy's attacks helped build him up by ruling that those who finance McCarthy's TV program get a tax deduction of 20 per cent for individuals and 5 per cent for corporations on the amounts they contribute.

McCarthy Network

This TV program gives significant insight into the McCarthy propaganda network. If the Republican party tried to get away with the same tax deductions it has given McCarthy's followers, it would be laughed out of court. However, "Facts Forum," though touted as educational, is actually an effective propaganda vehicle for the philosophy of America Firsters, isolationists and the Fascist fringe.

On its advisory committee are Gen. Robert E. Wood, former head of the America First Committee, which vigorously opposed war with Hitler; also Gen. Hanford McNider, an active leader in the same group.

Yet President Eisenhower's policies are the exact opposite. He commanded the chief offensive against Hitler, later advocated international cooperation as head of NATO in Paris.

A typical "Facts Forum" lecturer is Allan Zoll, whose American Patriots organization was put on the attorney general's list as subversive and Fascist. Among the books and literature which "Facts Forum" urges TV viewers to buy are those written by Merwyn K. Hart, who Justice Jackson described as "well known for his Fascist leanings."

President Eisenhower, of course, has taken exactly the opposite stand from these McCarthy followers, has made public pleas for tolerance and understanding. Yet his Treasury Department gives tax benefits to an organization fighting his policies under the guise of education.

"Facts Forum" urges TV viewers and radio listeners to participate in the "Facts Forum Book Plan," of which the most widely promoted book is McCarthy's "The Fight for America." This contains a diatribe against Eisenhower's close friend, Gen. George Marshall, now in Stockholm receiving the Nobel peace prize; also accuses such publications as the Christian Science Monitor, Time and Life magazines, Washington Post, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Portland Oregonian and the Milwaukee Journal of following the Communist line.

McCarthy's Angel

"Facts Forum" angel, Texas oil millionaire H. L. Hunt, is also in a favored tax position, due to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Hunt is a man of rather extreme ideas as to who is or is not a Communist, as illustrated by a conversation with Clare Boothe Luce, now ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Luce, visiting in Dallas, invited Hunt to visit her and her husband when he came to New York.

"Who is your husband?" asked Hunt.

"What," exclaimed Hunt, "that Communist!"

Hunt's and McCarthy's potent backing have put "Facts Forum" on about 200 radio and 40 TV stations, not counting the ABC network, according to its publicity claims. Perhaps one reason for its success is the Eisenhower appointment of "Facts Forum" moderator Lee to the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates all radio and TV stations.

Are you in Burp's Peerage, the Almanac De Goofa or penciled in lightly on the Social Blotter?

If not, walk, don't run, to the nearest hospitable exit.

Have you been slugged by Ruffirino Debacle? Or danced with the Marquisite of Mott Haven? Answer yes or why.

If not, run, don't gallop, down the nearest drain.

It means there is a stop order on the Four Hundred. Who charge much more than the gallant Five Hundred. Give 'em credit.

It means, my pretty poll, that you are a dead pidge. It means you are anethema and a byword in the market place. It means you are the dish who turned the blue book purple.

Were you a file closer at the coronation? Do you live on the barbituate side of Perk Avenue? If not, you are persona au gratin. You are knee plus ulcers.

You don't belong, my doxy, anymore than barbed wire in a silo. So get yourself hencewards and leave the world to dukeness and to me.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — As a piece of psychological strategy in the "cold war," President Eisenhower's historic speech before the United Nations General Assembly is one of the craftiest and most penetrating documents flung at the Soviet government since the battle of words began.

For the address brushes away with one fell swoop any ground for further accusations, inside or outside Russia, about "war mongering" or military threat to Soviet Russia by the Western powers. It puts squarely up to the Kremlin the responsibility for helping to achieve or blocking a solution of the problem of international control of atomic energy.

Whether the proposals by the President accomplish anything in the way of a practical agreement or merely remain as a challenge to the Soviet government, it was a master stroke to have assembled in the speech the challenging proposals it contained. It was no ordinary pronouncement. It bears the earmarks of painstaking care given to every word over months and months of time. In a sense, it appears as the consummation of a strategy evolved gradually by the National Security Council, of which the President is the head.

May Be Academic Controversy

At first glance, it might seem that the old proposals which provided for inspection and a system of periodic disclosure of atomic weapons have been abandoned or at least put to one side for the time being. But a careful reading of the speech will reveal that there could be no "ratios of contributions" or "procedures" with respect to the allocation of uranium and fissionable materials without Soviet Russia's disclosure to the suggested international atomic energy agency of the basis for the distribution and, of course, some means of inspection to verify the accuracy of any figures used. It will be difficult anyway to persuade Congress to change existing law to make such contributions but, on the other hand, it may be a long time before the Soviet Union gives concrete approval, and hence the proposal may continue to be simply a matter of academic controversy.

Entirely apart from the skillful proposal that peaceful uses of atomic energy be given top priority in international negotiation over control of atomic weapons—something that will bring worldwide approval and take the initiative from the Soviet propaganda machine—there were in the President's speech some chosen words of warning to the Kremlin which are also of sensational importance.

Three statements especially will be duly noted behind the iron curtain. The first is this:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

That's a manner of describing the power of the United States from a quantitative basis. It cannot fail to impress the Soviets as to what has been done in secret since 1945 by America with billions of dollars of expenditure. It is really the first public disclosure of the power of our atomic stockpile.

The next statement of significance, designed as a reply to any "surprise aggression," contains this fateful warning unparalleled in history:

Gives Pointed Warning

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor—for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste—all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

This is a masterpiece of inverted statement which appears not as a threat but nevertheless states as a "fact" that Soviet Russia would be laid waste if her government ever attempted a "surprise aggression."

The third statement of utmost significance was also phrased in an inverted style of expression, but it nevertheless gives a pointed warning:

"We will never say that the peoples of Russia are an enemy with whom we have no desire ever to deal or mingle in friendly and fruitful relationship."

It will be noted that the emphasis is on the "peoples of Russia," and this can be interpreted as a warning that the present government in Moscow will be dealt with only as it truly reflects the wishes of the people of the Soviet Union—a distinction of tremendous importance. It could pave the way some day for a severance of relations with the present government if it shows itself to be a barrier to the assumed desire of the people of Soviet Russia to remain at peace with the West.

Unquestionably the main object of the Bermuda conference was to arrange for future meetings with the government of Soviet Russia and to go over the wording of the most important statement that the Western allies have issued since the close of World War II.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — President Eisenhower threw that atomic punch at U. N. as if he had been saving it up for a long time. Which he had.

From everything I could learn at Bermuda, which I plan to engrave on the head of a pin, it appears the historic speech has been weeks in preparation. It was originally scheduled to be the big gun in "Operation Candor," the determination of key figures in the Eisenhower administration to tell the facts of atomic age life to the American people.

"I had originally planned to say (this) primarily to the American people," he told the Assembly. But the futile November 18 effort by the assembly to breathe new life in the defunct disarmament commission gave Eisenhower a broader hook on which to hank his proposal. It was a comparatively simple matter to draw an invitation from U. N.'s Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The announced reason, later retracted, was that this would mark the last day of the current assembly, but radio and TV customers of the historic speech will recall that at its end the gloriously sari'd Madame Pandit remarked, matter of factlike, "The Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p. m. This Assembly is adjourned." If the good madam was enthused about Ike's proposal she masterfully concealed it.

The President seemed reluctant to let go of the speech so far as the reporters were concerned. He nursed it through his spare hours at Bermuda, changing a word here and a word there. Then we were told we'd have a whack at it during the 3-hour ride the immortal Dick Merrill gave us from Bermuda to New York on an Eastern Air Lines charter Conny.

But no text, Jim Hagerty told us before we got on the plane. En route, word came that the reporters were to go to a roped off sector of the Marine terminal at LaGuardia where "an important announcement will be made." We did. The announcement was that there would be no text delivered to us at the airport. Instead, it was going to be rushed to U. N., mimeographed, and distributed about 15 minutes before Ike spoke.

So the President's Air Force Conny landed after making two long passes over the field, which one reporter mistook for a delaying action to enable Ike to do a rewrite. Out of the plane popped jovial Jim Hagerty burdened down with a load of finely mimeographed texts of the speech. Only by dint of a tremendous scramble to telephones were reporters able to delived to their editors, and thus on to the public, what may be remembers as the President's greatest speech.

In the course of proposing an atom treasury whose fissionable material would be spent for good, not destruction, Eisenhower hit what seemed to me one of the all-time peaks of the office of the presidency. His invitation to the world to save itself by concentrating on the good that is in the atom could be remembered with Monroe's Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Wilson's Fourteen Points, the Four Freedoms, and the Point Four program.

If Russia plays ball, and she may in view of the fact that she will have as much access to such an atom bank and the know-how of its experts as any other contributing nation, we could be at the dawn of an enduring peace wherein the wonders of the atom will make pale by comparison its ability to destroy the species.

But if Russia doesn't respond, and is crazy enough to start an atomic war, there is comfort in Eisenhower's startling revelations about the progress of our weapons program. He revealed for the first time that we have developed A-bombs 25 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb, which had a "yield" equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. That means a 500,000 ton bomb. And he spoke of hydrogen bombs in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent.

There was one statement in the speech that will rank with Lincoln's defi to the world armies to mount an offensive that would enable one enemy soldier to drink of the Mississippi. Ike said:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increase daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theatre of war through all the years of World War II."

Wow!

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Trygve Lie, former secretary general of the United Nations, was confined to his hotel room today because of an attack of influenza. He was forced to cancel all engagements for the next few days. An aide said Lie was expected to recover in two or three days.

'Mystery Youth' Testifies In Morals Perjury Probe

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — A young man whose identity was shielded by officials testified today before a Grand Jury probing the possibility of perjury in a series of Baltimore morals trials.

The jury was ordered to make the investigation after a conflict appeared in testimony given by the son of the mayor of Baltimore, 20-year-old Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro and three young men convicted in the trials.

Young D'Alesandro swore he had never before seen the girls, 12 and 14, involved in the cases, and the other defendants said he was with them the night of the alleged offenses. The mayor's son was found innocent of statutory rape and the other 11 defendants have been convicted. Four remain to be tried.

Although State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro refused to give the name of the young man testifying today, other sources told newsmen the witness was Samuel M. Adleman of Baltimore.

Some of the city's top police officials were on today's list of witnesses. Eleven new witnesses have been called to appear tomorrow. Reports were that the scope of the investigation has been widened to take in more than the matter of possible perjury.

Higher Hospital Rates Due If Pay Of Nurses Upped

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—A hospital association official says pay boosts for nurses will bring higher hospital rates.

The forecast came from Robert S. Hoyt, president of the Hospital Association for Maryland, District of Columbia and Delaware.

He said since Dec. 1, private-duty nurse rates in the Baltimore area have been up $2 a day, to $14, and he predicted a boost in pay for nurses in general.

He said he didn't know how many areas would increase hospital rates but said Baltimore and the big hospitals on the Eastern Shore and Annapolis "are going along with us."

Hospital personnel in general, Hoyt said, "is still underpaid."

The State Nurses Association has proposed that beginners in general-duty nursing get $3,100 instead of the present $2,650 to $3,150.

About 13 million autos built before World War II are still in use in the United States.

Above 15,000-20,000 feet, the oxygen in the air is not enough to maintain life.

She Was "Put Away"

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (AP)—Ruby King, 41, appeared before Judge John J. Kennedy today and said:

"I want to be put away for safekeeping, your honor. My boy friend has threatened me, and I'm afraid he's going to do me harm. Yesterday, he hit me with a dog chain."

Judge Kennedy granted Ruby's request pending a check on her story by probation officers.

Wicomico Commissioners Blast Assessments Report

SALISBURY, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Wicomico County Commissioners today denied the "false report" that Baltimore city and a few counties are victimized by high assessments while others are highly favored by low assessments.

They said in a resolution that was the "false impression" created by a State Tax Commission report which asserted assessments in some counties were relatively too low.

Wicomico was mentioned as an example along with Calvert, Kent, Charles, Howard, St. Mary's, Somerset and Worcester.

Just last Thursday the Montgomery County Council took note of the Tax Commission study and called upon Gov. McKeldin and the commission to press for more uniform property assessments before the next distribution of state equalization funds for educational use by the counties.

The counties and Baltimore meet their basic education costs through three principal sources—revenues from such levies as the property tax, outright state contributions based on number of pupils and teachers and state contributions from the equalization fund.

If taxes and outright state contributions aren't enough to pay the tab for minimum educational requirements, the equalization fund makes up the difference.

Distribution of the equalization fund is at the root of the controversy over assessments.

The Wicomico commissioners called the Tax Commission report on assessments "grossly unfair and erroneous." They said their county had cooperated fully with a recent Tax Commission program to establish fair assessments "despite often stated feelings among local residents that local assessments are too high."

The commissioners argued that their county is "bearing its full and honest share of the state tax burden on real estate."

They called for a study "by a competent and disinterested committee on the problem of the ratio of assessments" and urged that the other report charging that inequities exist be rejected.

The commissioners charged that the survey group which visited Wicomico County were from five other counties, all of which were given high ratings on the assessment ratio list.

The Wicomico group further argued that the surveyers spent only a few hours in each county checked, seeing only a few properties and studying only a few assessment cards.

Local conditions and relation to values elsewhere were not given proper consideration in establishing assessment ratios, the commissioners charged.

Mother Leaves To Try To Coax GI POW Home

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Portia Howe, Alden, Minn., late today boarded a plane for the Far East where she hopes to persuade her soldier son to come home.

Her son, Pfc. Richard Tenneson, 20, is one of 22 Americans the Communists say have refused repatriation.

Mrs. Howe, a Southern Minnesota farm woman, said she would try, if permitted, to bring her son "back to his senses and back home."

In granting her a passport Tuesday, the State Department said it could not assure her the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea would permit her to talk with Tenneson.

M'Keldin State's "Man Of Year"

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin is the man who did the most in "advertising the city and state in 1953", the Advertising Club said today as its members turned out to honor McKeldin at a luncheon.

Dr. Detlev Bronk, former Johns Hopkins University president and now head of the Rockefeller Institute, presented the governor with the club's "Man of the Year" award.

Louis E. Shecter, chairman of the luncheon program, praised McKeldin for "sticking his neck out" in furthering racial equality in Maryland.

Dr. Bronk cited the governor for tolerance, enthusiasm, loyalty and love of country.

In a brief acceptance speech, McKeldin dropped "Just a thought" for all advertising clubs of America. He suggested they promote letter writing to peoples behind the Iron Curtain to praise the virtues of America.

Among those present at the luncheon honoring the governor were Sen. Butler (R-Md), Dr. H.C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, and Mayor D'Alesandro of Baltimore.

Business Decentralization Blamed On Transit Problem

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — One reason for decentralization of business here is a steady decline in public transit service, Albert D. Hutzler Jr., president of the Retail Merchants Association told the Public Service Commission today.

He gave figures indicating a decline in downtown retail trade since the war.

The commission is holding hearings on a Baltimore Transit Co. application for a three-cent boost in its basic fare, putting it at 20 cents. It also wants other increases. Today's hearing on service was in connection with that application.

Hutzler cited figures of six leading downtown department stores, exclusive of outlying branches, which he said showed that since 1946 they had a 16.5 per cent drop in transactions.

He said since World War II, 252 stores, including five department stores, have been built in outlying shopping centers.

He said while "many factors are contributing to the decentralization of business to the outlying area "we are of the opinion one of the salient factors and one which should be dealt with aggressively and realistically is the steady decline in public transit service."

Hutzler said the association has no specific solution to the transit problem but has an attitude of "sympathy and constructive helpfulness."

He said property values in the downtown business district are threatened by the decline in transit service.

Iceland has no illiteracy and publishes more new books per capita than any other country in the world.

1,000 Attend Tribute Dinner To Dr. Byrd

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — The University of Maryland Alumni Association's tribute dinner to retiring president Dr. H. C. Byrd was a sellout drawing about 1,000 persons, sponsors said tonight.

Byrd, campaigning for governor, vacates his university post the first of next month.

Others on the program were Judge William P. Cole Jr., president of the University Board of Regents; Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore and Gov. McKeldin.

Dr. John C. Krantz Jr. was toastmaster and Talbott T. Speer and Dr. A. E. Goldstein were co-chairmen of the dinner arrangements.

Wicomico Commissioners Blast Assessments Report

SALISBURY, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Wicomico County Commissioners today denied the "false report" that Baltimore city and a few counties are victimized by high assessments while others are highly favored by low assessments.

They said in a resolution that was the "false impression" created by a State Tax Commission report which asserted assessments in some counties were relatively too low.

Wicomico was mentioned as an example along with Calvert, Kent, Charles, Howard, St. Mary's, Somerset and Worcester.

Just last Thursday the Montgomery County Council took note of the Tax Commission study and called upon Gov. McKeldin and the commission to press for more uniform property assessments before the next distribution of state equalization funds for educational use by the counties.

The counties and Baltimore meet their basic education costs through three principal sources—revenues from such levies as the property tax, outright state contributions based on number of pupils and teachers and state contributions from the equalization fund.

If taxes and outright state contributions aren't enough to pay the tab for minimum educational requirements, the equalization fund makes up the difference.

Distribution of the equalization fund is at the root of the controversy over assessments.

The Wicomico commissioners called the Tax Commission report on assessments "grossly unfair and erroneous." They said their county had cooperated fully with a recent Tax Commission program to establish fair assessments "despite often stated feelings among local residents that local assessments are too high."

The commissioners argued that their county is "bearing its full and honest share of the state tax burden on real estate."

They called for a study "by a competent and disinterested committee on the problem of the ratio of assessments" and urged that the other report charging that inequities exist be rejected.

The commissioners charged that the survey group which visited Wicomico County were from five other counties, all of which were given high ratings on the assessment ratio list.

The Wicomico group further argued that the surveyers spent only a few hours in each county checked, seeing only a few properties and studying only a few assessment cards.

Local conditions and relation to values elsewhere were not given proper consideration in establishing assessment ratios, the commissioners charged.

Mother Leaves To Try To Coax GI POW Home

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Portia Howe, Alden, Minn., late today boarded a plane for the Far East where she hopes to persuade her soldier son to come home.

Her son, Pfc. Richard Tenneson, 20, is one of 22 Americans the Communists say have refused repatriation.

Mrs. Howe, a Southern Minnesota farm woman, said she would try, if permitted, to bring her son "back to his senses and back home."

In granting her a passport Tuesday, the State Department said it could not assure her the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea would permit her to talk with Tenneson.

M'Keldin State's "Man Of Year"

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin is the man who did the most in "advertising the city and state in 1953", the Advertising Club said today as its members turned out to honor McKeldin at a luncheon.

Dr. Detlev Bronk, former Johns Hopkins University president and now head of the Rockefeller Institute, presented the governor with the club's "Man of the Year" award.

Louis E. Shecter, chairman of the luncheon program, praised McKeldin for "sticking his neck out" in furthering racial equality in Maryland.

Dr. Bronk cited the governor for tolerance, enthusiasm, loyalty and love of country.

In a brief acceptance speech, McKeldin dropped "Just a thought" for all advertising clubs of America. He suggested they promote letter writing to peoples behind the Iron Curtain to praise the virtues of America.

Among those present at the luncheon honoring the governor were Sen. Butler (R-Md), Dr. H.C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, and Mayor D'Alesandro of Baltimore.

Business Decentralization Blamed On Transit Problem

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — One reason for decentralization of business here is a steady decline in public transit service, Albert D. Hutzler Jr., president of the Retail Merchants Association told the Public Service Commission today.

He gave figures indicating a decline in downtown retail trade since the war.

The commission is holding hearings on a Baltimore Transit Co. application for a three-cent boost in its basic fare, putting it at 20 cents. It also wants other increases. Today's hearing on service was in connection with that application.

Hutzler cited figures of six leading downtown department stores, exclusive of outlying branches, which he said showed that since 1946 they had a 16.5 per cent drop in transactions.

He said since World War II, 252 stores, including five department stores, have been built in outlying shopping centers.

He said while "many factors are contributing to the decentralization of business to the outlying area "we are of the opinion one of the salient factors and one which should be dealt with aggressively and realistically is the steady decline in public transit service."

Hutzler said the association has no specific solution to the transit problem but has an attitude of "sympathy and constructive helpfulness."

He said property values in the downtown business district are threatened by the decline in transit service.

Iceland has no illiteracy and publishes more new books per capita than any other country in the world.

1,000 Attend Tribute Dinner To Dr. Byrd

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — The University of Maryland Alumni Association's tribute dinner to retiring president Dr. H. C. Byrd was a sellout drawing about 1,000 persons, sponsors said tonight.

Byrd, campaigning for governor, vacates his university post the first of next month.

Others on the program were Judge William P. Cole Jr., president of the University Board of Regents; Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore and Gov. McKeldin.

Dr. John C. Krantz Jr. was toastmaster and Talbott T. Speer and Dr. A. E. Goldstein were co-chairmen of the dinner arrangements.

Sen. Beall Takes Firm Stand In Opposing U.S. Recognition Of China

Wants World To Know America Still Cherishes Ideals Of Peace, Freedom And Liberty For All

Sen. J. Glenn Beall has stated that he believes "this nation will make its second great mistake of this century if it recognizes Red China."

Sen. Beall announced that he was calling his views to the attention of Sen. Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, who will attend a White House legislative conference this month.

"Since Congress adjourned in early August," Sen. Beall said, "I have become increasingly disturbed by reports that our government is being pressured by friendly allies to recognize Red China. It is said that our failure to recognize the present Chinese government is a failure on our part to recognize a historical fact.

SEN. J. GLENN BEALL

Recalls Same Propaganda

"I can well recall similar arguments twenty years ago which were persuasive in bringing about recognition of Communist Russia, and my own views are that this official recognition of the Communists did much to entrench the totalitarian regime of Stalin. This great mistake has cost the free world very dearly in blood and treasure.

"This nation will make its second great mistake of this century if it recognizes Red China. The little group of Moscow trained Communists who are now in control of China are not a legitimate government placed in power by the Chinese people, but a revolutionary military conspiracy, not working for the good of the Chinese people, but completely subservient to the wishes and desires of the Communist rulers in the Kremlin.

Consistency Is Needed

"How can we in America continue to hold out hope for the oppressed people of Eastern Europe if we announce to the world that we are abandoning the freedom loving people in China by resuming diplomatic relations with the government which is denying them the very freedoms and liberties which we proclaim as the unalienable right of all men?

"Since the armistice in Korea ample evidence has been produced to prove that the government of China is barbaric and cruel. The Communist treatment of prisoners of war has been shocking to the American people, and has aroused in us not a desire to participate with them as equals but to live in hopes of the day when that government will be deposed and those responsible for these atrocities given the punishment their crimes deserve.

Opposed To All Tyranny

"Over 900 American soldiers who fought in Korea are reported to be completely unaccounted for—either as prisoners, missing, killed, or the victims of Communist atrocities. To consider recognizing a government with such a bestial attitude toward human life is to my mind inconceivable.

"Rather than recognizing Red China by the establishment of diplomatic relations I think we should make it clear to friends and enemies alike that we in America are opposed to tyranny wherever it may be and that we will forever hold the torch of liberty high so that those who are oppressed may continue to have hope."

Schmidt Bakery Gives Christmas Party For 300

Those present included 60 men, women and children from Johnstown, Pa., plant families, who spent the night at the Algonquin Hotel here.

Each year, according to Kenton Farrell, local plant manager, a Christmas party is held here for employes and their families of the Cumberland and Johnstown plants. Similar parties are held for employes and their families at the company's large Baltimore and Martinsburg, W. Va. bakeries.

Carl Schmidt, president of the company, along with several members of his family, as well as other company officials from Baltimore, were here for the occasion.

Santa Claus made his appearance by coming down a conveyor at the plant and presented gifts to the more than 120 youngsters present. A local caterer served a buffet supper and music for dancing was furnished by Art Shaffer's orchestra.

Appeals Court Hears Local Damage Suit

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Mollie Williams, 76-year-old Gilmore widow, asked the Court of Appeals today to order her suit against a Cumberland store heard by a jury.

Mrs. Williams sought damages from McCrory's Stores Corp. for injuries received when she fell from a stool on May 12, 1952. Through her attorneys she said Circuit Judge George Henderson incorrectly directed a verdict in favor of the store owners on grounds the evidence failed to show negligence by their employes.

In the last day of arguments before its recess until January, the court also heard Levy Duren, 33, of Baltimore appeal his conviction of manslaughter by automobile.

Duren's counsel said he was not primarily to blame for an accident last Dec. 14 in which Toney Lawrence, 54, a pedestrian, was killed.

Legislators Jump

damned jobs next February."

He referred to the forthcoming session of the General Assembly in February, when the health department's annual budget will come before the Legislature. Goldstein is chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Robert M. Brown, chief of the Health Department's bureau of inviromental hygiene, explained the regulations were drawn up by a committee of county health officers.

He read a letter in which Dr. Alice B. Tobler-Lennhoff, Calvert County health officer, applauded the first draft.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, Director of the State Health Department, declared:

"The object of this whole thing is to prevent trouble. We are besieged all the time to do something about overflowing cess pools. We have about all we can do trying to handle past mistakes. We are only trying to prevent them in the future. We are only trying to help people, to make them happy and healthy. We have no apologies for trying to solve this sewage disposal problem."

Would Inspect Sites

Sen. Jewel (D-Kent) said he doubted if the regulations could be enforced in his county.

This was after Delegate Nock (D-Wicomico) asked how enforcement would work. Brown explained county sanitarians would inspect plans and sites for the installations before county health departments issued the permits. The task might bring about the need for more sanitarians, he conceded. He pointed out the county commissioners could set a fee for the permits, thus getting the money to pay enforcement expenses.

The law under which the regulations were drawn provides a penalty of $10 to $100 for violators.

"We are just going into a transition period of educating everyone about the regulations," Brown said. "We have no intention of swinging in with a big club."

Del. Green (R-Garrett) suggested the Health Department should have consulted with the people concerned in the counties, particularly through women's and civic clubs, before the regulations were developed. Goldstein complained he hadn't seen anything about them in the newspapers when they were being put together.

Sen. Beall Takes Firm Stand In Opposing U.S. Recognition Of China

Wants World To Know America Still Cherishes Ideals Of Peace, Freedom And Liberty For All

Sen. J. Glenn Beall has stated that he believes "this nation will make its second great mistake of this century if it recognizes Red China."

Sen. Beall announced that he was calling his views to the attention of Sen. Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, who will attend a White House legislative conference this month.

"Since Congress adjourned in early August," Sen. Beall said, "I have become increasingly disturbed by reports that our government is being pressured by friendly allies to recognize Red China. It is said that our failure to recognize the present Chinese government is a failure on our part to recognize a historical fact.

SEN. J. GLENN BEALL

Recalls Same Propaganda

"I can well recall similar arguments twenty years ago which were persuasive in bringing about recognition of Communist Russia, and my own views are that this official recognition of the Communists did much to entrench the totalitarian regime of Stalin. This great mistake has cost the free world very dearly in blood and treasure.

"This nation will make its second great mistake of this century if it recognizes Red China. The little group of Moscow trained Communists who are now in control of China are not a legitimate government placed in power by the Chinese people, but a revolutionary military conspiracy, not working for the good of the Chinese people, but completely subservient to the wishes and desires of the Communist rulers in the Kremlin.

Consistency Is Needed

"How can we in America continue to hold out hope for the oppressed people of Eastern Europe if we announce to the world that we are abandoning the freedom loving people in China by resuming diplomatic relations with the government which is denying them the very freedoms and liberties which we proclaim as the unalienable right of all men?

"Since the armistice in Korea ample evidence has been produced to prove that the government of China is barbaric and cruel. The Communist treatment of prisoners of war has been shocking to the American people, and has aroused in us not a desire to participate with them as equals but to live in hopes of the day when that government will be deposed and those responsible for these atrocities given the punishment their crimes deserve.

Opposed To All Tyranny

"Over 900 American soldiers who fought in Korea are reported to be completely unaccounted for—either as prisoners, missing, killed, or the victims of Communist atrocities. To consider recognizing a government with such a bestial attitude toward human life is to my mind inconceivable.

"Rather than recognizing Red China by the establishment of diplomatic relations I think we should make it clear to friends and enemies alike that we in America are opposed to tyranny wherever it may be and that we will forever hold the torch of liberty high so that those who are oppressed may continue to have hope."

Youth Injured At Play

Elwood Matthews, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Venona Matthews, Lonaconing, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital Tuesday night for X-rays and observation after injuring his left arm while playing football. Attaches, who reported him in satisfactory condition, said a cast was applied.

AFL Meeting Set

Schmidt Bakery Gives Christmas Party For 300

Over 300 people attended the annual Christmas party held by Schmidt Baking Company at their plant on Frederick Street.

Those present included 60 men, women and children from Johnstown, Pa., plant families, who spent the night at the Algonquin Hotel here.

Each year, according to Kenton Farrell, local plant manager, a Christmas party is held here for employes and their families of the Cumberland and Johnstown plants. Similar parties are held for employes and their families at the company's large Baltimore and Martinsburg, W. Va. bakeries.

Carl Schmidt, president of the company, along with several members of his family, as well as other company officials from Baltimore, were here for the occasion.

Santa Claus made his appearance by coming down a conveyor at the plant and presented gifts to the more than 120 youngsters present. A local caterer served a buffet supper and music for dancing was furnished by Art Shaffer's orchestra.

Appeals Court Hears Local Damage Suit

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Mollie Williams, 76-year-old Gilmore widow, asked the Court of Appeals today to order her suit against a Cumberland store heard by a jury.

Mrs. Williams sought damages from McCrory's Stores Corp. for injuries received when she fell from a stool on May 12, 1952. Through her attorneys she said Circuit Judge George Henderson incorrectly directed a verdict in favor of the store owners on grounds the evidence failed to show negligence by their employes.

In the last day of arguments before its recess until January, the court also heard Levy Duren, 33, of Baltimore appeal his conviction of manslaughter by automobile.

Duren's counsel said he was not primarily to blame for an accident last Dec. 14 in which Toney Lawrence, 54, a pedestrian, was killed.

Legislators Jump

damned jobs next February."

He referred to the forthcoming session of the General Assembly in February, when the health department's annual budget will come before the Legislature. Goldstein is chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Robert M. Brown, chief of the Health Department's bureau of inviromental hygiene, explained the regulations were drawn up by a committee of county health officers.

He read a letter in which Dr. Alice B. Tobler-Lennhoff, Calvert County health officer, applauded the first draft.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, Director of the State Health Department, declared:

"The object of this whole thing is to prevent trouble. We are besieged all the time to do something about overflowing cess pools. We have about all we can do trying to handle past mistakes. We are only trying to prevent them in the future. We are only trying to help people, to make them happy and healthy. We have no apologies for trying to solve this sewage disposal problem."

Would Inspect Sites

Sen. Jewel (D-Kent) said he doubted if the regulations could be enforced in his county.

This was after Delegate Nock (D-Wicomico) asked how enforcement would work. Brown explained county sanitarians would inspect plans and sites for the installations before county health departments issued the permits. The task might bring about the need for more sanitarians, he conceded. He pointed out the county commissioners could set a fee for the permits, thus getting the money to pay enforcement expenses.

The law under which the regulations were drawn provides a penalty of $10 to $100 for violators.

"We are just going into a transition period of educating everyone about the regulations," Brown said. "We have no intention of swinging in with a big club."

Del. Green (R-Garrett) suggested the Health Department should have consulted with the people concerned in the counties, particularly through women's and civic clubs, before the regulations were developed. Goldstein complained he hadn't seen anything about them in the newspapers when they were being put together.

Revisions Are Made In Local Court Rules

New rules for the Fourth Judicial Circuit have been drawn up and are ready for the printer, according to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The code is the first revision of the rules of court in Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties since 1911.

The 100-page code was formulated by the three judges, Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of Hagerstown and Associate Judges George Henderson and Harris of this city, in conjunction with committees from the bar associations in the three counties.

Attorneys Assist

The attorneys on the Allegany County committee were D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals; Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit; William L. Wilson Jr. and David Kauffman.

From the Washington County bar were Ellsworth R. Roulette, Omar K. Kaylor Sr., E. Stuart Bushong and John Wagaman.

The lawyers from Garrett County were Walter W. Dawson and Lewis R. Jones.

There are many new regulations most of which are interesting only to the lawyers of the three counties.

Through one new rule, however, the practice of the "overnight divorce" will be eliminated. Heretofore it had been possible to get a divorce in a very short time.

Must Wait 30 Days

The new regulations call for a 30-day waiting period from the time of filing until the time the decree has been signed.

This system was copied from the rules of court of the First Judicial Circuit on the Eastern Shore.

A system for recording damage criminal and criminal appeal suits will be instituted whereby there will be a continuous docket such as in the equity side of the Circuit Court.

The practice has been to record the suits in separate dockets for each court term. This has proved awkward when cases are continued from one term to another.

Contempt Possible

Another regulation affects news photos. It states that there may be no pictures taken in the Fourth Circuit courtroom, or close to the courtroom as to interfere with its proceedings or decorum when court is in session or when jurymen are deliberating.

Any picture published in violation of this rule makes the action subject to a contempt of court charge.

Another rule affecting news is that no information arising from the investigations or actions of the grand jurys may be released, except to the state's attorney or the sheriff. Any publication of the workings of the grand jury while it is in session will be the subject of a contempt of court charge.

Information of the grand jury's deliberations may be published after warrants are placed on the open docket and the persons indicted are apprehended.

Jurors Will Be Drawn

The jury panel for the January term of Allegany County Circuit Court will be drawn at the courthouse Thursday morning, December 17.

In the United States a girl child at birth can expect 72.4 years of life and a boy child 66.6 years.

New Water Tank Will Be Tested

The City Water Department plans to make a test of the newly erected North End tank next week, Commissioner William J. Edwards announces.

Department workmen are cleaning the interior of the large tank prior to painting it inside and outside.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said three long vertical welds on the steel drum will complete it.

One of the two pumps that came with the tank will be hooked up on a temporary basis for the test. Later on they will function automatically.

The project on Wills Mountain was undertaken because of low water pressure in the Holland Street-Piedmont Avenue section.

World's busiest waterway is the Detroit river, which carries more traffic in a 10-month season than the Suez and Panama canals combined carry in a full year.

Rescue Squads To Train On CD Truck

After the first of the year, rescue squads will be trained to work with the new Allegany County Civil Defense truck, William G. Barger, county CD director, announces.

The vehicle is equipped to operate with a team of eight men and volunteers will be sought for this important Civil Defense function, Barger said.

The truck is the property of the state and Allegany County and is basically used as a training vehicle. It was purchased by the state and the federal governments.

Barger noted that the county will provide the upkeep and maintenance and gasoline for it while the state will take care of the insurance and any major overhaul that is necessary.

One of the reasons the truck was sent here was the fact that Maryland Civil Defense authorities do not wish to concentrate this equipment in areas where it would be destroyed.

In the event of disaster, flood, fire, tornado or bombing, this truck and its team of rescue workers will be dispatched to the stricken section.

Basically, this operational unit will be used to remove casualties from buildings, Barger said.

Contains Many Items

The vehicle contains 300 items of 100 different types of rescue equipment, ranging from a portable electric generator, gasoline pump, masks for gas and fumes, carpentry tools, block and tackle, ladders and picks and shovels.

Until the Civil Defense building is constructed in Constitution Park, the truck will be stored in the Potomac Edison Company garage on North Centre Street.

Plans are being drawn for the two-story training structure that will be surmounted with an aircraft observation post. Funds for its construction are derived from the state and federal governments. There has been allotted $20,000 for the training center here.

Frank Trozzo To Attend Union Meeting, Rally

American Bathing Beauties Stranded

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 9 (AP)—Twenty American bathing beauties, including a statuesque blonde California friend of Egypt's ex-King Farouk, were stranded here today. Their water show equipment has been confiscated for unpaid debts.

The girls were part of the Italian-financed "Aqua Parade" which has been touring Italy and Germany since last summer. Ten British girls with the company received passage home from the British consulate. But the American contingent is still here, hoping to sign up with a Paris cabaret before the end of the week.

SOBS DURING FUNERAL — Accused of slaying his wife and three children, Vincent Ciucci, the father, sobs at the altar rail of the chapel in the county jail at Chicago yesterday while funeral services were being held for the family elsewhere. He was not permitted to attend. Ciucci, shown clutching a crucifix, has denied he was responsible for the slaying.

Nova Scotian Moose Getting Plain Silly

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 9 (AP)—D. A. Benson, provincial wild life biologist, says moose in Nova Scotia are getting just plain silly.

He told a Rotary club meeting yesterday that the Nova Scotia Lands and Forest Department started to investigate after forest rangers and hunters reported moose behaving as though they were "mentally unbalanced."

"They just looked stupid," Benson declared. "They seemed to have lost their senses of touch of sight and their fear of men."

"Santa" To Visit Prisoners' Tots

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Uncle Dan Vinson is going to be Santa Claus to the forgotten children of prison inmates this Christmas.

No point will be too distant, no child too insignificant to receive a package from the philanthropist seeking to add a bit of joy to the lonely children whose fathers are behind bars.

Already Vinson has sent letters to prisons in the United States, its possessions, England, Canada and Ireland. He also wants prisoners anywhere in the world to write him the names and addresses of their children.

The toys to be sent aren't elaborate, but to any child not expecting a visit from Santa Claus they will be wonderful. This year's package will have about 18 games and puzzles that will fit any age group.

In past years Vinson has sent the toys to the prison so the fathers could personally mail them to their children. But because of the heavy burden on prisons, this year Vinson is mailing them direct to the children.

Baltimore Willing To Condemn Armory

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mayor D'Alesandro today told Gov. McKeldin the city of Baltimore is willing to condemn for slum clearance the 5th Regiment Armory site if the state wants to erect its proposed new office building there.

The Federal government has also put the issue up to Maryland. The Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency told the city it was ready to help out if it could have assurance the "local one third" of the necessary financing could be arranged.

The state has not yet decided whether the 5th Regiment site or one of four others under consideration would be the most economical and most suitable.

Mayor D'Alesandro reminded McKeldin that the city council goes into a six-weeks recess next Monday. He said if the state and city can agree on the site, he is prepared to ask the City Council to pass the condemnation ordinance before it adjourns Monday.

India Silent On A-Plan

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Indian government radio led with President Eisenhower's speech in all its periodic English and Indian language news bulletins today.

Morning newspapers reported the speech and evening newspapers carried the full text, but none of them has commented yet.

Official and political circles withheld detailed comment until they have studied the text further.

Rabbits differ from true rodents in that they have two sets of upper teeth, one pair behind the other.

Population of the United States is increasing at a rate of about 2,500,000 persons a year.

"Santa" To Visit Prisoners' Tots

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Uncle Dan Vinson is going to be Santa Claus to the forgotten children of prison inmates this Christmas.

No point will be too distant, no child too insignificant to receive a package from the philanthropist seeking to add a bit of joy to the lonely children whose fathers are behind bars.

Already Vinson has sent letters to prisons in the United States, its possessions, England, Canada and Ireland. He also wants prisoners anywhere in the world to write him the names and addresses of their children.

The toys to be sent aren't elaborate, but to any child not expecting a visit from Santa Claus they will be wonderful. This year's package will have about 18 games and puzzles that will fit any age group.

In past years Vinson has sent the toys to the prison so the fathers could personally mail them to their children. But because of the heavy burden on prisons, this year Vinson is mailing them direct to the children.

Baltimore Willing To Condemn Armory

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mayor D'Alesandro today told Gov. McKeldin the city of Baltimore is willing to condemn for slum clearance the 5th Regiment Armory site if the state wants to erect its proposed new office building there.

The Federal government has also put the issue up to Maryland. The Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency told the city it was ready to help out if it could have assurance the "local one third" of the necessary financing could be arranged.

The state has not yet decided whether the 5th Regiment site or one of four others under consideration would be the most economical and most suitable.

Mayor D'Alesandro reminded McKeldin that the city council goes into a six-weeks recess next Monday. He said if the state and city can agree on the site, he is prepared to ask the City Council to pass the condemnation ordinance before it adjourns Monday.

India Silent On A-Plan

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Indian government radio led with President Eisenhower's speech in all its periodic English and Indian language news bulletins today.

Morning newspapers reported the speech and evening newspapers carried the full text, but none of them has commented yet.

Official and political circles withheld detailed comment until they have studied the text further.

Rabbits differ from true rodents in that they have two sets of upper teeth, one pair behind the other.

Nova Scotian Moose Getting Plain Silly

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 9 (AP)—D. A. Benson, provincial wild life biologist, says moose in Nova Scotia are getting just plain silly.

He told a Rotary club meeting yesterday that the Nova Scotia Lands and Forest Department started to investigate after forest rangers and hunters reported moose behaving as though they were "mentally unbalanced."

"They just looked stupid," Benson declared. "They seemed to have lost their senses of touch of sight and their fear of men."

Benson said laboratory tests showed a sheath of nerves at the base of the brain had deteriorated probably because of a deficiency disease.

WASHINGTON—In all the fuss between Senator McCarthy and President Eisenhower nobody seems to have taken the trouble to point out just where the two men agree.

There have been two arguments between them which have caused many headlines during the past several weeks. One is their disagreement on conduct of U. S. foreign policy. This led to distortions like the following newspaper headline I saw: "McCarthy Goes over Eisenhower's Head in Asking Public Support of Plea for U. S. Policy Reappraisal."

That would imply that there is some sort of limitation on how much criticism of a President a member of Congress can offer, and such is not the case at all. I don't presume to be a judge of who's right in the argument between the two men—I think the people will judge that themselves in the light of future events—but I see no reason for a distortion of the situation in the public mind.

The second disagreement widely reported between McCarthy and Eisenhower deals with the issue of communism in government, and whether or not it will be an issue in the coming congressional elections. Somehow the point escaped most people that actually they are not disagreeing at all.

The President has said that communism in the present administration won't be an issue. He is right, because his Justice Department and congressional committees are making sure of that. But he has never said that communism in past administrations will not be an issue—and that is exactly what Senator McCarthy is talking about.

Since he finished his last campaign speech in 1952, President Eisenhower has ceased personally to criticize his predecessors in the White House. He feels that as the leader of his country and of his party he should look forward and plan a good program for the country. But the members of Congress have spoken otherwise—they want the voters to be reminded of the comparative record of the two parties in dealing with the Communist problem, and will do so without any objection on the part of the President.

The latest monthly newsletter of the Maryland State Planning Commission has come to me, and it notes in an inventory of industrial plants now idle throughout Maryland that there are five of these in Allegany County. This is a very feeble reminder that everyone — politician, banker, labor man and citizen—should cooperate in scouting for possibilities of new industries locating in the area as a means of solving an unemployment problem that has grown in the community in the past few years.

On my calendar: Monday, which is Bill of Rights Day, I address the Optimists Club in Hagerstown. Tuesday I attend the Montgomery County Medical Society Dinner, and Wednesday a dinner honoring Dr. Harry C. Byrd, retiring president of the University of Maryland.

Baruch Says It Will Be Good Sign If Russian People Told Of Ike Plan

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch declared today if the Soviet leaders tell the Russian people of President Eisenhower's new atomicplan "it will be some evidence of their desire to cooperate."

The New York financier and elder statesman presented a U.S. plan for international control of atomic energy to the United Nations in 1946. Russia rejected it.

In his statement, Baruch said:

"President Eisenhower's speech was a highly necessary expression of the concern over the status of atomic and nuclear matters. It was properly addressed to all mankind in the interest of civilization.

"It is built on the original American proposal still providing for a central world organization to handle fissionable material. It does not spell out inspection or penalization which are inevitable in any cooperative endeavor.

"If the Russian government publishes the President's proposal it will be some evidence of their desire to cooperate. If they do not and therefore keep their people and those behind the Iron Curtain ignorant of it as they did with the Baruch proposal and endeavor to distort it as they did, it augurs badly for the future.

"If they do publish it and inform the Russian people it will be a most hopeful sign.

"The formation of the central organization, I take it, does not preclude private industry's share in developing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. Development for peaceful purposes was the ultimate goal of the original American proposals as is the heart, as I understand it, of the President's proposals."

The Baruch plan, as approved by a majority of the United Nations, included rigid inspection and control of atomic weapons. It would have abolished the veto in the punishment of violators. It also would have given an international authority a monopoly over production of nuclear fuel.

B. And O. Christmas Tree Is Decorated

JACKSON, Md., Dec. 9 (AP) — A crew of more than 20 trackmen and electricians is stringing 1,000 lights and hanging ornaments on the 55 foot holly tree beside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's mainline tracks here.

The lights will be turned on Saturday night in the sixth edition of an annual ceremony which includes anthems and carols by 150 members of the B&O women's music club and men's glee club.

New Housing Plan Outlined To President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Albert M. Cole, federal housing administrator, was reported to have outlined to President Eisenhower and his Cabinet today the basis for a new administration housing program.

Cole has received suggestions from an advisory committee on housing which has been working on the problem for several months. Its recommendations have not been disclosed.

Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) said a week ago he understood the administration had decided to halt the low rent public housing program and sell the buildings it owns. This brought a reply from the Housing and Home Finance Agency that no decisions would be made until after the advisory committee reported.

The Cabinet meeting was an unusually long session today—lasting more than two hours.

As usual, there was no announcement on subjects discussed. However, preparation of the budget for submission to Congress in January is holding high priority in administration work now.

Secretary of Defense Wilson came to the White House an hour before the Cabinet meeting and talked with the President for most of that time.

Bermuda has about 300 islands with about the same total land area as that in Manhattan.

In the 1950 census California had 4,922,000 more people than in 1940.

In his statement, Baruch said:

"President Eisenhower's speech was a highly necessary expression of the concern over the status of atomic and nuclear matters. It was properly addressed to all mankind in the interest of civilization.

"It is built on the original American proposal still providing for a central world organization to handle fissionable material. It does not spell out inspection or penalization which are inevitable in any cooperative endeavor.

"If the Russian government publishes the President's proposal it will be some evidence of their desire to cooperate. If they do not and therefore keep their people and those behind the Iron Curtain ignorant of it as they did with the Baruch proposal and endeavor to distort it as they did, it augurs badly for the future.

"If they do publish it and inform the Russian people it will be a most hopeful sign.

"The formation of the central organization, I take it, does not preclude private industry's share in developing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. Development for peaceful purposes was the ultimate goal of the original American proposals as is the heart, as I understand it, of the President's proposals."

The Baruch plan, as approved by a majority of the United Nations, included rigid inspection and control of atomic weapons. It would have abolished the veto in the punishment of violators. It also would have given an international authority a monopoly over production of nuclear fuel.

B. And O. Christmas Tree Is Decorated

JACKSON, Md., Dec. 9 (AP) — A crew of more than 20 trackmen and electricians is stringing 1,000 lights and hanging ornaments on the 55 foot holly tree beside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's mainline tracks here.

The lights will be turned on Saturday night in the sixth edition of an annual ceremony which includes anthems and carols by 150 members of the B&O women's music club and men's glee club.

New Housing Plan Outlined To President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Albert M. Cole, federal housing administrator, was reported to have outlined to President Eisenhower and his Cabinet today the basis for a new administration housing program.

Cole has received suggestions from an advisory committee on housing which has been working on the problem for several months. Its recommendations have not been disclosed.

Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) said a week ago he understood the administration had decided to halt the low rent public housing program and sell the buildings it owns. This brought a reply from the Housing and Home Finance Agency that no decisions would be made until after the advisory committee reported.

The Cabinet meeting was an unusually long session today—lasting more than two hours.

As usual, there was no announcement on subjects discussed. However, preparation of the budget for submission to Congress in January is holding high priority in administration work now.

Secretary of Defense Wilson came to the White House an hour before the Cabinet meeting and talked with the President for most of that time.

Pittsburgh's C. Of C., Unions Will Try To End Store Strike

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (AP)—Representatives of the CIO, AFL and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will try tomorrow to settle a pre-Christmas strike of 3,100 workers against local department stores.

The group, which called its meeting in the midst of court action over picketing, represents the 24-member Pittsburgh Labor-Management Council—a key cog in settlement and prevention of other strikes in this most unionized city in the country.

The strike by 200 AFL general teamsters began Nov. 27. In less than 20 days it mushroomed to 3,100 strikers. Overall the strike affects 12,000 workers in 15 unions. Most of them continue to work pending renewed talks.

Officials of the strike-bound unions have declined publicly to spell out their demands. The main question reportedly is wages. Pickets parade outside the stores. Most shoppers continue to ignore them.

But the strike is affecting sales despite the heavy throngs of shoppers. One store reports a decline of 25 per cent in the dollar volume of business.

A spokesman for a large department store said the drop in business is due mainly to reduced sales of large and heavy merchandise that can't be taken home by customers.

Stores affected by the walkout are Kaufmann's, Gimbels, Frank & Sedar, Horne's, Rosenbaum's, Spear, May Stern, Ohringer, Hahn Reuben and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

AIDS CRIPPLE — Jimmy Welch, 18, has risked chances of a promising baseball career to help an 11-year-old girl in Rochester, N. Y., stricken with a crippling bone disease. Jimmy volunteered to let doctors remove an 8½-inch slice of bone from his left leg and transplant it to the leg of Mary Ann Ranney. The youth was on the operating table for four hours. It will take seven months for the bone to grow back. Whether the operation will help the young girl, only time will tell.

Luciano Henchman Killed In Gang Style

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — A deported member of the old Charles (Lucky) Luciano vice mob was shot down and killed in gangland style today a few weeks after sneaking back into the country.

The victim, riddled with bullets, was Dominick (The Gap) Petrillo, about 53. Police said he was a narcotics violator deported to Italy six years ago. They described him as a henchman of vice overlord Luciano, who also was deported to Italy several years ago.

Petrillo was cut down in a Bronx bar and grill by three well-dressed gunmen.

A bartender, Nicholas Mauriello, said Petrillo had come into the bar and ordered a brandy. He was about to drink it when the strangers walked in.

Petrillo ran toward the kitchen, chased by the gunmen who fired nine shots. Police said seven of the nine bullets struck Petrillo.

Berle Marries For Third Time

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Comedian Milton Berle took his second bride in his third marriage today.

The television star was married to brunette Mrs. Ruth Cosgrove, 32, in a private ceremony in the chambers of state Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder.

Berle, 45, has been married twice previously, both times to blonde Joyce Matthews, who at one point in their off-and-on romance tried to slash her wrists and jump out a window in the apartment of producer Billy Rose.

Mrs. Cosgrove, a former press agent, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rosenthal of Paterson, N.J., who attended the ceremony.

After the wedding Berle and his bride kissed six times for photographers.

Earlier the couple had said a "few friends" would attend a reception in the Crystal Room of the Plaza Hotel. But the few friends turned out to be about a thousand, and another room had to be engaged.

Berle's lifetime contract with NBC permits him three weeks vacation each year during the Christmas holidays, and his last pre-vacation show was last night.

Also at the ceremony was Berle's mother, Sandra, and his adopted daughter, Vicki, 8. And his attorney, Irwin Rosenberg.

"The Glenn Miller Story" premiere tomorrow night promises to be a very dressy affair and a very important one.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Q: Is there any way to increase the size of the lower arm from elbow to wrist? A: Yes! Get a couple of rubber balls of a size which you can easily hold in your hands. Squeeze them hard and hold for a count of five. Then relax and squeeze again. Perform this exercise about fifty times per day. In several weeks you should see noticeable improvement. Continue until your lower arms take on the roundness you desire.

Q: My left leg is larger than my right one. Is there anything I can do to equalize the size? A: This is not at all unusual. As any shoe salesman can tell you, the left foot is frequently larger than the right and the leg matches the foot! To develop the smaller leg, carry out these two exercises consistently over a period of time: 1. Lie on your back. Keeping the toe pointed and the knee bent, raise your right leg and make outward circles from your knee.

Increasing Leg

2. Still on your back, keep your knee rigid and toe-point, and describe circles with motion originating from the hip. With both exercises, begin with a count of five and increase to fifty per day; increase gradually in accordance with your strength. It is important to perform the exercises slowly and with as much tension throughout the entire leg as you can command. Also, whenever you are standing, shift your weight to your right leg—the chances are you have been making your left leg do too much of the work!

Q: I would be grateful for an exercise that will reduce knees. A: 1. With your hands working in opposite directions, grasp your knees and twist the flesh as though you were wringing it. Continue until the flesh is pink. 2. Jump rope as rapidly as you can, starting with one minute per day and building up to ten-minute periods.

Reducing Thighs

Q: Can thighs be reduced without also reducing hips? A: 1. Starting from the knee, slap the inside of the thighs with upward moving slaps until the skin is definitely pink. Perform this massaging action twice a day. 2. Lie on your back. Bring feet up close to your hips. Spread knees wide apart and bring thighs together with a sharp slap. Start with fifty slaps per day and rapidly build up to four times that many. Be faithful for eight weeks and you'll achieve measureable results.

CABLE "TV" NEWS

WE WELCOME ANY NEW TELEVISION RECEPTION THAT CUMBERLAND WILL EVER RECEIVE, including the two new local U. H. F. stations that have been alloted to Cumberland, when they begin to operate.

WE REALIZE THE GOOD THAT TELEVISION BRINGS to the home and we want to encourage all that can, to get television as soon as possible, either by antenna or Cable TV.

IN APPROXIMATELY 15 CITIES, 95 to 98 per cent of the homes have T.V. Cumberland is still almost at the bottom of the list as far as families having T V reception.

WITH CABLE TV you will always get the most complete TV reception service it is possible to obtain. Even if you paid a hundred times what Cable TV costs, it could not and will not be duplicated in Cumberland.

WE CAN EASILY keep this leadership year after year, and we will continue as in the past, to offer new improvements for OUR SUBSCRIBERS, for they ARE OUR CHIEF SALES FORCE.

WE BROUGHT THREE CHANNEL TELEVISION TO CUMBERLAND almost two years ago. We now have sixty miles of streets cabled for TV and have almost two thousand subscribers. We now have five TV stations to select the best programs from and within a few weeks we will have this built up to nine, plus Local Telecasting.

LOCAL TELECASTING HAS STARTED, Mondays thru Fridays. It will be on Cable channel 4 and will only be on for 30 minute periods to start with and will consist of test pattern, a short film and a few slides that we are preparing in our own Photographic and Art Department.

These slides are shown chiefly for the local merchants to see what we can produce quickly and economically for them. More elaborate slides can be produced or obtained for them as well as filmed commercials.

Local Telecasting can be made at present on either Cable channels 2, 4, or 6 and will be scheduled from one station break period to a later station break period.

This programming will consist of: (as it is developed) Filmed short stories, local news, features, sports, musicals and etc. (Slides, oral and film.) Also, local live programs. The above type of programming will be sponsored mostly by local merchants.

PUBLIC SERVICE PROGRAMMING will be sponsored by PV-TV as soon as it can be arranged. It will consist of films, national and local; live appearances, at our own studio; and slides of special occasions and interests together with comments.

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE INTEREST both nationally and locally to be able to let the TV viewers know where the sponsors' products can be obtained locally. Merchants interested will please contact us, so the details can be worked out with their sponsor. It will be possible later, if necessary, for us to do the above type of telecasting on all three channels at exactly the same time and for the different sponsors.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS. This will mean that part of the network programs can have a local atmosphere. In addition, the revenues received from local telecasting may make possible a reduction in your monthly rental costs.

HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA is within thirty miles of York Pennsylvania, which has had a TV station for a number of years and is not too far from Philadelphia. A cable TV company started to operate ther two years ago. Within the past few month two local U.-H. F. stations have started to operate. (Harrisburg lays in a flat country toward all TV stations.)

THE CABLE TV COMPANY HAS NOT LOST A SINGLE SUBSCRIBER AND THEIR INSTALLATION RATE IS INCREASING. Cable TV will always be the most satisfactory way of getting TV reception in Cumberland.

YOU WILL NOT NEED ANY CONVERTERS if you have Cable TV. All our needed conversions will be on Irons Mountain and there is no extra cost to our subscribers.

ALMOST 2000 FAMILIES IN CUMBERLAND are saying that Cable TV was the best buy they ever made.

BUY YOUR TV SET FROM YOUR FAVORITE DEALER but be sure to get Cable TV.

HUNDREDS HAVE SWITCHED FROM ANTENNA TO CABLE TV within the last few months, our records will show.

IF THE FEW DOLLARS CABLE TV may cost (or it may not cost) is an item, then you will likely find as many others have, that you will be better off buying a cheaper TV set and Cable TV than an expensive set and antenna.

MAKE YOUR LIVING ROOM A MILLIONAIRES PALACE. People in the lowest income bracket find that Cable T V is the easiest thing they ever had to pay for.

ONLY $25.00 DOWN AND twelve monthly payments of $7.33 pays for your cable T V installation. Your installation will be transferred at a very reasonable cost and there is a refund arrangement if you move out of the city. $4.32 pays your maintenance costs and there is no charge for calendar month of installation.

LET US GIVE YOU a 5 day free Cable TV trial. A TV dealer will gladly demonstrate a TV set to you.

Continue until your lower arms take on the roundness you desire.

Q: My left leg is larger than my right one. Is there anything I can do to equalize the size? A: This is not at all unusual. As any shoe salesman can tell you, the left foot is frequently larger than the right and the leg matches the foot! To develop the smaller leg, carry out these two exercises consistently over a period of time: 1. Lie on your back. Keeping the toe pointed and the knee bent, raise your right leg and make outward circles from your knee.

Increasing Leg

2. Still on your back, keep your knee rigid and toe-point, and describe circles with motion originating from the hip. With both exercises, begin with a count of five and increase to fifty per day; increase gradually in accordance with your strength. It is important to perform the exercises slowly and with as much tension throughout the entire leg as you can command. Also, whenever you are standing, shift your weight to your right leg—the chances are you have been making your left leg do too much of the work!

Q: I would be grateful for an exercise that will reduce knees. A: 1. With your hands working in opposite directions, grasp your knees and twist the flesh as though you were wringing it. Continue until the flesh is pink. 2. Jump rope as rapidly as you can, starting with one minute per day and building up to ten-minute periods.

Reducing Thighs

Q: Can thighs be reduced without also reducing hips? A: 1. Starting from the knee, slap the inside of the thighs with upward moving slaps until the skin is definitely pink. Perform this massaging action twice a day. 2. Lie on your back. Bring feet up close to your hips. Spread knees wide apart and bring thighs together with a sharp slap. Start with fifty slaps per day and rapidly build up to four times that many. Be faithful for eight weeks and you'll achieve measureable results.

CABLE "TV" NEWS

WE WELCOME ANY NEW TELEVISION RECEPTION THAT CUMBERLAND WILL EVER RECEIVE, including the two new local U. H. F. stations that have been alloted to Cumberland, when they begin to operate.

WE REALIZE THE GOOD THAT TELEVISION BRINGS to the home and we want to encourage all that can, to get television as soon as possible, either by antenna or Cable TV.

IN APPROXIMATELY 15 CITIES, 95 to 98 per cent of the homes have T.V. Cumberland is still almost at the bottom of the list as far as families having T V reception.

WITH CABLE TV you will always get the most complete TV reception service it is possible to obtain. Even if you paid a hundred times what Cable TV costs, it could not and will not be duplicated in Cumberland.

WE CAN EASILY keep this leadership year after year, and we will continue as in the past, to offer new improvements for OUR SUBSCRIBERS, for they ARE OUR CHIEF SALES FORCE.

WE BROUGHT THREE CHANNEL TELEVISION TO CUMBERLAND almost two years ago. We now have sixty miles of streets cabled for TV and have almost two thousand subscribers. We now have five TV stations to select the best programs from and within a few weeks we will have this built up to nine, plus Local Telecasting.

LOCAL TELECASTING HAS STARTED. Mondays thru Fridays. It will be on Cable channel 4 and will only be on for 30 minute periods to start with and will consist of test pattern, a short film and a few slides that we are preparing in our own Photographic and Art Department.

These slides are shown chiefly for the local merchants to see what we can produce quickly and economically for them. More elaborate slides can be produced or obtained for them as well as filmed commercials.

Local Telecasting can be made at present on either Cable channels 2, 4, or 6 and will be scheduled from one station break period to a later station break period.

This programming will consist of: (as it is developed) Filmed short stories, local news, features, sports, musicals and etc. (Slides, oral and film.) Also, local live programs. The above type of programming will be sponsored mostly by local merchants.

PUBLIC SERVICE PROGRAMMING will be sponsored by PV-TV as soon as it can be arranged. It will consist of films, national and local; live appearances, at our own studio; and slides of special occasions and interests together with comments.

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE INTEREST both nationally and locally to be able to let the TV viewers know where the sponsors' products can be obtained locally. Merchants interested will please contact us, so the details can be worked out with their sponsor. It will be possible later, if necessary, for us to do the above type of telecasting on all three channels at exactly the same time and for the different sponsors.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS. This will mean that part of the network programs can have a local atmosphere. In addition, the revenues received from local telecasting may make possible a reduction in your monthly rental costs.

HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA is within thirty miles of York, Pennsylvania, which has had a TV station for a number of years and is not too far from Philadelphia. A cable TV company started to operate ther two years ago. Within the past few month two local U.-H. F. stations have started to operate. (Harrisburg lays in a flat country toward all TV stations.)

THE CABLE TV COMPANY HAS NOT LOST A SINGLE SUBSCRIBER AND THEIR INSTALLATION RATE IS INCREASING. Cable TV will always be the most satisfactory way of getting TV reception in Cumberland.

YOU WILL NOT NEED ANY CONVERTERS if you have Cable TV. All our needed conversions will be on Irons Mountain and there is no extra cost to our subscribers.

ALMOST 2000 FAMILIES IN CUMBERLAND are saying that Cable TV was the best buy they ever made.

BUY YOUR TV SET FROM YOUR FAVORITE DEALER but be sure to get Cable TV.

HUNDREDS HAVE SWITCHED FROM ANTENNA TO CABLE TV within the last few months, our records will show.

IF THE FEW DOLLARS CABLE TV may cost (or it may not cost) is an item, then you will likely find as many others have, that you will be better off buying a cheaper TV set and Cable TV than an expensive set and antenna.

MAKE YOUR LIVING ROOM A MILLIONAIRES PALACE. People in the lowest income bracket find that Cable T V is the easiest thing they ever had to pay for.

ONLY $25.00 DOWN AND twelve monthly payments of $7.33 pays for your cable T V installation. Your installation will be transferred at a very reasonable cost and there is a refund arrangement if you move out of the city. $4.32 pays your maintenance costs and there is no charge for calendar month of installation.

LET US GIVE YOU a 5 day free Cable TV trial. A TV dealer will gladly demonstrate a TV set to you.

McKeldin Will Visit Frostburg Saturday

To Present Traffic Award To City

FROSTBURG — Governor Theodore R. McKeldin will come here Saturday to present the city with an award for its fatality-free traffic safety record for 1952.

The award from the National Safety Council will be presented by the governor to Mayor Jesse F. Jacobs and members of the City Council.

Governor McKeldin, who will be in this area to attend a National Guard celebration at Cumberland Saturday evening, will come to Frostburg in the afternoon.

A group of Frostburg women will be hostesses at a reception for the governor at 3:30 p. m. at the home of Farrady Post 24, American Legion.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission yesterday announced the award to Frostburg at its annual meeting in Baltimore. Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland was among those attending.

George Grotz, field representative of NSC, and Henry Barnes, Baltimore's traffic director, talked to representatives of veterans organizations, state agencies, police departments, automobile clubs and industries about measures to prevent mishaps during the Christmas holidays.

Other communities awarded citations were Westminster, Mt. Rainier and Greenbelt.

Speakers at the conclave in the Lord Baltimore Hotel included Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore; J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council, and Mac A. Rappaport, past president of the Maryland State Licensed Beverage Association.

Officials of the Liquor Industry Assocations — wholesalers, retailers, brewers, distillers, tavern keepers and package stores from the District of Columbia, Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland — attended to assist in the crusade for "Safe Walking and Driving" during December.

Last year the group adopted the program "Make The One For The Road Coffee — On the House" which attracted nation-wide attention.

Woman's Club Of Moorefield Has Yule Party

Gifts Are Presented For Legion Project

MOOREFIELD—Members of the Moorefield Woman's Club opened the Christmas season with a program Monday evening at the home of Mrs. S. L. Dodd.

The first part of the program brought out "Why We are Thankful at Christmas". The club participated in the General Federation Americanism project by offering prizes to students in local schools who wrote the best essay on "What America Means To Me." About thirty entries were received.

Janet Miller, junior at the Moorefield High School, won first place and Alonzo Method, senior at Sanders Twelve Year School, won second place. Both read their essays and received their prizes, $5 and $3.

Members had brought gifts for children between 6 and 12. Mrs. Paul Harper presented this table full of gifts to the American Legion Auxiliary to be used in their Christmas project of giving gifts to children. The American Legion always holds a Christmas party for local children and sends gifts to children at Hopemont Sanitarium. Mrs. Courtney Pratt, member of the Legion Auxiliary received these gifts for her group.

The third part of the program, "Thankful for True Christmas", was conducted by Mrs. Paul Harper. She gave a brief resume of various Christmas carols, their background and meaning, and led the members of the club in singing them.

Mrs. M. H. Maxwell was in charge of the devotions on the Christmas theme.

Plans were made for the serving of lunch to workers at the Blood Mobile which will be in Moorefield December 11. Mrs. H. G. Muntzing Mrs. M. A. Bean, Mrs. R. S. Kuykendall and Mrs. C. R. Powers are members of the committee.

Since the Woman's Club has completed the work done on the kitchenette in the Moorefield Public Library, it was decided to purchase files for the Library Committee.

A request was made for gifts to be sent to Spencer State Hospital to help the Spencer Woman's Club give the patients there a Christmas party. It was explained that 1,400 patients made the undertaking more than one club could handle. Members are asked to take small gifts, such as tobacco, quilt pieces, note paper, etc., to the Style Shop by December 14, when they will be mailed.

Hostesses were Mrs. S. L. Dodd, Mrs. W. D. McCauley and Mrs. James Ansel.

To Present Traffic Award To City

FROSTBURG — Governor Theodore R. McKeldin will come here Saturday to present the city with an award for its fatality-free traffic safety record for 1952.

The American Legion always holds a Christmas party for local children and sends gifts to children at Hopemont Sanitarium. Mrs. Courtney Pratt, member of the Legion Auxiliary received these gifts for her group.

"Our World Christian Fellowship," by Rev. John D. MacLeod, Jr.

"Planning and Leading in Christian Worship," by Rev. Charles Paskel.

The school will be conducted similar to last year's classes, with two 50-minute class sessions and a worship period between class sessions. Officers of the school will be Rev. Robert L. Bridgers, dean, and Rev. Fred M. Bowman, secretary.

"Excessive Demands" Of Players Hinders Plan Owners Claim

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The major leagues voted to consider scuttling the player pension plan by November, 1955 "due to excessive demands" today but left the door open for further check on the players' attitudes.

J. Norman Lewis, referred to only as the "players' attorney," was charged with misrepresenting to the players and the press that all money derived from World Series and All-Star game radio-TV belonged to the players and must be applied to the fund. Both Lewis and A. B. Chandler, former commissioner, insist the radio-TV money belongs to the pension fund.

Qwners Claim Fund

The major league owners, however, claim the central fund, in which the money is kept, belongs to the 16 clubs as a "joint bank account."

The World Series radio-TV rights bring about $1,260,000 into the fund each year under a contract that expires after the '56 series.

In a lengthy mimeographed statement, read to the press by National League President Warren Giles on behalf of the two leagues, the clubs insisted they desired to continue the present pension plan "but the excessive demands by the player representatives and their attorney have compelled the clubs to consider the possible necessity of terminating the plan in Nov. 1955."

The door was left open for any shift of the players' attitude in the next to last paragraph of the 1,000 word statement. It read in part:

"If the demands of the player representatives and their attorney represent the attitude of all the players, then it is obvious that the present pension plan must be terminated and a different disposition made of the funds now devoted to that purpose." They didn't say how they would check on the players' attitude.

Program To Continue

The leagues, however, said the present program would be continued, pending further study, to "keep faith with the players who sought and acquired rights under the present plan."

First hint of any move to junk the pension came last week at Atlanta when Commissioner Ford Frick released the news that the Major League Executive Council had passed a resolution on the subject, Sept. 28. Frick revealed this information after the 16 player representatives refused to meet with him because their lawyer was not allowed to be present. It turned out later that Chandler advised the players to take such action.

Under the resolution, a two-man committee was to be set up to study and report upon the procedure for and effect of terminating the pension plan.

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager, and John Galbreath, Pittsburgh president, were named to the committee after each league separately passed the resolution.

Greenberg indicated he and Galbreath would meet "soon" with the player representatives, Allie Reynolds of the American League and Ralph Kiner of the National League. No date has been set for the meeting.

Commissioner Frick said he was "thoroughly convinced" the present plan should be maintained and he would make every effort to see it continued.

Hunter Finally Bags Big Deer

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9 (AP)—Old Tim, a buck deer so big he looked like an elk, will roam the hills of the Fort Frederick section near here no more.

For years, hunters have spotted the big guy, but not well enough to drive home a killing shot.

Delmus Shives of Big Pool checked Old Tim's carcass into the weighing station at Clear Spring, station attendant, Howard Ankeney, said today.

Ankeney said Tim was an 8-pointer weighing over 300 pounds.

Total Reaches 226, Six Short Of Mark, Girl, 16, Gets Buck

The record for deer kills during the hunting season in all probability will be broken today in Allegany County as 25 more bucks fell before hunters' guns yesterday. The three-day total has reached 226, just six short of the 232 mark established for six days in 1952.

Rain, cold and fog hampered hunters yesterday as the number of kills dropped sharply and although rain is predicted for the early morning hours today it is expected to clear up by afternoon indicating hunters will have little difficulty bagging a record number of the whitetails.

For the third straight day Shipway's Inn on Green Ridge led in numbers of deer checked. Graydon Dunlap reported 11 bucks brought there. Lewis' Store in Oldtown registered 7 kills. Tuesday Shipway's reported 31 deer checks and Lewis' Store 20.

Here are the reports from five checking stations yesterday:

Station	Total	Alleg'y
Shipway's Inn	11	11
Lewis' Store	7	7
LaVale State Police	6	4
Westernport Police	3	1
Bridge Diner, Hancock	6	2
Total	33	25

Rosemary Wharton, 16-year-old miss from Flintstone, was among the successful nimrods bagging a buck yesterday. The only member of the fair sex to report a kill, Miss Wharton shot a 6-pointer, weighing 112 pounds while hunting with a large party on Polish Mountain.

James and Louis Potts, brothers of Little Orleans, each shot a deer yesterday. James killed an 8-point, 112 pounder while Louis came home with a 5-point, 90 pounder. Both were shot near Little Orleans.

Five Cumberlanders also were numbered among yesterday's successes. Robert L. Nesbett, 232 Cumberland Street, shot a 5-point, 122 pound deer; Stanley R. Nield, 215 Offutt Street, 8-118; H. B. Rice, 213 Oldtown Road, 5-129; Raymond Casteel, 165 Bedford Street, 8-120; and Freeman Cook, RD 3, city.

Largest bag for the day was made by Earl Stafford of Lonaconing who checked in with a 10-point, 160 pounder at Westernport. He shot the buck in Green Ridge State Forest.

Former USC Grid Mentor Hurt In Crash

Jeff Cravath Is Given 50-50 Chance To Live

EL CENTRO, Calif., Dec. 9 (AP)—Former football coach Jeff Cravath, who guided the University of Southern California through nine seasons and into four Rose Bowl games, was seriously injured in an automobile accident today. Late in the day he was given a 50-50 chance of surviving.

The 50-year-old Cravath, a cattle rancher here for more than a year, was injured in a collision between his pickup truck and an asphalt dump truck on highway 111, five miles southeast of here, about midway to the border town of Calexico.

He was rushed, unconscious, to Calexico Hospital, where his injuries were diagnosed as a brain concussion, several broken ribs, a possible lung puncture and numerous bruises and abrasions. The other driver, Henry C. Gibson, El Centro, was uninjured.

Cravath, a hearty, bluff and often brutally frank man, an outstanding football player himself at USC in the 1920's, left the sport and USC after the 1950 season.

This fall Cravath stirred up national controversy in a magazine article whose title was the tipoff of his sentiments—"The Hypocrisy of College Football."

He took athletic heads and faculty advisors to task for what he called the evils of recruiting and proselyting practices, procedures which he said were deplored by most of his former fellow coaches and in which he admitted he had personally taken an active part.

Friends and ex-friends took Jeff to task for the piece but he stuck by his guns.

It is the sixth time in the 19 years of the trophy that the Cadets have won. They won it in 1944, 1945, 1946, 1948 and 1949.

Hunter Finally Bags Big Deer

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9 (AP)—Old Tim, a buck deer so big he looked like an elk, will roam the hills of the Fort Frederick section near here no more.

For years, hunters have spotted the big guy, but not well enough to drive home a killing shot.

Delmus Shives of Big Pool checked Old Tim's carcass into the weighing station at Clear Spring, station attendant, Howard Ankeney, said today.

Ankeney said Tim was an 8-pointer weighing over 300 pounds.

Total Reaches 226, Six Short Of Mark, Girl, 16, Gets Buck

The record for deer kills during the hunting season in all probability will be broken today in Allegany County as 25 more bucks fell before hunters' guns yesterday. The three-day total has reached 226, just six short of the 232 mark established for six days in 1952.

Rain, cold and fog hampered hunters yesterday as the number of kills dropped sharply and although rain is predicted for the early morning hours today it is expected to clear up by afternoon indicating hunters will have little difficulty bagging a record number of the whitetails.

For the third straight day Shipway's Inn on Green Ridge led in numbers of deer checked. Graydon Dunlap reported 11 bucks brought there. Lewis' Store in Oldtown registered 7 kills. Tuesday Shipway's reported 31 deer checks and Lewis' Store 20.

Here are the reports from five checking stations yesterday:

Station	Total	Alleg'y
Shipway's Inn	11	11
Lewis' Store	7	7
LaVale State Police	6	4
Westernport Police	3	1
Bridge Diner, Hancock	6	2
Total	33	25

Rosemary Wharton, 16-year-old miss from Flintstone, was among the successful nimrods bagging a buck yesterday. The only member of the fair sex to report a kill, Miss Wharton shot a 6-pointer, weighing 112 pounds while hunting with a large party on Polish Mountain.

James and Louis Potts, brothers of Little Orleans, each shot a deer yesterday. James killed an 8-point, 112 pounder while Louis came home with a 5-point, 90 pounder. Both were shot near Little Orleans.

Five Cumberlanders also were numbered among yesterday's successes. Robert L. Nesbett, 232 Cumberland Street, shot a 5-point, 122 pound deer; Stanley R. Nield, 215 Offutt Street, 8-118; H. B. Rice, 213 Oldtown Road, 5-129; Raymond Casteel, 165 Bedford Street, 8-120; and Freeman Cook, RD 3, city.

Largest bag for the day was made by Earl Stafford of Lonaconing who checked in with a 10-point, 160 pounder at Westernport. He shot the buck in Green Ridge State Forest.

Former USC Grid Mentor Hurt In Crash

Jeff Cravath Is Given 50-50 Chance To Live

EL CENTRO, Calif., Dec. 9 (AP)—Former football coach Jeff Cravath, who guided the University of Southern California through nine seasons and into four Rose Bowl games, was seriously injured in an automobile accident today. Late in the day he was given a 50-50 chance of surviving.

The 50-year-old Cravath, a cattle rancher here for more than a year, was injured in a collision between his pickup truck and an asphalt dump truck on highway 111, five miles southeast of here, about midway to the border town of Calexico.

He was rushed, unconscious, to Calexico Hospital, where his injuries were diagnosed as a brain concussion, several broken ribs, a possible lung puncture and numerous bruises and abrasions. The other driver, Henry C. Gibson, El Centro, was uninjured.

Cravath, a hearty, bluff and often brutally frank man, an outstanding football player himself at USC in the 1920's, left the sport and USC after the 1950 season.

This fall Cravath stirred up national controversy in a magazine article whose title was the tipoff of his sentiments—"The Hypocrisy of College Football."

He took athletic heads and faculty advisors to task for what he called the evils of recruiting and proselyting practices, procedures which he said were deplored by most of his former fellow coaches and in which he admitted he had personally taken an active part.

Friends and ex-friends took Jeff to task for the piece but he stuck by his guns.

Orange Bowl Clash Looms Best Of All

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — What really does happen when an irresistable force collides with an immovable object?

You will find out on Jan. 1 when Oklahoma, college football's greatest rushing team, collides with Maryland, the best defensive club, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

The Oklahomans, 82nd among the 111 major teams in the country after the first three games, broke loose in their last seven contests to average 306.9 yards a game for the season. They carried the ball 591 times to gain 3,069 yards. That's 5.19 yards a try.

Maryland held its 10 foes to an average of 83.9 yards a game. The rivals slammed into the Maryland line 362 times and gained 839 yards. That comes to a stingy 2.32 yards a crack.

Oklahoma was the only team to average more than 300 yards and Maryland was the only team to hold its foes to less than a 100 yards a game.

Players Asked Chandler Advice

Happy Negotiated Pension Contract

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 (AP)—A. B. Chandler, former commissioner of baseball, said today he tried to stay out of the present dispute over pensions for players, and that it was not his fault he was brought into it.

He told a reporter he "gave the information gratis" to the player representatives who asked his advice before walking out of a meeting with Commissioner Ford Frick, last week.

That walkout occurred at the minor league meeting in Atlanta after Chandler told the players not to discuss pensions with Frick unless their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, was allowed to be present. The players want the amount of monthly pensions increased over the present $100 maximum.

At the same time Chandler told the player representatives that all radio and television money received in the World Series and the All-Star game annually belongs in the pension fund.

The club owners have under consideration a proposal to abandon the pension system.

"I negotiated that $1,000,000 a year deal with television for the pension fund," he said.

The deal he meant was the six-year-six million dollar contract with the Gillette Safety Razor Co., which runs through 1956.

Bernie Bierman May Return To Football

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—The return of Bernie Bierman, former Minnesota football coach, to the gridiron wars is a possibility he indicated here today.

Bierman hinted he might be receptive to an offer to coach in a warm climate.

But he did not indicate whether the climate in Kansas would be to his liking.

His name, as well as those of many others, have been linked with the now vacant spot at the University of Kansas.

Eagles Retain Yardage Lead

Rams Seceond In NFL Ground Gained Race

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9 (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles still retained leadership in the National Football League's yards-gained department today but the Los Angeles Rams picked up plenty of ground to narrow the gap to 102 yards.

The Eagles in eleven games have gained a total of 4,352 against 4,250 for the Rams. There's one game left in NFL play this season.

The Rams picked up 197 yards over the Eagles last Sunday.

Philadelphia has gained 1,576 on the ground, 2,776 in the air while Los Angeles has 1,990 rushing and 2,260 passing.

The Cleveland Browns, only undefeated team in the pro loop, is third with 4,052—2,542 in the air.

Cleveland, incidentally, second to the Eagles in the passing department, boasts the best aerial completion mark—63 per cent — connecting 172 times in 273 tries. The Browns are likely to break the NFL record for passing efficiency for more than 250 passes thrown in one season. The present mark of 56.8 per cent was set in 1944 by Washington.

Board Dismisses Turpin Complaint

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The British Boxing Board of Control today dismissed a complaint against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, that he had employed "unorthodox training methods" before his title fight against Bobo Olson in New York.

Turpin went 15 rounds against Olson on Oct. 22, losing on points. Later BBBC secretary Teddy Waltham, who saw the bout, reported officially that Turpin's training was "unorthodox and inadequate."

Today Turpin spent 3½ hours before the board. The statement issued was that the board "accepted Turpin's explanation of his training methods and dismissed all complaints against him." It recommended that he employe a full-time trainer for future fights and not train himself.

Terps' Top Defense Meets Oklahoma's Best Offense

Orange Bowl Clash Looms Best Of All

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — What really does happen when an irresistable force collides with an immovable object?

You will find out on Jan. 1 when Oklahoma, college football's greatest rushing team, collides with Maryland, the best defensive club, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

The Oklahomans, 82nd among the 111 major teams in the country after the first three games, broke loose in their last seven contests to average 306.9 yards a game for the season. They carried the ball 591 times to gain 3,069 yards. That's 5.19 yards a try.

Maryland held its 10 foes to an average of 83.9 yards a game. The rivals slammed into the Maryland line 362 times and gained 839 yards. That comes to a stingy 2.32 yards a crack.

Oklahoma was the only team to average more than 300 yards and Maryland was the only team to hold its foes to less than a 100 yards a game.

Players Asked Chandler Advice

Happy Negotiated Pension Contract

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 (AP)—A. B. Chandler, former commissioner of baseball, said today he tried to stay out of the present dispute over pensions for players, and that it was not his fault he was brought into it.

He told a reporter he "gave the information gratis" to the player representatives who asked his advice before walking out of a meeting with Commissioner Ford Frick, last week.

That walkout occurred at the minor league meeting in Atlanta after Chandler told the players not to discuss pensions with Frick unless their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, was allowed to be present. The players want the amount of monthly pensions increased over the present $100 maximum.

At the same time Chandler told the player representatives that all radio and television money received in the World Series and the All-Star game annually belongs in the pension fund.

The club owners have under consideration a proposal to abandon the pension system.

"I negotiated that $1,000,000 a year deal with television for the pension fund," he said.

Bernie Bierman May Return To Football

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—The return of Bernie Bierman, former Minnesota football coach, to the gridiron wars is a possibility he indicated here today.

Bierman hinted he might be receptive to an offer to coach in a warm climate.

But he did not indicate whether the climate in Kansas would be to his liking.

Eagles Retain Yardage Lead

Rams Seceond In NFL Ground Gained Race

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9 (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles still retained leadership in the National Football League's yards-gained department today but the Los Angeles Rams picked up plenty of ground to narrow the gap to 102 yards.

The Rams picked up 197 yards over the Eagles last Sunday.

Cleveland, incidentally, second to the Eagles in the passing department, boasts the best aerial completion mark—63 per cent — connecting 172 times in 273 tries. The Browns are likely to break the NFL record for passing efficiency for more than 250 passes thrown in one season. The present mark of 56.8 per cent was set in 1944 by Washington.

Board Dismisses Turpin Complaint

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The British Boxing Board of Control today dismissed a complaint against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, that he had employed "unorthodox training methods" before his title fight against Bob Olson in New York.

Turpin went 15 rounds against Olson on Oct. 22, losing on points. Later BBBC secretary Teddy Waltham, who saw the bout, reported officially that Turpin's training was "unorthodox and inadequate."

Today Turpin spent 3½ hours before the board. The statement issued was that the board "accepted Turpin's explanation of his training methods and dismissed all complaints against him." It recommended that he employ a full-time trainer for future fights and not train himself.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E P U A U J U A T L I U A U F B K M P L H K U
L S C A M N U A , B P U I U J X W M W E M N K
Q H X W I K M F P M C U W B P U A U — I U S L U .

WATCH ENEMY SIGNALS

IT IS true that signaling by one defender to another is absolutely essential to their effective work together. That is, in the long run, since they are so much in the dark that signals which beget co-operation usually do their side more good than they help the declarer. But the keen declarer keeps a close eye on them, and in occasional circumstances, can befit himself by the information so grudgingly made available to him.

	♠ A K 8 4 ♥ Q J 8 2 ♦ 10 7 ♣ 8 7 2
♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 6 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 ♣ J 10 6	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 5 3 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A J 3 ♣ Q 9 3
	♠ 10 ♥ A K 9 5 4 ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ A K 5 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1. Pass	1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥
2. Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥

Here was another case of the value involved in raising a major suit opening—either with a slight overbid to three or a slight underbid to two—instead of first bidding another suit to show strength midway between those two calls in total strength, when four trumps or more are held. If North had slightly underbid to just 2-Hearts at Table 1, South would have called three and North four. The purpose of such direct bidding is to keep the opponents from being helped in their defense by too much information.

Where the Table 1 defenders were in the dark, West opened the club J, on which East put the 9 to show the suit was not risky. South, noting that, let the J win. That lured a repeat with the club 10, which the A won. Two tops cleared trumps, whereupon the club K and 5 brought a discard of the diamond 7 from dummy. Thus South therefore lost only one trick in diamonds, plus the first in clubs, to score an extra trick.

At the other table, the bidding had a cross-ruffy sound, so a trump lead, the heart 10, was induced. After clearing trumps, the declarer tried to set up the fourth club for a diamond discard. But to do this he had to give up one trick in the suit. As soon as he did, the defenders shifted to diamonds for two tricks, holding him to exactly his contract. Thus the simple bidding, coupled with South's noting of East's signal on the first club, won the deal for his side.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K J 5 ♥ J 9 ♦ A Q 6 4 ♣ J 10 5 4
♠ A 7 4 ♥ Q 10 7 4 ♦ J 10 3 ♣ 9 8 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 6 2 ♥ A K 8 6 ♦ 8 ♣ K Q 7 2
	♠ 9 8 3 ♥ 5 3 2 ♦ K 9 7 5 2 ♣ A 6

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

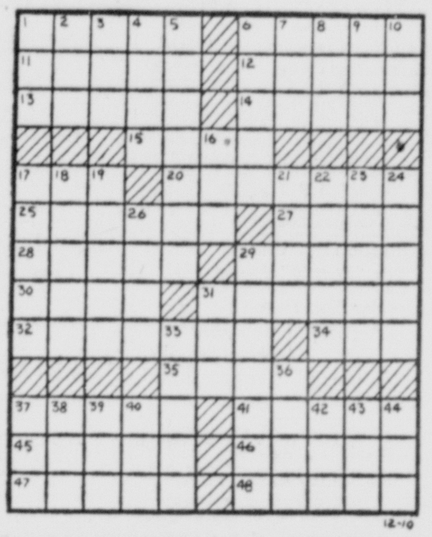
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E P U A U J U A T L I U A U F B K M P L H K U
L S C A M N U A , B P U I U J X W M W E M N K
Q H X W I K M F P M C U W B P U A U — I U S L U .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HE WHO ALLOWS OPPRESSION SHARES THE CRIME—DARWIN.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us at the time of our recent bereavement. The members of the City Fire Dept., Celanese Corp., Kelly Springfield Tire Co. and Father Lyness, those who furnished cars and sent flowers.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mary Doll Irons, who passed away 7 years ago today, Dec. 10, 1946.

Your memory is like a rose that blooms
A flower we tend so carefully,
And water with our tears.
Mom, you left us a beautiful memory,
A sorrow too great to be told.
But to us who loved you and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.

Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN

The Chrysler equipment includes: Tinted glass all windows, heater, defroster, power brakes, undercoat, backup lights, signal lights and the powerfu, torque drive with four speed forward transmission. The light gray interior is contrasted by striped plastic seat covers. The tires look like new. (The Saratoga is the car that set all the Chrysler records on the salt flats of Utah.) Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us at the time of our recent bereavement. The members of the City Fire Dept., Celanese Corp., Kelly Springfield Tire Co. and Father Lyness, those who furnished cars and sent flowers.
Mrs. Frank M. McCreary and Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mary Doll Irons, who passed away 7 years ago today, Dec. 10, 1946.

Your memory is like a rose that blooms
Across the lonely years.
A flower we tend so carefully,
And water with our tears.
Mom, you left us a beautiful memory,
A sorrow too great to be told.
But to us who loved you and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.

Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN

A goal of $200,000 toward the building of a new educational building for St. Paul's Lutheran Church has been surpassed by nearly $14,000 according to reports given last night during a "Victory Dinner" which brought the campaign to a close.

Figures tabulated on the scoreboard at the dinner held in the church, totaled $213,846, according to William A. Douglas, president of George F. Hazelwood Company, who was general chairman for the drive.

Last night's dinner, which was well attended, got underway at 6:30 o'clock with Rev. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor, giving the invocation. After the various reports were given and the funds marked on the scoreboard short talks of appreciation were given by the following:

William A. Douglas, general chairman; Dr. Charles L. Kopp, canvass committee chairman; Harvey C. Elder, training and initial gifts chairman; George W. Schwarzenbach, teams chairman; Delbert R. Kitzmiller, special gifts chairman. The hostess committee was headed by Mrs. Anna Golladay.

Plans To Be Started

Plans and construction of the new building on the old Roman property on Washington Street are expected to get underway within the year, Rev. Bowersox, pastor of the church for the past 28 years, announced last night.

The basement of the structure will be used for recreational purposes while the other floors will be used for education. Temporary quarters for worship will be included until a new edifice can be constructed, Rev. Bowersox added.

Fund Drive Victory Smiles

Equipment Readied For Snow Removal

Major repairs on 15 hangars at the Cumberland Municipal Airport will be completed early in January, Charles F. Heller, superintendent of maintenance, reported yesterday.

Heller said the work on five of the buildings has been completed and good progress is being made on the rest of the task.

The major overhaul of the buildings, which were constructed about 10 years ago, consists of installing 40-foot steel trusses on concrete block pilasters, and setting new doors in place.

10 Trusses In Place

Ten of the trusses, he said, are already in place. The steel members are being installed to replace badly sagging wooden trusses which were supported by wooden pilasters.

Heller said the bodies of the hangars are in fairly good condition and will last for some time before major repairs are needed.

The work which began October 19 is being done by Heller and his assistants, aided by two carpenters.

Original plans called for installing a third of the trusses and doors this year, and completing the others in succeeding years, but the work is being pushed through to protect the city's investment in the buildings.

Will Remove Snow

Heller said all of the snow removal equipment is kept in readiness at all times.

Deed To $15,000 Property Is Filed

A deed to property valued at about $15,000 was filed yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

The property was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Cover, Bowling Green to Mr. and Mrs. Ervin B. Calain, 121 South Allegany Street. The land is located on the southerly side of LaVale Court known as Lots 110 and 111 in LaVale Boulevard Court Addition.

Bedford Street Sewer Underway

Progress is being made on the installation of a sewer line at the far end of Bedford Street, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner.

Some 300 feet of the eight-inch sewer line has already been laid. It will run from the newly installed sewage ejector station to the city limits at Miller Avenue.

The new sewer line is one of several which had to be installed to make full use of the ejector station.

When the line is placed into service, the station will force all sewage from the far end of Bedford and Frederick Streets to Fectig Avenue, where it will run to Wills Creek by gravity.

Rules On Septic Tanks And Wells Under Fire

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Some members of the Legislative Council jumped the State Health Department today for putting into effect new state-wide regulations on private wells and sewage disposal systems.

Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) declared "we may have to repeal all these sections" of law under which the regulations were adopted by the State Board of Health.

They went into effect Nov. 16.

Advance Approval

Anyone putting down a new well or building or rebuilding a cess pool or septic tank has to make application and get approval in advance from his county health department.

Real estate developers opening up new sub-divisions have to submit their plans in advance, too, for the checking of water supply and sewage disposal arrangements.

The most controversial part of the regulations applying to subdividers is that houses cannot be built on lots of less than 15,000 square feet if they have their own wells and septic tanks or cess pools, 10,000 square feet if they have one or the other.

"You're setting yourself above the zoning boards in the counties. You're sitting up here at a desk in Baltimore and trying to make us a Utopia and we don't want to be a Utopia down in Calvert County.

"We'll cut out some of these

Five Area Men Enlist In Navy

Sworn in at Baltimore were James Luther Bohn, 18, of 310 Park Street; Harry William Bowser, 19, of RD 1, Accident; Arthur Kemp Shaffer, 18, Box 86, Swanton; William Earl Scott, 18, Cresaptown, and James Wilson Williams, 18, RD 3, Bedford, Pa.

Chief Mead pointed out the five enlistees had applied for enlistment in April, and advised young men who plan to enlist in the Navy after graduation from high school in June to apply for enlistment now due to the long waiting period.

Enlistments are being accepted for the regular Navy and Naval Reserve. Interested persons should contact Chief Mead in Room 326, Post Office Building.

Magistrates To Elect New Officers Sat.

Thompson Nominated For Vice President

Allegany County magistrates will attend the annual luncheon meeting, election and installation of officers of the Trial Magistrates Association of Maryland Saturday at 12 noon at Marling House, Baltimore.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson, of Allegany County Juvenile Court, has been nominated as candidate for first vice president of the organization. He is now a member of the executive committee.

Other nominees of the association's nominating committee are: Milton K. Larrimore, Salisbury, president; Samuel Gaboff, Baltimore, second vice president; Charlotte Main, Baltimore, recording secretary, and Vito A. Marino, Baltimore, secretary-treasurer.

Nominated for the executive committee were Ralph W. Smith, Ellicott City; Paul Sullivan, Baltimore; F. Walter Hawtin, Aberdeen; Alfred D. Noyes, Silver Springs, Stanley Scherr, Baltimore; Osborne P. Beall and John T. Farrell, both Baltimore County, and Simon Schoenfield, Baltimore.

Magistrate Thompson said besides other business the magistrates will discuss two recommendations made at a joint meeting of the nominating and executive committees.

The proposed legislation recommended by the groups include: a bill to propose making it mandatory for each of the counties in the state to provide appropriate magistrate courts, which will offer ample room, facilities and dignity to the office of magistrate. The bill will also make it compulsory for magistrates to carry on business at the various places designed except in emergencies.

The second proposal is a law to make it mandatory for the county commissioners of the various counties of Maryland and the comptroller of Baltimore City to pass resolutions creating County Commissioners Magistrates Accounts.

Miners Hospital Plans Receive Final Approval

To Ask Bids On $250,000 Addition

The last obstacle to the construction of a $250,000 addition to Miners Hospital at Frostburg has been removed with the final acceptance of plans by the Maryland Department of Public Improvement.

Nathan L. Smith of Baltimore, director of the department, said last night the department's Board of Architectural Review had submitted the plans with its approval yesterday.

Smith said contractors will be asked this week to submit bids for the job by January 7.

Copies of the plans and specifications will be prepared immediately so that contractors may get their bids in as early as possible.

Clears Way For Building

The board probably will open the bids January 11 at its first meeting after the deadline. If the low bid is satisfactory, declared Smith, the board will award the contract on the following Monday, January 18.

Completion of plans and specifications had been held up for some time by architectural and engineering difficulties, and drawings and figures underwent several revisions while the problems were being ironed out. The board's final approval followed conferences with S. Russ Minter, local architect for the project, and Philip Hartig of Frostburg, engineer.

Smith said there may be some "minor corrections" in the final plans, but that his department at present is satisfied with them as they stand.

The board's approval clears the way for construction as soon as a narrow strip of land next to the site, needed primarily for access, has been acquired.

Should Begin Soon

Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for the board of governors of the hospital, last night said arrangements for the transfer of the strip of land are in progress.

Fletcher said he had run into "no undue delay" in concluding agreements.

Smith said his department expects construction to get under way during the next building season, depending on the weather and barring unforeseen complications.

He pointed out that the contractor must first order his materials, including a heating plant which must be constructed for the addition. Then excavation will begin.

A dangerous loop in the existing road to the hospital is to be removed and an access road is to be laid to the rear of the new addition.

The addition will be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients.

B&O Head Offers Support Against Air Pollution

Pledges Cooperation In Abatement Plan

Full cooperation in Cumberland's smoke abatement program was promised yesterday by A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Speaking at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting, Conley said the B&O wants to cooperate in the city's drive against air pollution in the interest of smoke abatement, economy and for the welfare of the citizens.

Smoke observations made against the B&O, he said, should be reported immediately so complaints can be handled while they are "still hot."

Better results can be obtained, he added, if the railroad is able to make prompt investigations of complaints in connection with its educational program.

No Bad Violations

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Western Maryland Railway's Elkins Division, was acting chairman of the meeting held to discuss the smoke record made by the B&O and Western Maryland here in October and November.

The B&O had three "cautions" and one "bad" violation in 148 observations and the Western Maryland a clear record both months on motive power.

B&O officials reported they have made all suggested repairs on the Queen City Station boiler and it will operate with 90 per cent efficiency.

Term Boiler Efficient

A. E. Beckman, master mechanic, added the railroad has installed Pilojets, overfired steam jets and ring blowers in the stack. He added the chamber has been cleaned in the breeching of one boiler and that additional work is slated on the other Saturday.

There is some misunderstanding, he said, as to the firing, which is in charge of the Murphy Company, which leases the hotel, and firemen at the hotel have been asked to take instructions from Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, in operating the boilers.

Owens said the boiler is obsolete and should be replaced.

To this Conley replied the B&O's position is that the boilers are efficient and that proper firing by Murphy employes will eliminate excessive smoke.

The trouble, he said, came after firemen there got some bad coal, which resulted in the tips of the grates being burned out. To eliminate the trouble, grates have been repaired and better coal secured.

Complaints from two engines in the round house, he said, resulted after several Diesels failed and steam engines had to be rushed into service. Steps have been taken to prevent repetitions of the trouble.

Local 26 To Act On Yule Proposal

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will hold a special membership meeting Friday at 6:30 p. m.

The meeting was called to reconsider a motion acted on Saturday, calling for a Christmas party for the children of furloughed workers.

The date and scope of the party, whether for children of furloughed or of all workers, will be decided.

Clinics Are Planned

Child hygiene conferences will be held by the Health Department today at 9 a. m. in Lonaconing and at 10 a. m. in Frostburg, and tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in Potomac Park and at 10 a. m. in Midland. A chest clinic will be held Friday from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

Stores To Hold "Men's Night"

"Men's Nite" will be observed from 7 to 9 p. m. at which time clerks will help the men pick out that special gift for a certain person.

Merchants are using various means by which to lure the men to their counters, and look over their large assortment of merchandise. Some stores will have special bargains during the two-hour period; some will serve refreshments while others will offer various prizes.

Appropriate music for the occasion will be played at some of the stores and personnel will be on hand to give any information necessary to aid the men.

In a number of departments, models will show the men the latest styles in coats, robes, and dresses.

Two Soldiers Return From Overseas Duty

Two local and area soldiers recently returned from overseas and after processing at the 2053d ASU Reception Center at Fort George G. Meade will be placed on rotation leave.

They are Cpl. Ray T. Izzett, 310 Cole Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Izzett and M/Sgt. Cletus L. Diggs of RD 1, city. After completion of their leaves they will report to Fort Meade for reassignment.

DeWitt Hyde On Listening Tour Of Area

Wait-See Attitude Found In District

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, visiting Maryland's Sixth District last night said he believes the new administration will produce a good program when Congress convenes next month.

In Allegany County yesterday after making scheduled stops Monday and Tuesday in Frederick and Washington Counties, Hyde (R-Md.) said he has found a "wait-and-see" attitude among citizens of his district. "They are expecting the administration to set up a better program," he added, "and I believe it will."

He said the Social Security program will be broadened, and certain scheduled tax cuts will probably be passed. Slashes are expected in the excess profits tax, and the 11 per cent cut in personal tax will go through as planned.

He said there will definitely be revisions in the Taft-Hartley Act, and any proposed amendments to the law will be readily passed by Congress.

People in the district are not "upset" about anything in particular, Hyde pointed out, but they are waiting and expecting something better in the way of a program.

Yesterday, Hyde also visited and talked with citizens in Westernport, Lonaconing and Frostburg. Last night he held conferences with Cumberlanders in his office here in the Post Office building.

Both in the George's Creek area and in Cumberland, the congressman noted, problems brought to him included largely the lack of employment in this area. East of here and especially in Hagerstown, he noted, the situation was just the opposite.

The lack-of-jobs problem here was presented to Hyde both directly and indirectly. Those that were not seeking employment, were seeking compensation indirectly through servicemen's benefits, etc.

The U. S. Representative said this current tour of his district was a "listening" one in which he is listening to the problems and the needs of the people so he can help them during the sessions next month.

Today he will be in Garrett County and an evening conference is scheduled at the William James Hotel, Oakland.

Murphy Workers Get Yule Bonus

Newly eligible employes received $5 awards and the bonuses ranged up to $80 for those who have been employed for 15 years or more. Seven of the workers here received the maximum bonus.

A special Christmas gift was also sent to workers of the firm who are serving in the armed forces.

Over 8,000 Murphy Company workers in the company's 300 stores shared in the bonuses which totaled over $200,000.

In addition to the annual Christmas bonus, the company offers its workers paid vacations, company paid life insurance policies, sickness, accident and retirement benefits and a wage increment system based on service.

The annual Family Night of the local store was held last night.

Man Reported Missing

City Police have been asked to locate Harry William West, 25, of 118 Harrison Street, who has been missing from his home since Saturday.

West is five feet, six inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds, has grey-blue eyes and sandy hair and has a one-inch scar on his right jaw.

A Cup Of Coffee Or Your Keys Is Safety Idea For Bartenders

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Ask for "one for the road" at your favorite tavern over the holiday season and you may get two choices.

You can have a cup of coffee free, or—if you insist on a more heroic beverage—you'll have to give up the keys to your car to get it.

That was the safety program agreed upon here today when leaders of the liquor and tavern associations of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia met with delegates of safety organizations.

The conference was called by Paul E. Burke, director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

The free-coffee-or-your-keys gimmick was proposed to the conference by the Maryland State Licensed Beverage Association. It asked the nation's 150,000 tavern operators to cooperate.

M. A. Rappaport, past president of the Maryland association, said the approach to the annual holiday problem of drinking drivers was for use on patrons who look as if they "might approach an unsafe driving condition with an additional drink or so."

"It is the duty of the tavern owner and of every other host, public or private, to safeguard guests," Rappaport said.

"The measures suggested at this conference can and should be applied everywhere in the nation in the public interest," he said.

Peoples Counsel To PSC Urges Action To Halt Rising Utility Rates

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP) — The Peoples Counsel to the Public Service Commission today urged Maryland legislators to adopt "net original cost" as part of the formula for fixing utility rates in the state.

Joseph Allen explained his ideas to the budget and finance committee of the Legislative Council, saying he was "hepped up" about it.

"The law is wrong," he said.

The question came before the Council last week when Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset) proposed a one-year freeze on all utility rates and announced he would introduce a "net original cost" bill.

Allen gave it as his "off-hand opinion" today that a freeze would be unconstitutional.

Allows Profit

The law provides, Allen explained, that the PSC must give a utility a rate which will allow it an adequate profit percentage on the "fair value" of its investment.

The Court of Appeals, he went on, has ruled the PSC may consider the current replacement value as well as the original cost of a utility's property and equipment in determining "fair value."

For example, it would cost eight cents now to replace a spike which a transit company bought for a cent and a half when it was driven into a street car track.

Allen pointed out 27 states now have adopted "net original cost" as a factor in rate bases.

He said its adoption would have at least the tendency to bring rates down.

The Consolidated Gas and Electric Co. of Baltimore, he pointed out, is currently asking a rate based on a "fair value" 145 million dollars in excess of net original cost. He gave a 30-million figure for the Baltimore Transit Co.

Hikes Pending

These utilities, plus the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. and the Hagerstown Gas Co., now have rate increases pending before the PSC.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) asked if the PSC law should be strengthened to give the commission greater control over company expenditures for new facilities and operating expenses.

Allen said the commission already has the power to turn down expenses it considers improvident, but for full use of the power it would have to have as big a staff as the companies.

Kimble said he objects to having to pay higher telephone rates to pay for elaborate advertising the telephone company uses to explain why it needs higher rates.

Consumer Pays

Allen pointed out consumers also had to pay higher rates to pay the salaries of company officials and outside lawyers and engineers hired to persuade the PSC that consumers should pay higher rates.

He cited a $150,000 to $175,000 estimate in a recent telephone case and a $200,000 estimate in the gas company case. He said as Peoples Counsel he was fighting "artillery with a pop gun."

Most of the expense, most of the time, he contended, was devoted to testimony on "intangible and imponderable factors" the utilities used to persuade the PSC that their "fair value" is in excess of net original cost.

A goal of $200,000 toward the building of a new educational building for St. Paul's Lutheran Church has been surpassed by nearly $14,000 according to reports given last night during a "Victory Dinner" which brought the campaign to a close.

Figures tabulated on the scoreboard at the dinner held in the church, totaled $213,846, according to William A. Douglas, president of George F. Hazelwood Company, who was general chairman for the drive.

Last night's dinner, which was well attended, got underway at 6:30 o'clock with Rev. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor, giving the invocation. After the various reports were given and the funds marked on the scoreboard short talks of appreciation were given by the following:

William A. Douglas, general chairman; Dr. Charles L. Kopp, canvass committee chairman; Harvey C. Elder, training and initial gifts chairman; George W. Schwarzenbach, teams chairman; Delbert R. Kitzmiller, special gifts chairman. The hostess committee was headed by Mrs. Anna Golladay.

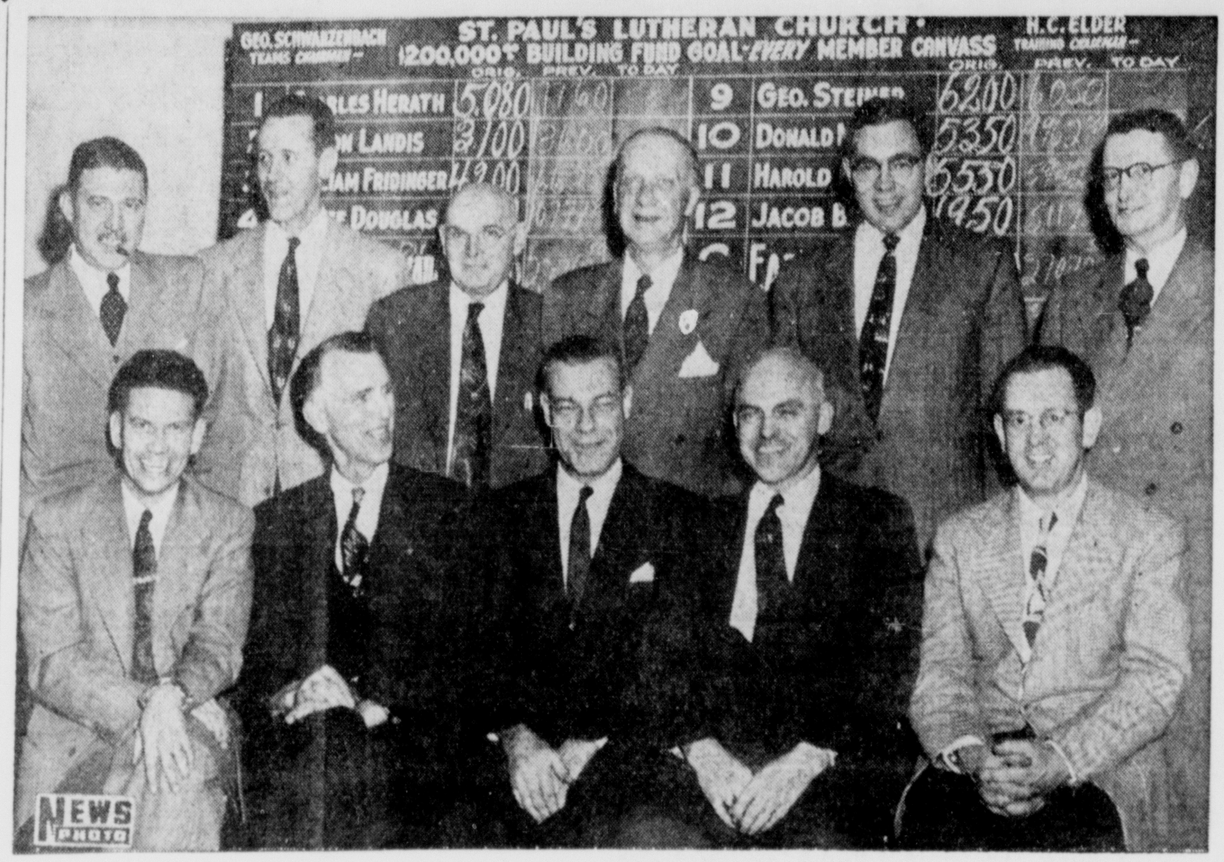
The basement of the structure will be used for recreational purposes while the other floors will be used for education. Temporary quarters for worship will be included until a new edifice can be constructed, Rev. Bowersox added.



Fund Drive Victory Smiles

Equipment Readied For Snow Removal

Major repairs on 15 hangars at the Cumberland Municipal Airport will be completed early in January, Charles F. Heller, superintendent of maintenance, reported yesterday.

Heller said the work on five of the buildings has been completed and good progress is being made on the rest of the task.

The major overhaul of the buildings, which were constructed about 10 years ago, consists of installing 40-foot steel trusses on concrete block pilasters, and setting new doors in place.

10 Trusses In Place

Ten of the trusses, he said, are already in place. The steel members are being installed to replace badly sagging wooden trusses which were supported by wooden pilasters.

New doors were made at a local mill, of white pine frame, covered with exterior type plywood and protected with two coats of paint.

Heller said the bodies of the hangars are in fairly good condition and will last for some time before major repairs are needed.

The work which began October 19 is being done by Heller and his assistants, aided by two carpenters.

Original plans called for installing a third of the trusses and doors this year, and completing the others in succeeding years, but the work is being pushed through to protect the city's investment in the buildings.

Will Remove Snow

The work can be halted within a few hours by snow.

Heller said all of the snow removal equipment is kept in readiness at all times.

This includes a six ton truck and tractor, both equipped with snow removal blades.

Bedford Street Sewer Underway

Progress is being made on the installation of a sewer line at the far end of Bedford Street, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner.

Some 300 feet of the eight-inch sewer line has already been laid. It will run from the newly installed sewage ejector station to the city limits at Miller Avenue.

The new sewer line is one of several which had to be installed to make full use of the ejector station.

When the line is placed into service, the station will force all sewage from the far end of Bedford and Frederick Streets to Fectig Avenue, where it will run to Wills Creek by gravity.

Legislators Jump State Health Dept. Regulations

Rules On Septic Tanks And Wells Under Fire

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Some members of the Legislative Council jumped the State Health Department today for putting into effect new state-wide regulations on private wells and sewage disposal systems.

Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) declared "we may have to repeal all these sections" of law under which the regulations were adopted by the State Board of Health.

They went into effect Nov. 16.

Advance Approval

Anyone putting down a new well or building or rebuilding a cess pool or septic tank has to make application and get approval in advance from his county health department.

Real estate developers opening up new sub-divisions have to submit their plans in advance, too, for the checking of water supply and sewage disposal arrangements.

The most controversial part of the regulations applying to subdividers is that houses cannot be built on lots of less than 15,000 square feet if they have their own wells and septic tanks or cess pools, 10,000 square feet if they have one or the other.

"The State Health department is setting itself up as a kind of a super-czar," complained Goldstein.

"You're setting yourself above the zoning boards in the counties. You're sitting up here at a desk in Baltimore and trying to make us a Utopia and we don't want to be a Utopia down in Calvert County.

"We'll cut out some of these

Five Area Men Enlist In Navy

Sworn in at Baltimore were James Luther Bohn, 18, of 310 Park Street; Harry William Bowser, 19, of RD 1, Accident; Arthur Kemp Shaffer, 18, Box 86, Swanton; William Earl Scott, 18, Cresaptown, and James Wilson Williams, 18, RD 3, Bedford, Pa.

Chief Mead pointed out the five enlistees had applied for enlistment in April, and advised young men who plan to enlist in the Navy after graduation from high school in June to apply for enlistment now due to the long waiting period.

Enlistments are being accepted for the regular Navy and Naval Reserve. Interested persons should contact Chief Mead in Room 326, Post Office Building.

Magistrates To Elect New Officers Sat.

Thompson Nominated For Vice President

Allegany County magistrates will attend the annual luncheon meeting, election and installation of officers of the Trial Magistrates Association of Maryland Saturday at 12 noon at Marling House, Baltimore.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson, of Allegany County Juvenile Court, has been nominated as candidate for first vice president of the organization. He is now a member of the executive committee.

Other nominees of the association's nominating committee are: Milton K. Larrimore, Salisbury, president; Samuel Gaboff, Baltimore, second vice president; Charlotte Main, Baltimore, recording secretary, and Vito A. Marino, Baltimore, secretary-treasurer.

Nominated for the executive committee were Ralph W. Smith, Ellicott City; Paul Sullivan, Baltimore; F. Walter Hawtin, Aberdeen; Alfred D. Noyes, Silver Springs, Stanley Scherr, Baltimore; Osborne P. Beall and John T. Farrell, both Baltimore County, and Simon Schoenfield, Baltimore.

Magistrate Thompson said besides other business the magistrates will discuss two recommendations made at a joint meeting of the nominating and executive committees.

The proposed legislation recommended by the groups include: a bill to propose making it mandatory for each of the counties in the state to provide appropriate magistrate courts, which will offer ample room, facilities and dignity to the office of magistrate. The bill will also make it compulsory for magistrates to carry on business at the various places designed except in emergencies.

The second proposal is a law to make it mandatory for the county commissioners of the various counties of Maryland and the comptroller of Baltimore City to pass resolutions creating County Commissioners Magistrates Accounts.

Miners Hospital Plans Receive Final Approval

To Ask Bids On $250,000 Addition

The last obstacle to the construction of a $250,000 addition to Miners Hospital at Frostburg has been removed with the final acceptance of plans by the Maryland Department of Public Improvement.

Nathan L. Smith of Baltimore, director of the department, said last night the department's Board of Architectural Review had submitted the plans with its approval yesterday.

Smith said contractors will be asked this week to submit bids for the job by January 7.

Copies of the plans and specifications will be prepared immediately so that contractors may get their bids in as early as possible.

Clears Way For Building

The board probably will open the bids January 11 at its first meeting after the deadline. If the low bid is satisfactory, declared Smith, the board will award the contract on the following Monday, January 18.

Completion of plans and specifications had been held up for some time by architectural and engineering difficulties, and drawings and figures underwent several revisions while the problems were being ironed out. The board's final approval followed conferences with S. Russ Minter, local architect for the project, and Philip Hartig of Frostburg, engineer.

Smith said there may be some "minor corrections" in the final plans, but that his department at present is satisfied with them as they stand.

The board's approval clears the way for construction as soon as a narrow strip of land next to the site, needed primarily for access, has been acquired.

Should Begin Soon

Paul M. Fletcher, attorney for the board of governors of the hospital, last night said arrangements for the transfer of the strip of land are in progress.

Fletcher said he had run into "no undue delay" in concluding agreements.

Smith said his department expects construction to get under way during the next building season, depending on the weather and barring unforeseen complications.

He pointed out that the contractor must first order his materials, including a heating plant which must be constructed for the addition. Then excavation will begin.

A dangerous loop in the existing road to the hospital is to be removed and an access road is to be laid to the rear of the new addition.

The addition will be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients.

B&O Head Offers Support Against Air Pollution

Pledges Cooperation In Abatement Plan

Full cooperation in Cumberland's smoke abatement program was promised yesterday by A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Speaking at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting, Conley said the B&O wants to cooperate in the city's drive against air pollution in the interest of smoke abatement, economy and for the welfare of the citizens.

Smoke observations made against the B&O, he said, should be reported immediately so complaints can be handled while they are "still hot."

Better results can be obtained, he added, if the railroad is able to make prompt investigations of complaints in connection with its educational program.

No Bad Violations

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Western Maryland Railway's Elkins Division, was acting chairman of the meeting held to discuss the smoke record made by the B&O and Western Maryland here in October and November.

The B&O had three "cautions" and one "bad" violation in 148 observations and the Western Maryland a clear record both months on motive power.

Two stationary boiler installations were discussed during the 25-minute meeting.

B&O officials reported they have made all suggested repairs on the Queen City Station boiler and it will operate with 90 per cent efficiency.

Term Boiler Efficient

A. E. Beckman, master mechanic, added the railroad has installed Pilojets, overfired steam jets and ring blowers in the stack. He added the chamber has been cleaned in the breeching of one boiler and that additional work is slated on the other Saturday.

There is some misunderstanding, he said, as to the firing, which is in charge of the Murphy Company, which leases the hotel, and firemen at the hotel have been asked to take instructions from Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, in operating the boilers.

Owens said the boiler is obsolete and should be replaced.

To this Conley replied the B&O's position is that the boilers are efficient and that proper firing by Murphy employes will eliminate excessive smoke.

One of the problems, Owens said, is Western Maryland Junction, since smoke from there blows to Cumberland when the wind is right.

The trouble, he said, came after firemen there got some bad coal, which resulted in the tips of the grates being burned out. To eliminate the trouble, grates have been repaired and better coal secured.

Complaints from two engines in the round house, he said, resulted after several Diesels failed and steam engines had to be rushed into service. Steps have been taken to prevent repetitions of the trouble.

Local 26 To Act On Yule Proposal

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will hold a special membership meeting Friday at 6:30 p. m.

The meeting was called to reconsider a motion acted on Saturday, calling for a Christmas party for the children of furloughed workers.

The date and scope of the party, whether for children of furloughed or of all workers, will be decided.

Clinics Are Planned

Child hygiene conferences will be held by the Health Department today at 9 a. m. in Lonaconing and at 10 a. m. in Frostburg, and tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in Potomac Park and at 10 a. m. in Midland. A chest clinic will be held Friday from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

Stores To Hold "Men's Night"

Many stores of Cumberland are going "all out" tonight to aid men shoppers in the purchase of Christmas gifts for the womenfolk.

"Men's Nite" will be observed from 7 to 9 p. m. at which time clerks will help the men pick out that special gift for a certain person.

Merchants are using various means by which to lure the men to their counters, and look over their large assortment of merchandise. Some stores will have special bargains during the two-hour period; some will serve refreshments while others will offer various prizes.

Appropriate music for the occasion will be played at some of the stores and personnel will be on hand to give any information necessary to aid the men.

In a number of departments, models will show the men the latest styles in coats, robes, and dresses.

Two Soldiers Return From Overseas Duty

Two local and area soldiers recently returned from overseas and after processing at the 2053d ASU Reception Center at Fort George G. Meade will be placed on rotation leave.

They are Cpl. Ray T. Izzett, 310 Cole Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Izzett and M/Sgt. Cletus L. Diggs of RD 1, city. After completion of their leaves they will report to Fort Meade for reassignment.

DeWitt Hyde On Listening Tour Of Area

Wait-See Attitude Found In District

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, visiting Maryland's Sixth District last night said he believes the new administration will produce a good program when Congress convenes next month.

In Allegany County yesterday after making scheduled stops Monday and Tuesday in Frederick and Washington Counties, Hyde (R-Md.) said he has found a "wait-and-see" attitude among citizens of his district. "They are expecting the administration to set up a better program," he added, "and I believe it will."

He said the Social Security program will be broadened, and certain scheduled tax cuts will probably be passed. Slashes are expected in the excess profits tax, and the 11 per cent cut in personal tax will go through as planned.

He said there will definitely be revisions in the Taft-Hartley Act, and any proposed amendments to the law will be readily passed by Congress.

People in the district are not "upset" about anything in particular, Hyde pointed out, but they are waiting and expecting something better in the way of a program.

Yesterday, Hyde also visited and talked with citizens in Westernport, Lonaconing and Frostburg. Last night he held conferences with Cumberlanders in his office here in the Post Office building.

Both in the George's Creek area and in Cumberland, the congressman noted, problems brought to him included largely the lack of employment in this area. East of here and especially in Hagerstown, he noted, the situation was just the opposite.

The lack-of-jobs problem here was presented to Hyde both directly and indirectly. Those that were not seeking employment, were seeking compensation indirectly through servicemen's benefits, etc.

The U. S. Representative said this current tour of his district was a "listening" one in which he is listening to the problems and the needs of the people so he can help them during the sessions next month.

Today he will be in Garrett County and an evening conference is scheduled at the William James Hotel, Oakland.

Murphy Workers Get Yule Bonus

Christmas gift bonuses were presented to 103 members of the staff of the G. C. Murphy Company store here yesterday.

The awards were presented by M. W. Bastian, manager, under the Christmas gift bonus plan which has been in effect for over 25 years.

Newly eligible employes received $5 awards and the bonuses ranged up to $80 for those who have been employed for 15 years or more. Seven of the workers here received the maximum bonus.

A special Christmas gift was also sent to workers of the firm who are serving in the armed forces.

Over 8,000 Murphy Company workers in the company's 300 stores shared in the bonuses which totaled over $200,000.

In addition to the annual Christmas bonus, the company offers its workers paid vacations, company paid life insurance policies, sickness, accident and retirement benefits and a wage increment system based on service.

The annual Family Night of the local store was held last night.

Man Reported Missing

City Police have been asked to locate Harry William West, 25, of 118 Harrison Street, who has been missing from his home since Saturday.

A Cup Of Coffee Or Your Keys Is Safety Idea For Bartenders

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 (AP)—Ask for "one for the road" at your favorite tavern over the holiday season and you may get two choices.

You can have a cup of coffee free, or—if you insist on a more heroic beverage—you'll have to give up the keys to your car to get it.

That was the safety program agreed upon here today when leaders of the liquor and tavern associations of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia met with delegates of safety organizations.

The conference was called by Paul E. Burke, director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

The free-coffee-or-your-keys gimmick was proposed to the conference by the Maryland State Licensed Beverage Association. It asked the nation's 150,000 tavern operators to cooperate.

M. A. Rappaport, past president of the Maryland association, said the approach to the annual holiday problem of drinking drivers was for use on patrons who look as if they "might approach an unsafe driving condition with an additional drink or so."

"It is the duty of the tavern owner and of every other host, public or private, to safeguard guests," Rappaport said.

"The measures suggested at this conference can and should be applied everywhere in the nation in the public interest," he said.
